CUBANS IN BATTLE; 500 DEAD

$2,000,000 SET AS CITY'S GOAL IN RELIEF DRIVE

Samuel Insull Jr. to Direct Campaign.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

A total of $2,500,000—76 per cent more than last winter—is the sum

R. L. RYERSON JR.

Samuel Insull Jr., who was named yesterday as head of the campaign committee. He will devote his time to the drive until the $2,000,000 has been pledged. It requires only five months to raise the [illegible] obtained for last winter.

Start Drive at Once.

Organization for the drive will begin at once and it will be a joint effort of the relief organizations of Chicago, of which the five largest are:

Catholic Charities.
Jewish Charities.
Salvation Army.
United Charities.

The fund, now operated in a coordinating committee under Gov. Emmerson's relief commission for the last year, is now in force to conduct individual campaigns for funds this fall, but many fund-raising drives will be consolidated into this one $2,500,000 campaign.

All of the money obtained will be turned over to the relief agencies, which will distribute it to the unfortunate families and homeless men and women. It is the fund decided upon, after exhaustive studies of estimated needs, is hoped to cover the requirements of the relief agencies to Oct. 1, 1932.

Fund Is Larger Than Ever.

"More families are destitute in Chicago and Cook county than ever before," said Mr. Ryerson in announcing his campaign. "The number of homeless men and women in need of food and shelter is also greater than ever before.

"The need is larger and more pressing now than it was last winter and will be even greater with the approach of cold weather. The citizens are faced with a great emergency. Those who have and those who are employed must help those who are in need.

"The amount was determined after a careful study of needs by a committee of business men working in connection with the Chicago Council of Social Agencies. Those who contribute to this fund may be assured there will be no waste. The money will be disbursed by experienced men who will keep a careful check of expenditures."

Insull Tells of Plans.

Mr. Insull Jr., who will lead the relief drive campaign, said:

"My first task is the creation of a campaign organization. Chicago's leading citizens—men with reputations for achievement—will be asked to work actively and aggressively participate. Business men will be asked to give of their time and energy. Some of them will probably devote most of their time over the next few months to the drive. Personally, I have taken a leave of absence from business. For what they are worth, my energies will be wholly at the disposal of the committee until its successful conclusion. The plans of the campaign will be made, I hope, in a few days.

"I must add there is one thing that should be made plain at the start. There will be no campaign overhead and no organization expense of the Emergency Relief fund of Cook county. Every cent contributed will be turned over to the fund for distribution among the distressed through the regular established relief stations."

Gov. Emmerson has approved the policy, strictly following the lines of the governor's relief commission last winter.

Chicago Needs to Co-operate.

A group of citizens told Mayor Cermak yesterday that the demands for relief are so numerous that private charity cannot meet the demand. They hope a special session of congress, called by the state legislature, and some other plan to prevent a recurrence

Mayor Benches 2 Veteran Captains

ORDER FOLLOWS CERMAK'S NIGHT CALLS ON POLICE

"Pluck List" of 150 Is Prepared.

Mayor Cermak took a hand in police affairs yesterday and instructed Acting Commissioner Alcock to relieve two veteran captains of their commands. The orders were issued last night, sending "to the bench" Capt. Thomas Duffy of the Sheffield avenue station and Capt. Thomas J. Pilkington of the Marquette station. This means that the two commanders were put on inactive duty at the detective bureau.

The transfers, it was said, were a result of the mayor's Haroun al Raschid trips about the city after nightfall, trips on which he has dropped in unexpectedly on district police stations several times.

Report Raid Order Unheeded.

Capt. Duffy was transferred, according to reports, because he failed to carry out the mayor's instructions to raid two gambling houses in his district. One of them, the "Aquarium Social Club, Inc.," is operated at 514 Diversey parkway by Frankie Pope, often styled the millionaire newsboy. It is protected by an injunction issued on Aug. 12 by Judge Joseph Burke.

The other place, across the street, at 513 Diversey parkway, is a handbook resort of which Martin Guilfoyle, until recently the boss of a string of gambling houses in the 30th ward, is the reputed owner.

After Capt. Duffy had been notified of the existence of the resorts, it was reported, and no raids followed, the mayor called on Lieut. Thomas McGrath, assigned to his own office. McGrath raided the places Tuesday.

Yesterday, it was learned, the mayor got the report of the raids and immediately instructed Acting Commissioner Alcock to transfer Capt. Duffy. Capt. Pilkington was included in the transfer order because, the mayor is reported to have said: "He is too old to be handling a busy district like Marquette."

Christensen Is Shifted.

Capt. Alfred C. Christensen, who for some months has been assigned to the missing persons bureau, nominally supervising the activities of Sergt. Joseph Starshak, veteran head of that detail, was transferred to Sheffield avenue. Lieut. Albert Mikes, who has been in charge of the dog pound, was sent to Marquette district, the supposition being that he will be made acting captain there.

The transfer of Capt. Pilkington sent new tremors to the knees of veteran officers in the police department already worried by Mayor Cermak's hint that he intends to force all policemen over 65 years old to retire. Capt. Pilkington is 63 years old.

A list of policemen over the retirement age is being prepared by James E. McSweeney, secretary of the police department, and probably will be in the hands of Commissioner Alcock before this evening, it was said. It will contain some 150 names, it was reported.

Old Captains on Force.

Capt. Michael Evans, who installed the fingerprint system in the Chicago police department and has been in charge of the bureau of identification ever since, is said to be the oldest officer in the department. Although he is in his eighties, he appears for work at 8 o'clock daily.

Other captains who are 65 years old, or in that neighborhood, are Capt. Duffy; Matthew Zimmer, now in charge of the automobile detail; Patrick McCauley of the Grand Crossing district; Charles Larkin, assigned to the school of instruction; Joseph Palczynski, commanding at Racine avenue; Patrick Harding, commanding Rogers Park district; Joseph Johnson, "on the bench" at the detective bureau, and John Ptacek, commanding Lawndale district. Lieut. John Norton, chief of detectives, is 67 years old.

ONLY ONE KISS A WEEK; WIFE ASKS DIVORCE

The flaming ardor which caused Sam Abson to carry her off in a Crown Point elopement in 1925 has dwindled to the point where he now passes out but one kiss a week, Mrs. Mary E. Abson, 1101 North Richmond street, charged yesterday in a bill for divorce filed in the Superior court by Attorney Harry X. Cole.

The kiss was handed out each Monday morning as Sam left for his work at a bakery, and she and their children, Robert, 5, and Margaret, 4 years old, went to the door to bid him goodby. Further, she charged, it was no good rousing smack but just a peckish sort of a kiss, on her forehead.

Her bill charged cruelty. He beat her, she charged, and on two occasions blacked her eye.

Shot as He Sleeps in Bed Near Window of His Home

John Napolioni, 26 years old, a peddler, was mysteriously shot early this morning as he lay sleeping in his home at 1745 West Polk street. His bed stood near a window of the first floor and his assailant reached through and fired a bullet into his head. He is in a critical condition at the county hospital. Police could find no motive for the shooting, but were inclined to regard it as a "black hand" affair.

Lindys Spend Night on Sea; Board Vessel

BULLETIN.

NEMURO, Japan, Aug. 20.—(Thursday.)—(AP)—Foggy weather forced Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh to abandon hope of resuming their flight to Nemuro today, and they prepared to spend another night aboard the steamer Shimushiro Maru, off Ketoi island, the "black hole" of the Kurile archipelago. Their plane was towed to a more sheltered cove.

NEMURO, Japan, Aug. 20 [Thursday].—(AP)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, who spent last night on the rough water near Ketoi island after they were forced to land to escape a heavy fog bank, this morning were safe aboard the steamer Shimushiru Maru, awaiting an opportunity to continue their flight from Petropavlovsk, Kamchatka, to Nemuro.

Col. Lindbergh was questioned by the captain of the ship concerning the forced landing. Since he had a Japanese permit to land in emergency, however, it is not believed the questioning concerned any possible violation of aviation regulations, which are extremely strict.

Say Aid Not Necessary.

The steamer reached the Lindberghs at 7:55 a. m. today [5:55 p. m. Wednesday, Chicago time]. It had been ordered to the scene after Mrs. Lindbergh radioed their plight to the Ochiishi radio station.

The Lindberghs left Petropavlovsk, where they were delayed two and a half days by poor weather, and within a few minutes were forced down by motor trouble at Avatcha bay yesterday morning. Two hours later they resumed their scheduled 897 mile flight and made good time over the Kurile islands until fog forced them down for the second time.

Flies for Godhavn.

IVIGTUT, Greenland, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Capt. Wolfgang von Gronau, German aviator who arrived here yesterday, took off today for Godhavn from where he hoped to make a final hop to America. He had a difficult flight here from Godthaab, a thousand miles across the Greenland ice cap.

MASTER BARBERS START MOVE TO REDUCE PRICES

At a special meeting which lasted until 1 o'clock this morning, the central executive council of the United Master Barbers' association of Chicago recommended that the contract between the Master Barbers' association and the Journeymen Barbers be reopened. The contract still has a year to run.

The action was regarded in some quarters as possibly meaning a fight between the 2,000 masters and the 5,000 journeymen barbers over reductions in prices and a consequent scaling of wages of journeymen barbers to meet price reductions. A general meeting on the subject will be held Wednesday.

Reports are that the master barbers are seeking to reduce prices to compete with the open shops, of which, according to Guy Bentivenga, president of the Master Barbers' association, there are now 1,000 in Chicago. It is contended they cannot cut prices under present wage scales. Journeymen barbers now receive $32 weekly and 60 per cent over $47 that they take in individually.

Purple Martins Quit City; A Sign of An Early Fall

Chicago will soon be saying good-by to the good old summer time. The purple martins which for years have made their summer home in Washington park are considered excellent prophets of early or late seasons. Day before yesterday only a few of the birds were observed, and yesterday not a one was seen. In comparison with other years the birds are leaving earlier this year. In 1929 martins were seen until Sept. 11. Last year none were seen after Aug. 21.

2 Nations Eye Disappearance of Japanese

New York, Aug. 19.—[Special.]—The federal government of the United States and the Japanese government today entered into the investigation of a strange mystery of the sea.

The story as it is being reconstructed by the investigators seems the plot of a thriller best seller. It involves an oriental importer, several times a millionaire and a philanthropist. It deals with his disappearance from a giant liner aboard which he saw a mysterious stranger whom he feared so much that he hid out in his stateroom.

The liner was on a six day "show boat" cruise to Halifax and back, the sort of cruise which has become popular since the Volstead law. There had been gay parties and dinners aboard nightly, with many beautiful women attending. The boat was nearing New York on the morning of the sixth day when the disappearance of the importer was discovered.

Gay Dinner Party Held.

There had been an especially gay dinner party the night before. The hostess was Mildred Harris Chaplin, divorced wife of Charles Chaplin, and among the guests was Miss Mary Reissner, of the stage name of Mary Dale, show girl, who last appeared in "Flying High." Both say the Japanese millionaire was invited to the dinner but did not attend, possibly, it is reported, through fear of his mysterious enemy.

The story begins with the departure of the liner Belgenland from New York for the north. Its stores were full of fine foods and its wine-stores stocked pending the passage of the 14 mile limit. The passengers were a happy lot, bent on six days of joyous vacations.

Among those who had booked passage and came aboard just before sailing was Hisashi Fujimura, head of the Asahi corporation, silk importers and H. Fugimura & Co., commodity brokers. He was accounted the most successful Japanese importer in the country.

Owns Pretentious Estates.

Fujimura was 38 years old and known as the benefactor of Japanese students in this country. He was married and lived with his wife and three children in a pretentious estate at Norwalk, Conn.

One of the children, a 7 year old girl, was with him. With him also, was Miss Reissner. Two staterooms, separated by a private bath, were reserved on the "A" deck.

The ship's attendants were given to understand Miss Reissner was governess of the child. This the woman denied tonight. She said she was a friend of the importer and that he paid her expenses on several previous trips.

Miss Reissner refused replies to other questions. She would not tell if she was married or a divorcée. It is known, however, that she occupied an expensive apartment in an exclusive New York hotel and seemed well supplied with funds to maintain it.

Sees Man He Fears.

Soon after the party boarded the ship Fujimura saw the man he feared, told Miss Reissner of his fears and urged her "to stay as close to him as possible." From then on he remained secluded in his stateroom.

Miss Reissner told of attending the dinner of Mildred Chaplin and said she looked in at the stateroom of Fujimura at 1 o'clock on Saturday morning. He was sleeping and all was quiet. Several hours later, she said, stewards told her the importer had disappeared.

From other sources it was learned that the stateroom, when entered later

REBELS DRIVEN FROM GIBARA IN ALL DAY FIGHT

City of 30,000 Razed by Guns and Bombs.

BY DEAN SANBORN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
[Copyright: 1931: By The Chicago Tribune.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Aug. 19.—Five hundred rebels are reported to have been killed today in a battle which is still raging at Gibara, Oriente province. No figures have been issued on the federal casualties, but reports say that they were very heavy.

The government concentrated forces of infantry, cavalry, coast artillery, 14 airplanes, marines, and cruisers to crush a strong rebel force augmented by a large band of filibusters, who were landed there from two foreign ships 48 hours ago.

Latest reports tonight indicate that Gibara, a beautiful port town of 20,000, has been razed to the ground by bombing planes and artillery in the government's attempt to land a final crushing blow to the revolt.

Population Begs for Truce.

Throughout the day the panic stricken population begged for a truce while they watched their town being torn to pieces by the fire of the opposing forces. Women and children were killed or wounded and others collapsed on the street, but each hour the activity on both sides increased. Shells set fire to many frame houses, adding to the panic among the Cubans.

When news of the government's victory at Gibara reached Havana tonight Maj. Ibrahim Consuegra, in charge of the press bureau at the presidential palace, ordered the immediate lifting of the censorship on all radio, cable, and telegraph lines, as well as on the local press, deeming further control unnecessary, as the rebels in all sections of the island seemed under control.

As soon as the censorship went off messages came in reporting fierce fighting in Santa Clara, near Trinidad and Agua Cate, in which scores of rebels were reported killed and numerous wounded. Hundreds of rebels were captured at Lallanada, in south Santa Clara. Other messages reported minor scuffles in other provinces.

As incomplete details of the battle at Gibara come in tonight it becomes apparent that the battle was the fiercest ever fought on Cuban soil, with the possible exception of Gen. William Shafter's campaign against the Spaniards in 1898.

Cruiser's Guns Open Battle.

The fight started at midnight, when the cruiser Patria, ordered from Nuevitas after reports of the arrival of expeditionary forces were confirmed, steamed into the port and opened fire on the little fortress at the entrance of the harbor which had fallen into rebel hands.

Army forces from Holguin, under Capt. Pablo Fernandez Valazco, and coast artillery from Santa Clara, under Maj. Cadenas, immediately closed in under fierce fire from the rebels. Lieut. Coralino Hidalgo was killed in the first charge.

Army planes then flew over and let loose a rain of bombs which shook the rebels from their strategic positions. They tried to flee to the open to engage the troops in hand to hand encounters, but an artillery barrage forced them to hide in the fortress and in various buildings in the town.

Troops Press Attack.

As the loyal army forces swelled the attack grew fiercer, and squad of troops made repeated attacks on the town, falling back to permit fresh troops to close in.

Constant bombardment by the Patria reduced the fortress to a junk heap. Scores were killed in it, while others fled.

Shortly after noon the federals broke into the city, sending wave after wave of infantry in a bayonet attack. The rebels fought from houses and trenches in the streets with rifles and hand grenades, taking heavy toll among troops under Maj. Perez Arocha and Maj. Cardenas.

Drive Back Federals Six Times.

Six successive federal attacks were repulsed by the rebels despite the unceasing fire of the artillery, which laid down a stream of shells on the rebel ranks.

By midafternoon the rebels had fled from their first lines and a large number of them set up a stronghold in a railway tunnel on the route between Gibara and Holguin. Light artillery was rushed up and trained on the mouths of the tunnel. The cruiser Patria, having obliterated the fort, started dropping shells on the tunnel.

Other bands of rebels gave way inch by inch before the federal advance, while members of the signal corps strung up electric lines to furnish light to carry the battle on into the night and repair telegraph lines which had been destroyed by the rebels yesterday.

At 4 o'clock Maj. Vilate reported that his troops had confiscated huge stores of the rebels' war supplies, a million rifle bullets, 57 machine guns, and other military equipment, most of which was landed with the expeditionary forces.

By 6 o'clock tonight, while the fighting was still going on, it was apparent that the rebels had met with a thorough defeat.

Wounded Fill Hospitals.

Army hospitals improvised on the outskirts of the city are unable to take care of the fast increasing numbers of wounded who are being rushed from the battlefield. The hospitals in the towns of Holguin and Puerto Padre are filled, and ambulances are bringing in more as medical squads are clearing up the ground behind the fighting troops.

The cruiser Cuba joined the Patria off shore tonight, while other smaller naval units, answering calls during the day tied up in the harbor. Naval boats from Pinar del Rio are patroling the Oriente coast to prevent the landing of other filibustering forces which are said to be heading toward the scene now.

During the bombardment the airplanes succeeded in sinking two vessels, one German and one of Norwegian registry, which brought the filibuster expeditions, allegedly from Miami or New York, to Gibara.

Rebels Seize City.

Huge stores of arms, ammunitions, and machine guns were successfully landed at Gibara by the two boats Monday night, after the rebels captured the city. The army headquarters were sacked, and the town then fortified from the center to the outskirts to meet government forces on their way to Gibara from distant bases where fighting had slowed up following the capture of former President Menocal and Col. Carlos Mendieta.

The first force of rebels numbered 2,000 fully armed men. They were joined by 2,000 more insurgents and the expeditionary troops under the command of Carlos Hevia, son of Col. Aurelio Hevia. Hevia, the younger, is said to be a West Point graduate.

The expeditionary troops included Germans, Russians, Polish, and South Americans, professionals and soldiers of fortune, as well as numerous Americans. It is reported that upon their arrival the filibusterers got drunk, sacked stores and shops in the town, attacked women, and hindered the rebel preparation for defense of the city.

Official Report on Battle.

At 5 o'clock this afternoon army headquarters at the presidential palace released the following official report:

"At 12 o'clock Aug. 17 the army received reports indicating that a filibustering expedition with arms, munitions and other war materials was being disembarked at Gibara from a Norwegian vessel at the main docks there. Reports received from scouting planes later confirmed this, and the war and navy department immediately instructed the cruiser Patria to sail from Nuevitas, province of Camaguey, to Gibara, province of Oriente. The Patria arrived there last midnight and immediately opened fire on the fortress at the entrance of the harbor which had been captured by the rebels.

"Army forces from Holguin under the command of Capt. Pablo Fernandez Velasco, ordered to attack Gibara, met fierce intermittent machine gun fire from the rebels. Further forces were immediately sent to the attack under Maj. Cabrales from Camaguey and under Capt. Vilate, and coast artillery from Santa Clara under Maj. Cadenas.

Fortress Is Destroyed.

"The Patria destroyed the fortress, most of the rebel occupants perishing in the bombardment, the rest fleeing to find shelter elsewhere. Army forces continued to advance under terrific fire from the rebels while planes bombarded the enemy positions. During the first raids on the rebel stronghold the army lost Lieut. Coralino Hidalgo. Several soldiers were wounded.

"The rebels tried to leave Gibara and fight on an open field, but were repulsed by the army. Early this afternoon the army began occupation of Gibara, dislodging rebels from strategic positions. The rebels, forced by pursuing troops, have now established a stronghold in a small tunnel leading from Gibara to Holguin where light field artillery is now bombarding both ends of the curved tunnel, while the Patria is firing its main guns on the tunnel in an effort to destroy it.

"At 4 o'clock this afternoon Maj. Vilate reported the confiscation of all revolutionary war supplies including five carloads containing 57 machine guns, 1,000,000 rifle bullets, large quantities of rifles and sundry military equipment. The army expects to destroy the tunnel within the next few hours. Severe fighting is still going on at this minute."

President Machado tonight called a special cabinet meeting in Santa Clara. From this meeting he issued another 24 hour extension of his offer to the rebels, that if they surrender and return to their homes they will not be prosecuted, revolt leaders excepted.

President Machado also denied reports, said to have originated at Nationalist headquarters here, that the government intended to confiscate all monies deposited by private citizens in Cuban and foreign banks here to meet expenses of quashing the revolt.

WHERE BATTLE RAGES IN CUBA

Arrow points to Gibara, city of 50,000 in which all day battle between Cuban federal and rebel troops was fought yesterday. The city was almost razed by shell fire and airplane bombs. Other fighting was reported at Trinidad and Aguacate.

JUDGE ORDERS BROKER TO PAY EX-WIFE $500

John M. Lamb, 6340 Clyde avenue, a stock broker, was brought before Superior Judge David yesterday on the complaint of his ex-wife, Mrs. Lura V. Lamb of Los Angeles, that he was $1,385 in arrears in alimony which he had been ordered to pay at the rate of $200 a month when they separated in 1922. Lamb pleaded that he did not owe the money because of a $6,000 loan he had made his wife to set up in business F. F. Syfer of Los Angeles. Lamb produced a promissory note for $6,000 signed by Syfer and letters from Mrs. Lamb in which she urged a loan, saying that she could deduct it from the alimony at the rate of $100 a month. Lamb said that Syfer was his ex-wife's suitor.

Mrs. Lamb, who journeyed to Chicago for the hearing, denied knowing of the loan, but she admitted she had borrowed $1,500 from her husband which she had not completely repaid.

The judge ordered Lamb to pay $500 to his former wife within ten days. He told Attorney W. W. O'Brien who represented the husband that he should settle the matter of the $6,000 loan before the judge who granted the divorce.

in the morning, showed evidences of a terrific struggle.

After the telling of her story to the chief of the Criminal division of the United States attorney's office, which was attended by Japanese consular officers, Miss Reissner was subpoenaed to appear before a federal grand jury on Monday.

Mrs. Chaplin could give little evidence when she was questioned. She said she had seen Mr. Fujimura only once on the trip, at a theatrical performance in which she took part, but that she met Miss Reissner with another man on the deck and the girl had told of Fujimura's fear of the mysterious stranger.

A reward of $5,000 for finding Fujimura "dead or alive" has been posted by the company he heads.

The Belgenland at present is on another trip. The British government has been asked to aid in getting information from the crew. It may assume charge of the case as the ship was outside the territorial limits when the supposed crime was committed, and, being British owned, the British maritime law would apply.

CANADIAN TARIFF ON MAGAZINES IS BASED ON ADS

OTTAWA, Ont., Aug. 19.—(AP)—The operation of Canada's new tariff on magazines and other publications which goes into effect Sept. 1., was explained in a series of regulations made public today by the department of national revenue.

Under its provisions, publishers of magazines which by reason of their advertising content are subject to zone rates of postage in the country of origin, must file semi-annually statements showing the average percentage of space devoted to advertising. The tariff classification on magazines containing 20 to 30 per cent advertising will be 2 cents a copy, on any containing more than 30 per cent, 5 cents a copy. The magazines referred to in this group include agricultural, business, technical and trade journals.

On periodicals or portions of newspapers consisting largely of fiction, feature stories or articles and comic supplements, the tariff will be 15 cents per pound.

OPEN BAIN BANK BOOKS TODAY IN HUNT FOR FRAUD

Swanson Accountants to Search Records.

State's Attorney Swanson's search for violations of the state banking laws in the management of the defunct Bain banks will begin today.

Henry E. Ayers, banking specialist of the state's attorney's staff, will embark this morning on a study of the records of the original Bain bank, the West Englewood Trust and Savings, at 1624 West 63d street, where John Bain made his start as a financier 25 years ago and where the Bain bank receiver, Irwin T. Gilruth, now has headquarters.

All Records to Be Searched.

Finishing there, the prosecutor and his accountants will move from bank to bank of the Bain group on the south and west sides until the twelve institutions of the chain have been examined. Estimates were that the investigation would require many weeks.

A mode of coördinating the work of the prosecutor and receiver in order to expedite the investigation was agreed upon at a conference yesterday between Mr. Ayers and Mr. Gilruth. They talked for an hour and a half behind closed doors in Mr. Swanson's downtown office.

Chatting afterwards with reporters, Mr. Ayers expressed himself as being gratified with the coöperation Mr. Gilruth had extended him. His remarks were taken to indicate a healing of the breach between prosecutors and receivers, as indicated on Tuesday when Mr. Swanson tartly criticized State Auditor Oscar Nelson and the various bank receivers for "lack of coöperation."

Produces Some of Records.

"Mr. Gilruth brought some of the Bain bank records here with him," said Mr. Ayers. "We discussed the condition of the Bain banks generally. Thus far there appears to be no evidence of criminal violations of the bank act in those banks."

Receiver Gilruth broke in at that point.

"You understand, of course, that my published report on the Bain banks made no charges of criminal acts against any one," he cautioned the reporters.

During the day new light was cast on the origin of the report, wherein Mr. Gilruth revealed the $2,000,000 indebtedness of the Bain interests to the banks, thus precipitating the state's attorney's investigation. The receiver's purpose in issuing it had puzzled many bankers.

Purpose of Report Revealed.

From a reliable source it was learned that preparation and publication of the report was ordered by Auditor Nelson personally. His primary purpose, it is understood, was to acquaint Mr. Bain's friends with the seriousness of his plight on the theory that they would be moved to produce cash to meet his debts to the banks, thus providing dividends for the depositors.

Mr. Bain has been for 15 years a member of the south park board and a wheel horse in the Deneen Republican organization. From an individual high in the councils of the Deneen organization, it was learned that some of the banker's wealthy friends have at least taken cognizance of the state auditor's broad hint.

"There has been some discussion of raising a fund to meet Mr. Bain's debts," this informant said. "In other times it could have been done, but cash is scarce right now, even among the so called rich. There is some talk of a plan of Mr. Bain's friends to take over and liquidate his real estate holdings, but this too may come to naught."

Several hundred depositors of the Brainerd State bank, a Bain institution, met last night in a hall at 8656 South Ashland avenue to elect a depositors' committee. Considerable stormy talk developed over the merits of Mr. Bain's claim that with "careful administration by the receiver," the banks would pay off in full. Criticism was hurled at Mr. Bain, Receiver Gilruth and Auditor Nelson, indiscriminately.

The depositors elected a committee comprising William J. Schmidt, vice president of the North Beverly Improvement association; G. F. Blaul, chairman of the directors of the improvement association; James V. Cunningham president of the association; S. J. Freel, president of the Brainerd association; Henry Altman, William J. Conroy, and Joseph Balluff, Mr. Schmidt presided.

Probe Waukegan Bank.

Circuit Judge Ralph Dady of Lake county yesterday granted a petition of State's Attorney A. V. Smith for a grand jury investigation of the affairs of the Waukegan State bank, closed on June 18 with listed deposits of $1,500,000 and only $38,000 cash on hand.

Auditor Nelson announced the closing of the Arlington Heights State bank of Arlington Heights, an institution with deposits of $380,000.

CUSTOMS COLLECTOR FIRED ON IN BELIEF HE'S BOOZE RUNNER

New York, Aug. 19.—[Special.]—A customs harbor patrol boat, carrying Philip Elting, collector of the port, on a tour of inspection, was mistaken for a rum runner and stopped by shots from a coast guard boat in the narrows early this morning.

Mr. Elting, in confirming the incident after it had been kept secret for several hours, said he was sure the shots had been fired into the air.

"There were some shots, but I don't think they were aimed at us," he said. "Mr. Elting's duties are closely allied to those of the coast guard itself.

The coast guard craft signaled the harbor patrol boat to stop. Mr. Elting explained, but tninking that the identity of his boat must be known, the skipper, Inspector Samuel Polak, proceeded on his way between Fort Hamilton and Wadsworth.

Then the shots whistled over and the harbor patrol hove to. The coast guardsmen boarded the boat and after learning the identity of their quarry explained and apologized. Mr. Elting went on his way to the Battery and landed at 6 o'clock this morning.

The boat carying Mr. Elting, who is Republican leader of Kingston, and has been port collector for the last seven years, was headed for Sandy Hook when overhauled by the coast guard. The inspection trip began at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon and consisted of a tour up and down the East and North rivers during the night.

The fact that his boat was outbound when it was stopped is evidence of the alertness of the coast guard, Mr. Elting declared, since only boats on the way into the harbor are stopped as a rule.

Although Capt. Philip Lauriat, assistant commander of the coast guard, said that no report of the shooting had been made to him by his men, he admitted that Mr. Elting had informed him of the incident. He quoted Mr. Elting as saying, "You can bet we hove to," in congratulating him on the alertness of the guardsmen. He indicated that the coast guard would investigate, however.

BIG WAVES GRAB 150 FROM BEACH AT ATLANTIC CITY

One Dead, Two Missing; Thrilling Rescues.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—Three lives are believed to have been lost and nearly 150 rescues effected by life guards when mountainous seas swept over the beaches here today, giving little or no warning of their approach.

Beach guards began the work of rescue shortly after 11 oclock, when the first of the heavy seas rolled in from the ocean and swept scores of bathers off their feet in the rebound.

All but three of the bathers are believed tonight to have been accounted for. One man found floating in the ocean off South Carolina avenue was brought ashore by life guards. Although beach surgeons labored over him for more than an hour, they were unable to revive him. He was identified as Charles F. McKenna, 58, of Pittsburgh. The identification was made by the man's wife, Annie, who saw the body brought ashore, but at the time did not entertain any fear that it was her husband.

Two Reported Missing.

Two others reported missing are: James W. Cannaday, 25, of Baltimore, who was here with his sister, and Eugene Baeurle, 18, of Newark, N. J., here with his mother and two sisters.

Most of the rescues were effected off South Carolina avenue, in the most congested section of the beach, but other rescues were made off Kentucky, Viriginia, and New York avenues, all in the central section of the city.

The high seas, believed to have been caused by a storm at sea, swept in without warning. Although they were much higher than usual, they did not wash over the beach for more than a few feet beyond the usual high water mark. It was when they started to recede that the trouble happened. Bathers, lifted off their feet by the backwash, cried for help from many sections.

Life Guards Rescue Many.

Boats were launched by the life guards while other persons grabbed can buoys and ran for the breakers. The buoys were tossed out to the struggling bathers, and sometimes were grabbed by two persons. Meanwhile the life guards began taking bathers aboard. There were as many as 18 in one boat at a time.

Thousands of persons along the board walk were attracted to the scene and watched the work of rescue. Dr. Norman Reeves, stationed at the South Carolina tent, instructed bathers who were unharmed how to revive those who needed attention inasmuch as all available life guards were engaged in the work of rescue.

Walter Moody, 18, of this city, who was resuscitated after much difficulty, declared that he had grabbed hold of a youth about his own age off the end of the steel pier, but was unable to maintain his hold upon him, and saw him go down. Whether this youth was one of the two missing persons has not yet been determined.

Storm Lashes Norfolk.

Norfolk, Va., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—Norfolk was swept by a 70 mile gale this afternoon and a number of warehouses were wrecked and many private homes damaged. Rain fell in torrents and the business section was so badly flooded traffic was suspended for an hour.

The gale tore the roof from the freight depot of the Pennsylvania railroad and it fell on the steamer Pennsylvania, crushing her top deck. The storage warehouse of the Southern railway also was unroofed. The wind wrecked the coal bunkering plant of the Hampton Roads Coal company.

Lightning struck the flagpole of the headquarters of Rear Admiral W. D. McDougall, commandant of the fifth naval district. The admiral's flag was torn down but he caused it to be hoisted on a pole in a field opposite his headquarters.

ABYSSINIAN KING MOVES TO FREE 2,000,000 SLAVES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Determined to liberate Abyssinia's 2,000,000 slaves, Ras Tafari, recently crowned emperor, is seeking the assistance of London in a campaign to institute reforms.

The Anti-Slavery and Aborigines Protection society of London today made public letters from the monarch, in which he states that the traffic in slaves has already been abolished and that he plans next to free those held in bondage. Funds to aid the work will be furnished by the society.

Ras Tafari points out that the Abyssinian slaves are not mistreated and that they are allowed to "hold goats, own property, and embrace Christianity."

MOVIE WORKERS READY TO FIGHT IMPORTED LABOR

Theater Owners Prepare to Reopen Houses.

The Independent motion picture theater owners announced last night that they had imported enough New York operators to insure the reopening of 100 closed houses tomorrow. At the same time the Chicago operators' union, headed by Thomas E. Maloy, announced that measures would be taken to prevent outsiders from taking the places of the local union members.

MAYOR MALOY.

Maloy, the business agent, said that one of the union measures would be to go into the courts and try to attach the box office receipts of those theater owners who owe back salaries to the operators. A majority of the operators have from two to three weeks' salary coming, he said.

Ready If Trouble Arises.

Al Lemar, the leader of the eastern operators, predicted that little trouble with the local union would result when his men were placed in their jobs in the theaters. He mentioned that he would have some of "the east side kids" with him.

Regarding this statement by Lemar, Maloy remarked: "We're not tough; we're smart." But he intimated that his men were prepared to meet any problem.

Most of the outsiders were brought here by plane Tuesday night and yesterday, according to Aaron Saperstein, president of the Allied Theater owners of Illinois, the independent theater organization, and Theodore Levin, the owners' attorney. Some came by train to Cleveland and took National Air Transport planes from there. One of the last groups—seven operators—left the Newark airport on a T. A. T. ship at 5 p. m. yesterday.

Union to Meet Today.

Saturday the imported operators will meet most of their time at the city hall obtaining licenses so that they can legally enter the projecting booths tomorrow if the union, at its meeting in the Capitol building this morning, refuses to recede from the stand that no operators must be employed on the night shift. It was this insistence, the owners contend, that forced the closing of the houses.

The owners said they would watch carefully to see that only operators will be allowed in the booths. The union said it is planning to demand the closing of each house which had a non-union or any other person, except the operators, within the projecting compartments. It was felt for a time yesterday that qualifications could not be obtained from New York rapidly enough to enable the New York operators to get their licenses by tomorrow night, but telegraphic qualifications were sent and the work was proceeding rapidly at closing time yesterday.

Police Protection Promised.

The theater owners, anticipating trouble when non-Chicago labor enters the darkened houses, obtained from Mayor Cermak the promise of police protection.

"See the chief of police and whatever protection you need will be given," the mayor told Mr. Levin. He told Maloy to term Mayor Cermak a "gum-shoe chopper."

Earlier in the day Maloy's brother, John Maloy, under indictment with the police chief for conspiracy to extort in connection with the affairs of the union, was suspended as head of the motion picture licensing bureau of the city's electrical department.

An added reason for the suspension was said to have been Joe Maloy's refusal to facilitate the issuing of licenses to the New York operators, who must man the projection booths tomorrow night.

Union Over Suspension.

News of his suspension was announced to seventy members of the old Members' association at their meeting at noon in the Auditorium hotel. It was received with cheers.

"The New Yorkers are union men, being members of the Brotherhood of Motion Picture Employés of North America, it was stated yesterday, but they are not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, as is the Chicago union. The "imports" will get substantially reduced salaries, the owners said, but the exact figures were not made known. The Chicago union men receive from $90 to $100 per week, working four and one-half hour shifts seven days a week.

"The only chance of settling the controversy amicably rests, the owners said, in the results of a union meeting this morning in the Capitol building at Wacker and Randolph streets. If the union recedes from its demands that no operators be employed in booths under the owners will take the theaters back on the present basis, they said.

William Maloy, as the union business agent, issued a statement yesterday when he read that the New York men were being brought in. In it he said he was "shocked and surprised that the exhibitors had arranged to bring in 100 strikebreakers to take the place of the operators called out by the owners."

Replies to Union Boss.

In this, Attorney Levin replied: "Mr. Maloy's shock and surprise does not ring in good faith. The theater owners are only interested in conserving their property, which aggregates millions, and their steps are in the nature of business protection. The men we have brought here are members of the Brotherhood of Motion Picture Operators of North America. If it is not affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, is in a different category from the United Mine Workers of America, a highly reputable workmen's union. We are still ready to employ one man in the booths of our theaters if the union can agree to that basis. If it does not, our theaters will reopen Friday night."

MUM ON GRAPE JUICE

MABEL WILLEBRANDT.

ROBBERS SEIZED AFTER THEY ARE SPIED BY VICTIM

The alert eye of Louis Burman of 5011 Maypole avenue led to the arrest last night of two men who, he alleges, robbed him of $10 and a watch on Tuesday. They are Stanley Sochachi, 38 years old, said to be wanted by Detroit police in connection with a murder, and his landlord, Charles L. Mischon, 57 years old, keeper of a rooming house at 657 Milwaukee avenue.

Burman saw the pair in a parked automobile at Franklin and Van Buren streets as he rode by in a street car. He alighted at the next block, drove in a taxicab to the Central station, and returned two minutes later with Sergt. James Donlon, Donlon arrested the pair.

Detective bureau records show that Sochachi was sentenced to the Jackson prison in Michigan in 1916 for assault to kill, and that he served two terms for robbery at Joliet. The records carried a dispatch from Detroit stating he was wanted there for murder. Mischon has no record.

DROWNS AS HE TRIES TO SAVE GIRL FROM LAKE

Roscoe Arnold, 30 years old, of 831 Wilson avenue, a hotel business instructor, was drowned last night in the lake off Leland avenue when he went to the aid of a young woman in distress.

Arnold and his companion, Miss Billie Loach of the Wilson avenue address, were on the beach when they heard screams a hundred feet off shore. Arnold dived into the water. Frank Krouse, 4333 Lincoln avenue, a life guard, followed.

A few minutes later Krouse reappeared, carrying to safety Miss Patricia Kumberland of 925 Sunnyside avenue, whose screams had been heard. Arnold failed to return and a search was begun for his body.

With Officials

Mrs. Mabel Willebrandt, who used to see that prohibition laws were enforced, passed through Chicago last night apparently jubilant over the recent success of the Fruit Industries, Inc., in securing a loan from the federal farm board for next year's production of wine grapes.

As attorney for Fruit Industries, Inc., Mrs. Willebrandt was not in a position, she impressed upon interviewers, to divulge the affairs of her clients. Nor could she discuss subjects relating to grape growing or prohibition, she added.

"I can talk about anything—cabbages and kings—but I can't talk about grapes," the former assistant attorney general declared firmly. "I never give out interviews any more—not since I retired from public life."

In the same party with Mrs. Willebrandt were Donald Conn, executive manager, and Walter Taylor, auditor, of Fruit Industries, Inc., both of San Francisco. All were en route from Washington to California and departed on the San Francisco Limited of the Chicago and North Western railroad.

CAPONE AID TO BE DEPORTED WHEN FREED AT PRISON

Nick Sudovich, Indiana lieutenant of Al Capone and former bootleg king of East Chicago, will be deported upon his release from the Indiana state prison at Michigan City, where he is serving a two year term for manslaughter, Warden Walter H. Daly announced yesterday.

Sudovich was sentenced in November, 1929, to two to twenty-one years for the slaying of Urosh Marovich, reputed hijacker of the Calumet district. Warden Daly said that a warrant of deportation issued by the secretary of labor was on hand at the prison, but that Sudovich must finish his minimum term before leaving.

CHORUS CONTEST LAUNCHES GREAT MUSIC FESTIVAL

Illinois Central Singers Win Male Honors.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Choruses of Chicago last night entered the final phase of the competition which has its climax in Soldiers' field Saturday night in the second annual Chicagoland Musical Festival promoted by THE TRIBUNE and associated newspapers.

Eight choruses sang last night in the Gold ballroom of the Drake hotel. One of them was acclaimed the best; but all of them will take part in the great songfest Saturday evening.

With the massed choruses will be 30 bands, a concert band of 100 pieces, 30 drum corps, one of which has 400 members, and several famous individual musical artists.

Parade Five Miles Long.

And, of course, there will be John Philip Sousa, the march king; there will be great descriptive band selections; there will be fireworks, and a grand parade five miles long.

All of the music from the big platform built at the north end of the field will be carried to the listeners by an amplifying system, bigger and more powerful than any hitherto constructed in America.

The contest last night was of male choruses. There are other contests to follow. Last night's winning organization must reassemble Saturday afternoon to contest with the winning choruses of other Chicagoland cities.

Those who tuned in on W-G-N at 7:45 o'clock last night were able to hear all the contestants. In order to give the radio listeners full opportunity, all choruses appeared one by one in the song of their choice, reserving the test, or prescribed song, for the later attention of the judges. The prescribed song, by the way, was the Pilgrim's chorus from "Tannhäuser."

Choruses Are Listed.

In the order in which they came they were the Federal Glee club, W. E. Myricks, director; the Canori club, Richard Stiller, conductor; the American Boys' Commonwealth Glee club, Max Siegel, director—the rather extraordinary solo voice heard in this number belonged to Wilbert Liebling, nine years old; the West Chicago and North Western Employés' Glee club, Harry Slater, director; the Illinois Central Male chorus, Carl Craven, director; the Chicago Umbrian Glee club, Elmer A. Simpson, director; and the Armour Jubilee Singers, Cornelius Pierce, director. And to fill the evening full of song, the Lyra club came, not as contestants but as guests, to sing a medley of songs of Bohemia.

The ether waves were turned to other quarters, and the choirs settled themselves again to the business of the Pilgrims' chorus. Then came the cogitations of the judges, the adding of figures, the summarizing of impressions. At last it could be announced that Mr. Craven's Illinois Central Male chorus took first place and Mr. Simpson's Chicago Umbrian Glee club second. Mr. Craven's organization will therefore meet male choruses of other cities next Saturday.

MUSIC FESTIVAL NOTES

BY PHILIP MAXWELL.

Tonight at 7:30 the women's choruses of Chicago will compete in the Gold ballroom of the Drake hotel and at 8 o'clock Noble Cain, who will direct the "Hallelujah Chorus" from "The Messiah," will rehearse more than 500 persons who have enlisted in the chorus by sending their name to THE TRIBUNE. Saturday night at Soldiers' field more than 6,000 will sing this inspiring number, accompanied by the festival band.

Between 8:40 and 8:50 tonight W-G-N, The Chicago Tribune station on the Drake hotel, will broadcast rehearsing chorus.

Nurses and doctors and an emergency hospital will be provided at Soldiers' field Saturday night during the festival concert by Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, health commissioner. Dr. Bundesen said that arrangements also have been made with St. Luke's hospital to administer to any patients.

The following telegram was received last night from L. H. Hughes, business manager of the Cedar Falls, Ia., Municipal band: "Cedar Falls band and party will arrive special section Illinois Central Hawkeye Limited 3:30 Friday morning. About 200 in party. Headquarters Knickerbocker hotel."

For information of bands in Chicago—it is not necessary that any band participate in the band contests to take part in the festival concert at Soldiers' Feld Saturday night. Any band familiar with the following four numbers is eligible to enter the grand entry parade, sit on the platform and take part in the massed band program: "American Patrol" by Meacham; "Stars and Stripes Forever" and "U. S. Field Artillery" by Sousa and "Fair Chicago" by Grabel. Already more than 30 bands are entered in the parade.

From Milwaukee's suburb, Cudahy, will come the Cudahy Municipal band for the festival contest and concert Saturday. Oscar E. Kluck is a fellow who can't be downed. Two months ago Mr. Kluck wrote THE TRIBUNE and said that he wanted his men to enter the contest but only until a few nights ago was sufficient money raised to cover the expenses of the trip.

A crew of 25 men, under the direction of Henry Mau, head of the electrical department of THE TRIBUNE, is working almost night and day erecting a huge concert stage for 9,000 singers and musicians who will take part in the Music Festival concert.

More than 125,000 board feet of lumber is required for the stage and seats and eighteen miles of wire are being used for the amplification system, which will be the finest ever heard in America. It is taking ten days to complete the job.

PREVAILING WAGE ON HIGHWAY JOBS CAUSES HOT ROW

State Figures Assailed by Labor Chief.

BY HAL FOUST.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—An attempt by organized labor officials to enforce union scales on highway construction throughout the state was brought to a head this afternoon as the governor's appeal board heard its first testimony on protests under the "prevailing wage act" passed by the recent general assembly.

R. G. SODERSTROM.

Nine business agents and secretaries of union locals took the witness stand and expounded the theories of their leader, R. G. Soderstrom, president of the Illinois Federation of Labor, favoring a substantial increase in wage rates even at the expense of a proportionate reduction in the volume of construction and in the number of men employed on road work.

Question Advertised Rates.

The witnesses were the objectors to the rates published by the state in its advertisements for bids, in accordance with the new law requiring the state to fix the minimum wage to be paid by contractors on public construction, and that this minimum shall be no lower than the rate prevailing for similar work in the vicinity of the project. Tomorrow the state is to present evidence in support of its published rates, evidence that the prevailing rates outside of Cook, Lake, and Du Page counties, are not the union scales nor the wages paid during the recent boom.

"We expect to be able to show," Director Cleaveland of the department of public works said tonight at the close of the day's session, "that with the state paying about the same wages as private contractors the reduced cost of paving enables the taxpayers to get more roads for their money and to furnish more jobs to the unemployed than would be possible under an inflated wage scale. Of course I have no personal interest in the outcome of this hearing. It's the public's money that is being spent and it's as a public official that I am taking part in this controversy."

Road Work Held Up.

The controversy, incidentally, is holding up between $7,500,000 and $8,000,000 worth of road work, which would employ directly and indirectly approximately 10,000 men.

At the outset Soderstrom clashed with Cleaveland over the guide to be used in determining the minimum wage for road labor. The department of public works, in its advertisements, published the rates now being paid, which are considerably lower than the scale before the boom broke in 1929. Soderstrom, in a vehement speech, declared that the law was intended to return wages to the boom peak and that the union scale on similar work should be adopted for road construction.

Adequacy Not Involved.

"The department under this law," said Cleaveland, in a preliminary statement, "was not required to determine what is an adequate or a proper rate of wages. The question here is what is the prevailing wage and that is the minimum wage to be paid by road contractors under this law."

"If this board should fix a rate higher than the scale prevailing I understand that the law provides that any ten tax payers could file a protest," commented Ray Wantz, Rockford manufacturer and a member of the wage board of three.

"The purpose of this law, as understood by the legislators," said Soderstrom, "was not to continue the pauper rates that have developed during the depression, but to raise the scale to a livable rate, to the rates of two years ago. The legislators also understood that the law was to be administered so that the union scale would be enforced by the state in communities where labor on similar work is organized.

Says Intent Is Ignored.

"The department of public works is ignoring the intent of the law, ignoring public sentiment and ignoring the advice of President Hoover to maintain wage scales and living standards through the depression."

"Your suggestion that the union scale should be adopted as the prevailing scale," said Wantz, "makes me think that we may have a different understanding of the word 'prevailing.' As I understand, the state has adopted the union scale in Cook, Dupage and Lake counties where the union scale prevails, but that in other counties of the state it has adopted the rates that are now being paid for labor. The prevailing price of wheat, we must agree, is the price at which wheat can be marketed, not the highest price asked."

E. F. Nelch, president of the Illinois Highway and Municipal Contractors' association, made another attack against the governor's appointments to the board, pointing out that his association is not represented, although the statute specified that the governor should select the members from lists submitted by contractors, by labor and by the department of public works.

Legal Attack on Board.

Besides Wantz, the other members of the board are George Ottens of West Chicago, a labor representative, and R. W. Hartman of Peoria. Hartman is a contractor but not a member of the contractors' association and his name was not on a list submitted by the association but on the list, with Wantz, submitted to the governor by the department of public works. Quo warranto proceedings are pending in the Circuit court here, contending that the board is not legally constituted.

The hearing was still in session at a late hour and it seemed unlikely that the board would be able to reach a decision tonight. Until a decision is reached, between $7,500,000 and $8,000,000 worth of downstate highway work is being held up, construction that would furnish employment directly and indirectly to about 10,000 men.

Halt Tax Sale of 3 Billions in Realty; Owners Can't Pay

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

The owners of $3,151,823,000 worth of real estate in Cook county—as appraised by the assessing bodies—have not paid their 1929 taxes, which became delinquent on May 15 last.

The sale of this property for taxes was to have begun in earnest this morning, but County Treasurer McDonough decided yesterday afternoon to defer sales for another ten days in order to give the property owners a little more time. Technically the sale continues as the law requires, but only a few lots will be sold daily.

Overdue Taxes Total 69 Million.

The number of delinquent real estate tax payers totals 396,524. They owe an aggregate of $69,229,943. The tax buyers have asserted they will take up less than $1,000,000 of this amount. So when the sale is over there will be $68,000,000 of unpaid real estate taxes, in the opinion of the county treasurer.

This and other data Mr. McDonough submitted to Gov. Emmerson's revenue commission yesterday in reply to a request of its chairman, Joseph K. Brittain, for information on the progress of tax collections.

"I can go ahead selling property for taxes," Mr. McDonough commented, "but that will not bring in the taxes when the people haven't the money with which to pay. I have sent a tabulation to Mr. Brittain, showing the delinquent taxes in volumes 1 and 2 of each of the 38 towns of the county. Of the 8,037 delinquents in those volumes, 5,070, or 63 per cent, owe bills of less than $300 each. Under present conditions I believe I should give the small property owner every opportunity the law permits to pay.

Would Be Property of Poor.

"If, however, I speed up the tax sale, the property sold would be mostly that of poor and uninformed owners. This arises from the fact that of $69,229,943 of delinquent real estate taxes, I am prohibited by court proceedings from selling $54,059,860. Those who owe this $54,059,860 have gone to court with complaints and have obtained stays and injunctions which prevent me from selling their property.

"The delinquent real estate in the country towns which I am permitted to sell for taxes has an average tax bill of $28.88, while the country town delinquent real estate I am prohibited from selling averages $91.23 per owner.

"The average tax bill of delinquent real estate within the city, which I am permitted to sell is $92.83, while the delinquent property which cannot be sold has an average bill of $687.09. From my viewpoint, I am permitted to sell the property of the small owner and am prohibited from selling the property of the big owner, both of which are delinquent.

"I am going to put off the tax sale for another ten days."

Compare Two Groups.

The following table shows the taxes due and the number of parcels of delinquent real estate, which the treasurer is permitted to sell:

	Delinquent taxes.	No. of parcels.	Average tax bill.
Country towns	$ 4,243,005	146,914	$28.89
Within Chicago	10,926,897	117,702	92.83
Totals	$15,170,902	264,616	$57.32

The next table shows the delinquent real estate which the treasurer is prevented by court order from selling:

	Delinquent taxes.	No. of parcels.	Average tax bill.
Country towns	$ 5,630,616	61,600	$91.23
Within Chicago	48,439,244	70,499	687.00
Totals	$54,069,860	132,108	$409.21

With these millions lodged safely behind the protection of the court for a time there is now more than $75,000,000 in taxes tied up in the several courts.

The governor's revenue commission was scheduled to ask County Judge Jarecki last Tuesday night about the taxes tied up in court, but the commission failed to ask the questions which would have gained the information.

Thousands Tied Up in Court.

The following table shows the number of parcels of delinquent real estate to which objections were made to the taxes in court, the approximate number still pending in court and the taxes involved for the last three tax years:

Tax yr.	—Objections filed in court— No. of parcels.	No. still pending.	Amount of taxes involved.
1927	21,180	3,500	$ 2,000,000
1928	82,128	70,000	19,000,000
1929	132,168	133,108	54,059,860
Totals	235,425	206,608	$75,059,860

It is contended by Judge Jarecki and also by the state's attorney's office that the law with reference to the 1927 and the 1928 cases has been determined in nearly all instances, but technically the cases are still pending in court. And the treasurer cannot attempt to collect the taxes until the cases are finally disposed of.

From the above tabulation it appears that only 30,000 out of 235,000 tax cases have been finally decided in the last three tax years. For the 1929 tax cases in court a reasonable time has not yet elapsed in which to expect decisions, it is said.

FIND 6 BONDSMEN OUT OF 60 HAVE STATE LICENSES

Swanson, Sonsteby Debate on Enforcement.

Although only six persons have received state licenses required since the passage of the new bail bond act, effective July 1, more than sixty men and women have been acting as professional bondsmen in the city courts since that date. This was the statement of State's Attorney Swanson yesterday to Chief Justice John J. Sonsteby of the Municipal court.

The statement was made at a hearing called by Judge Sonsteby after he had been informed of alleged bond law violations. Col. Henry Chamberlin, director of the Chicago crime commission, also was present and agreed to prepare a survey of the activities of bondsmen in the Municipal courts.

Ask Police to Act.

State's Attorney Swanson asked Judge Sonsteby to instruct the police heads to order that no bonds posted by professional bondsmen be accepted by desk sergeants unless the bondsman showed his state license. This order was relayed to Acting Commissioner Alcock.

Assistant State's Attorneys Julius T. Skrydlewski and A. C. Dewitt, who recently presented evidence against nineteen bondsmen and surety companies, declared that they had "just scratched the surface." The evidence, they said, had been prepared in only three days.

"There are undoubtedly more than forty more bondsmen operating in the courts and police precincts," they asserted.

Cites Two Violations.

The prosecutors named two bondsmen who were particularly flagrant violators. Kenneth Adams, colored, 6439 St. Lawrence avenue, has posted seven bonds on property already forfeited. Walter L. Harrison, also colored, 3143 Giles avenue, had posted nine bonds without a license between July 14 and Aug. 10.

Assistant State's Attorney Justus Mozart, who is assigned to the Bond court, was questioned concerning felony bonds approved there. He said that he examined only those which were brought to him. Both Judge Sonsteby and State's Attorney Swanson agreed that a new system was needed. No change was recommended, however.

Tells Penalties for Offense.

Mr. Swanson stated that under the new law any person who posts more than three bonds for a fee within a thirty day period is considered a professional bondsman. Penalties for violating the law provided fines ranging from $100 to $500 and a revocation of license.

The hearing was adjourned until Sept. 29, when the survey of the crime commission will be presented.

HE BLAMES WOMAN; SHE ACCUSES HIM; POLICE HUNT BOTH

A dapper young man walked into the Evanston police station yesterday fished a moment in a trouser pocket and then laid the ignition key of an automobile on the sergeant's desk.

"I am Hugh Rowe," he explained, "and I live at 7724 Haskins avenue. A few minutes ago I scraped fenders with an automobile driven by a woman at Hinman avenue and South Boulevard. As she started to drive away I jumped on the running board and jerked out this key. I guess I didn't lock the switch because she drove off."

Rowe produced the license number of the car and the policeman traced it to Mrs. Nelly C. Mitchell, 814 Linden avenue, Wilmette. Rowe swore out a warrant charging her with leaving the scene of an accident and departed.

Hardly had the doors closed behind him when Mrs. Mitchell appeared and identified herself.

"Of course I was in that accident," she said. "But that young man turned his car directly into mine. When he jumped on the running board I thought he was going to hold me up."

Mrs. Mitchell signed warrants against Rowe, one charging him with reckless driving and another with intentionally damaging her car and walked away.

Police now are searching for both drivers.

FINANCIER IS CALLED BY NYE IN CANNON QUIZ

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—Edwin C. Jameson, the New York financier who gave $65,200 to Bishop James Cannon Jr. to be used against former Gov. Alfred E. Smith in the 1928 Virginia presidential campaign, and H. P. Healey, secretary to Jameson, have been summoned to appear before the senate campaign funds investigating committee when the inquiry is resumed into the case of Cannon Aug. 27.

GERALD P. NYE. [Fotograms.]

Subpoenas have already been served upon Jameson and Healey. Senator Gerald P. Nye, radical Republican of North Dakota, chairman of the committee, revealed today. From another source it was learned that subpoenas have been issued for ex-Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, Republican, of New Jersey; C. Bascom Slemp, ex-representative from Virginia and former secretary to former President Coolidge, and Miss Ada L. Burroughs, treasurer of the Virginia anti-Smith committee, who last spring defied the Nye committee by refusing to testify regarding the disposition of the Jameson funds.

Senator Nye stated that Senator Arthur Robinson [Rep., Ind.] had declined to serve on the investigating committee in place of Senator R. C. Patterson [Rep., Mo.]. The vacancy. Vice President Curtis stated, will remain unfilled until congress meets, leaving Senators Nye, Dale [Rep., Vt.], Wagner [Dem., N. Y.], and Dill [Dem., Wash.] as the present committee members.

"MISSING LINK" IS FOUND; WAS LOST IN LONDON CAB

LONDON, Aug. 19. — (AP) — After spending the night in a London police station, the so-called "missing link" has been found again.

The "missing link" is the skull of "Taung," named for the place in Bechuanaland where Prof. Raymond Dart, South African anthropologist, dug it up in 1925. It was described by scientists as representing something between the ape and prehistoric man.

The professor's wife left the "missing link" in a taxicab last night. It wandered around London until the driver discovered it and handed it to the police. It will go back to South Africa with Mrs. Dart tomorrow.

BRITISH PLIGHT IS CALLED FRUIT OF SELF INTEREST

London's Fight for Power Ruins Industry.

Second of a series of dispatches from H. Feis, whom The Tribune has sent to England to study and describe the present situation—industrial, social, financial—in that country.

BY HENRY WALES.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Uncle Sam is habitually pictured in Europe as the dragging Shylock, extorting his pound of flesh for settlement of the war debts. Few persons have ever bothered to inform themselves of the facts surrounding the funding of these obligations, and of the selfish motives which led Britain hastily and independently to agree on a settlement of her accounts.

In 1923 the French government had M. Parmentier sound out the treasury department in Washington on the subject of its attitude on the war debts with a view, it is said, of ascertaining what territorial transfers might be taken into consideration as partial payment. This was in the early post war days, when Germany and the allies were all screaming their inability to pay anything and when it looked—as it now again does, since the Hoover moratorium—as if America were destined to pay the full cost of the war.

Land "Sale" Falls.

Rumors were current that Washington might accept certain of the British and French possessions, small islands of strategic defensive importance to the United States, in the North Atlantic and Caribbean sea, as part payment of the debt. Unofficial conversations on this subject fell to nothing when nationalistic outburst arose in Paris and London, over "selling" territory whose populace had shed its blood, though ever so little, in the common cause in France.

By this time, the slowly but constantly depreciating pound had dropped to the neighborhood of $3, approximately a 40 per cent loss, and London began to feel that its position as the world banker was seriously menaced. The United States had emerged definitely as the wealthiest and most powerful nation on earth and Wall street was clamoring for recognition of New York as the world money mart.

But Britain could not bolster the pound much less force sterling back up to par, without aid and financial help from America. And she could only obtain the necessary additional credits by recognizing and assuming responsibility for the vast sums the country had borrowed already from the United States.

So Mr. Baldwin went to Washington and funded the debt, agreeing to pay more than four billion dollars over a period of 62 years at an interest ranking out at 2 to 3½ per cent.

U. S. Helps Britain.

The state department and the United States treasury in those days exerted considerable pressure on the New York bankers, and, on Washington's orders, Mr. Baldwin obtained credits and pledges of help and cooperation to push the pound up to its par value of $4.87.

But during the long period of depression, while the pound had been slipping downward and its purchasing power declining, the cost of living and wages had rapidly been advancing. Rates had already been boosted during the war, with so many millions of men mobilized, and the war industries clamoring for labor and millions of women entering the field to fill the breach.

Those were the halcyon days when civil servants in England bought two cars instead of one and miners allowed themselves the luxury of running water in their kitchens; and modern homes had gas installed in their cottages and the more opulent, higher salaried experts even had electricity and telephones.

The standard of living in England rose sharply in those war years, as it did elsewhere. Working people might have bought motorcycles had they been available, but all such machines were wanted by the army in France for dispatch riders and transport. So they contented themselves with bicycles and took their pleasure in "kinemas" and gin and bitters in the pubs, men and women war workers alike.

High Salaries; Low Value.

Industry could continue to pay its workers increased wages as long as the pound was down, as the pound sterling meant only a trifle over $3 and British industry is essentially interested in foreign markets, where gold values alone count.

When Mr. Baldwin brought the pound back to $4.87 he expected that it would be possible to reduce the cost of living and cut wages to an amount to compensate for the disparity which had existed between sterling and gold value. But he speedily found this could not be done. The long coal strike and the devastating general strike of 1926 were the only results of this attempt by government to effect industrial economies which would permit England to compete with her foreign rivals.

Because Britain's continental neighbors had all taken their losses one way or another, and placed themselves in a position to produce more cheaply than England, Germany had obliterated her original mark through inflation before introducing the new rentenmark, backed by the Dawes plan international loan of $200,000,000 in 1929. Thus the reich practically wiped out its internal debt. France stabilized the franc at 4 cents instead of 20 cents, thereby reducing her domestic indebtedness by 80 per cent, Italy revalorized the lira at 5 cents instead of 20, lopping of 75 per cent of her obligations, and Belgium placed the franc at 3 cents instead of 20, saving 85 per cent of her inland debt.

Dole Becomes Permanent.

Britain alone, although she was harder hit than any of the allies, attempted to shoulder her whole debt and maintain sterling at par, and the result was the crushing of her industry. The dole, established by David Lloyd George to tide over the families of a couple of million soldiers being demobilized with no jobs to go to, became a fixture. Its scope extended as time went on, and to this army of unemployed were recruited countless of thousands of others, forced out of their jobs as various plants reduced operations or closed down, unable to compete against the continental industries, working with lower wages, lowered overhead, and lower taxation.

And, saddest blow of all, London failed to regain its pre-war preeminence in the money market. The last word in financial operations remained with New York bankers, who had the necessary vast resources to swing the big deals which international consortiums arranged.

Lose World Bank Site.

When the Young plan provided for a super world bank to handle reparations and eventually all international finance and act as clearing house for the government central banks of emission, the British fought hard to obtain London as the site. But the American delegates were too crafty and Basel, a small unimportant railway junction at the intersection of the French, German, and Swiss frontiers, was selected Basel is merely a geographical point marking the bank's site. The wires are pulled from London, Paris, Berlin, Rome, Brussels, Tokio, but chiefly from New York.

Since the Hoover moratorium, the Bank of International Settlements has turned its attentions more seriously toward international finance, and the Wiggin committee has been engaged there, outlining a definite program for the reorganization of Germany's finances, which have been tided over the danger point by the recent rediscount credits allocated to her. A cessation of reparations payments, which the super bank handled and distributed, gives the institution opportunity to devote all its attentions to what was originally planned as its secondary rôle.

SOVIET LEADERS WATCH ATHLETES PARADE

The tenth anniversary of the Red Sportintern and international red day was celebrated in Moscow on Aug. 5 in Red square with a parade of physical culturists. BRITAIN MAY LEAVE FREE TRADE RULE TO BALANCE ITS BUDGET

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 19.—The Labor cabinet tonight ended its longest session since the world war, after having worked out a list of tentative figures to balance the budget and eliminate an estimated deficit of $600,000,000. While it was not revealed exactly how this task is to be accomplished, it was learned from a reliable source that 21 Socialist ministers—staunchest of free trade advocates—discussed a 10 per cent tariff on imported manufactured goods.

The figures are by no means final, since they must run the gauntlet of the parliamentary Labor party's consultive committee, the National Labor party, the Trade Union council, and opposition party leaders. It will then be put before parliament, which is expected to be called in special session. Meanwhile the cabinet will meet again tomorrow to hear the reports of Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald and Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden.

One of the money saving plans is reduction of grants to local authorities for education and other purposes, although the Laborites shied away from the idea of trimming social services.

CROATIAN LEADER HERE TO PLEAD FOR AUTONOMY

Dr. August Kosutich, leader of the Croatian peasant party movement for independence, arrived in Chicago yesterday to study American institutions and to plead the cause of his people, who, he says, are being oppressed by Serbian dictatorship in the government of Jugo-Slavia. He declared that only a complete change in the system of government would be satisfactory to his party.

"Ever since King Alexander's decision to dissolve the parliament of Jugo-Slavia on Jan. 6, 1929, conditions in the country have been going from bad to worse," said Dr. Kosutich, who is a former member of the parliament at Belgrade.

GERMANY URGES PARLEY TO PATCH WORLD FINANCES

Hopes Hoover Will Act on Bankers' Report.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Aug. 19.—"A new conference on finances, politics and reparations must be called immediately and all Europe hopes that President Hoover will call it soon," a spokesman for the German government said this afternoon. He was asked to express Germany's official opinion on the report of the Wiggin committee of international bankers, which recommended revision of war debts and reparations as well as a settlement of Europe's numerous political quarrels.

Scenting a chance for a reduction in reparations, all Germany hails the report "as a real step forward on the road to recovery." James Speyer expressed the opinion of many of Germany's most able bankers in these words: "The report is the most constructive issued in years."

The fact that for six months Germany need not worry about refunding short term loans totaling $1,500,000,000 as a result of the agreement of the bankers at Basel, helps Germans to overcome the disappointment that "business men are again calling upon politicians to act." But the politicians must come to an agreement within six months, or at least before the end of the Hoover moratorium year, they add in a hopeful tone.

French Cabinet Studies Report.

PARIS, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Finance Minister Flandin will inform tomorrow's cabinet meeting of the significance to France of the Wiggin committee's report advocating revision of war debts and reparations.

Pending that meeting, at which the government's position is expected to be defined, official comment was withheld. Even in the newspapers there was little discussion of the recommendations made by the international bankers at Basel.

It was believed in Paris the Wiggin report would be the center of discussion at the impending meeting in Geneva for consideration of the Briand European union plan and at the league of nations assembly, which, it was reported tonight, both Foreign Minister Briand and Previer Laval will attend.

U. S. Officials Silent.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—The recommendation favoring revision of German reparations and world war debts made by the Wiggin committee of international bankers at Basel, Switzerland, yesterday came as no surprise to official Washington. Officials, however, declined to comment in the absence of the complete text of the bankers' report.

William R. Castle Jr., the acting secretary of state, declined to discuss the Wiggin committee report, explaining that he had read several versions in the press but did not have the text. The state department, he added, has not asked for a copy of the official report and may not do so, even for its information.

The committee, he pointed out, was one of bankers having no official or semi-official relationship with the United States government, although its relationship to the Bank of International Settlements, which created it, at the suggestion of the London conference of seven powers, might be semi-official.

Hoover Awaits Congress Action.

It is unlikely that President Hoover will make any clear cut statement on the war debt revision question until after congress has debated his German moratorium proposal and public opinion on the whole question of American aid to Germany and possible debt reduction has been clarified and made articulate.

Up to a few months ago the Hoover adminstration stood squarely against any move to tinker with war debts owed this country. Today no administration official will make any definite statement on this subject. It is considered still possible that the President may offer to reduce war debts on condition European nations reduce their armaments.

Reports from Europe said the Wiggins recommendations were hailed with great interest.

SMOOT CALLS FRANCE 'SHYLOCK' IN ATTITUDE TOWARD GERMANY

Salt Lake City, Utah, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Senator Reed Smoot of Utah branded France as a "Shylock" and declared that country is demanding "the last pound of flesh" from Germany in denouncing the attitude of France on the war debt proposals before members of the National Association of Secretaries of State at a banquet last night.

"I am disgusted with France in her efforts to destroy Germany," said the senator. "She is demanding her 'pound of flesh' from Germany, and Germany can't pay.

"France was the last of the United States' debtors to agree on a war debt settlement. She held out for weeks on President Hoover's moratorium proposal and took every advantage she could before giving her assent."

Discussing depression and unemployment, Smoot said: "We should raise sufficient funds to feed the hungry even if we have to issue bonds to do it. We now have a duty to our neighbors in which we must not fail."

CLUB MAN TELLS HOW LOS ANGELES PUTS IT ACROSS

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—How southern California is sold to the country at large was detailed to the board of supervisors today by representatives of the All the Year club of Los Angeles, who are seeking the usual advertising subsidy of $500,000 from the county.

In an effort to keep the tax rate down the supervisors had cut the appropriation to $250,000 for the current fiscal year. Don Thomas, executive secretary of the club, with charts and statistics, revealed the close check kept on the tourists. They represent, he showed, a steady, year round flow of $410,000,000 in cash, with an additional $125,000,000 left each year in investments.

Twelve cents of every tourist dollar spent here goes into retail trade. A total of 71,000 persons in Los Angeles county are entirely dependent for their living on the tourists.

On the technique of attracting tourists and the competition the All Year club faces, Thomas said:

"We have a settling talk that is good for the whole year round. First comes climate—about 30 per cent. Next is the Pacific ocean—say 20 per cent. The other 50 per cent is divided between oranges, movies, missions, mountains and sports.

"We are pitted against 328 other advertising organizations in the United States and in fifty foreign countries—all after this same tourist business. But we get results; one out of every ten tourists who visit southern California comes back later.

"Paid advertising, such as the All Year club has always used, is the best and most economical media of mass selling."

KOEHLER GIVES HIS DEFENSE IN OUSTER TRIAL

Charges Denied by Health Department Official.

Dr. G. A. Koehler, suspended assistant health commissioner, presented his defense to the charges against him before the civil service commission yesterday. The commission took the case under advisement and, it was reported, will make its decision today on whether Dr. Koehler shall be dismissed.

Dr. Koehler took the witness stand and denied the charge that he had ever ordered employes of the health department to change any reports in their custody, and in particular denied that he had ever ordered Dr. Fred O. Tonney of the department to change a report on the analysis of a sample of beer.

Dr. Tonney testified for the prosecution that Dr. Koehler had ordered him to report that the beer, seized by the south park police, contained only a legal percentage of alcohol, whereas, he stated, analysis showed the beer to be intoxicating.

Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, health commissioner during the last city administration, was also a defense witness. One of the charges against Dr. Koehler was that he had had a health cartoon removed from one of the bulletins of the department, and a picture of the former mayor substituted.

Dr. Kegel testified that it was at his direction that the substitution was made, and that Dr. Koehler had attempted to dissuade him from doing so.

ORVILLE WRIGHT.
[Acme Photo.]

Dayton, O., Aug. 19.—(AP)—An air-minded world, steeped in nearly three decades of aviation's big parade, remembered today the birthday of one who pioneered the air—Orville Wright.

At a quiet summer retreat on the shores of Georgian bay, Canada, Wright observed his sixtieth birthday anniversary.

Ever a subscriber to things simple, the co-inventor of the first heavier than air craft was scheduled to pass the day quietly in the company of a few close friends and relatives.

Messages from friends and admirers attested to the recognition of his achievements, realized in collaboration with his brother, Wilbur, who died in 1912.

Although 28 years have passed since the Wright brothers startled a skeptical world at Kitty Hawk, N. C., with their daring flight into the air on man made wings, Orville has retained all of his keen interest in aeronautical development.

Enjoying constant good health, he is to be found daily in his Dayton laboratory.

In recent years Wright has not engaged in actual flying activities but has contented himself with furthering the industry he was instrumental in founding.

Five More Die in Mexican Floods; 200 Are Marooned

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Floods and storms, which during the last month have taken numerous lives and caused much property damage in Mexico, added five victims to their toll yesterday when Yuriria lake, in the state of Guanajuato, overflowed and inundated a large farming district near the town of Jaral. The flood came so rapidly that the victims, all farmers, were unable to escape to high places. Approximately 200 others were marooned in nearby hills.

'TWAS THIS WAY: HERB HAD BILL TIP FRANK OFF

And So Rumored Slight Is Explained Away.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—When President Hoover told acting Secretary of State William R. Castle to answer Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt's letter asking whether the United States and Canada were negotiating secretly about the St. Lawrence waterway, it wasn't meant as a snub but as a kindly way of letting the governor know he was talking through his hat.

Mr. Castle himself gave out the lowdown today on the incident that has caused such a stir both here and in Albany.

What the Dopesters Saw.

Gov. Roosevelt may be the man to run against President Hoover in 1932; as befitting the rank of a chief executive of one of the sovereign states it has always been customary for the President to reply in person to a communication from a governor; the matter in question concerned that political issue, power; and, instead of being formal about it, Mr. Castle headed the reply to his old friend, the governor, "Dear Frank." All the ingredients of an intentional slight were there.

And to Washington, where the failure to grant an official his proper place at the dinner table furnishes a month's awestruck gossip, the triple play correspondence, from Roosevelt to Hoover to Castle, assumed momentous proportions.

How Castle Tells It.

But the gossip, it appeared today, was all unfounded.

"Gov. Roosevelt's letter to the President was based on the incorrect assumption that negotiations had been in progress between this government and the Canadian government in respect to the St. Lawrence waterway. It was clear that the governor had been misinformed, since such negotiations had not yet been undertaken," said Mr. Castle. "The President, in referring the governor's letter to me, thought that, since this letter was based on a false premise, it would be better that I should informally communicate to the governor the fact that he had been misinformed, since it was on this misinformation that he had based his letter."

Fined for Buying Auto with Altered License Tag

Invoking a state law defining the possession of an automobile with altered license numbers as a misdemeanor, Judge John J. Rooney in the Felony court yesterday fined William Wendall, 1515 West Monroe street, $200 and costs. Wendall was arrested on July 16 in an automobile that had been stolen from Dr. L. Seed, 1405 North Austin boulevard. Wendall pleaded that he had purchased the car the day before he was arrested and did not know the license plates had been changed. Hearing on a motion for a new trial was set for Sept. 14.

The manager of the company and another friend of the actress became alarmed when she failed to appear at a rehearsal today and went to her apartment, where they found her gagged.

None of the jewels in the apartment was disturbed, but it was said about $440 had disappeared from her handbag.

25 INJURED AS CHINESE ATTACK JAPANESE SHOPS

[Copyright: 1931: By the New York Times.]

PORT ARTHUR, Manchuria, Aug. 19—Twenty-five Japanese and Koreans were injured, some seriously, in anti-Japanese riots at Tsing-Tao yesterday afternoon, when a mob of 600 Chinese attacked Japanese shops and stormed the Robin club, an organization of Japanese conservatives favoring "strong politics in all questions affecting China," according to a report from Japanese naval authorities at Tsing-Tao to the governor general of the Kwantung leased territory here.

The immediate cause was a dispute over fishing rights on the Shantung coast, which are reserved by Japan by treaty with China.

Early this year the Nanking nationalist government issued a manifesto barring foreign vessels from coastal fishing zones. Later, under the leadership of the Kuomintang, Chinese fish merchants in Tsing-Tao boycotted and picketed the Japanese fish market, driving out a majority of the Japanese fishing boats.

GRAB SIX IN PLOT TO PEDDLE LAKE AT $5 A GALLON

Deputies Raid Plant of Anti-Freeze Racket.

A scheme of nine anti-freeze racketeers to sell Lake Michigan to motorists at $5 a gallon was thwarted last night when deputy federal marshals arrested six alleged members of the ring and raided their canning plant.

In the raid at 1214 Roosevelt road the marshals and agents of the department of justice found 6,000 one gallon cans which were perfect duplicates of a type distributed by the makers of a widely known anti-freeze preparation. These cans, however, contained water, colored to imitate the lightest product.

Glycerine Too Expensive.

"At first they put a little glycerine in the water, which reduced the freezing point to 15 degrees above zero," said an investigator for the legitimate manufacturers, who aided the government. "Apparently they thought this method too expensive, for they stopped using the glycerine and just poured the water right from the hydrant."

Those arrested are Earl Sam Dyke, Louis and Sam Ziv, all of the Belmede hotel; Zigman Chaplik, who works in a machine shop at 732 Roscoe street; David Blanc, St. Louis; and Adolph Postel. The latter was seized during the raid on the plant on Roosevelt road. Three others were being sought on warrants issued by United States Commissioner Walker.

Besides the cans already manufactured and filled, the raiders found large quantities of tin sheets stamped in imitation of the original. The investigators said there was enough material on hand to reap many thousands of dollars from the winter auto trade had the plan been carried out.

Face Conspiracy Charge.

Assistant United States Attorneys Walter Wilms and Francis J. Kennedy, who questioned the prisoners, said they would be prosecuted for conspiracy to violate the criminal section of the federal patent regulations. Using the name of a patentee without permission is punishable by a minimum fine of $100 plus costs. If prosecuted for conspiracy, the defendants would be subject to two years in the penitentiary and fines of $10,000 each.

Investigators for the legitimate manufacturing company pointed out that the purchase of one can of the anti-freeze solution might result in the burning of a motorist's radiator and cylinder block, causing damage of several hundred dollars.

The prisoners seized last night were held up at the detective bureau and will be arraigned today before Commissioner Walker.

BURGLARS TAKE $5,100 LOOT FROM 12TH FLOOR HOME

Burglars ransacked the twelfth floor apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Don of 431 Roscoe street last night and stole jewelry, silverware, and clothing valued at $5,100. Don is president of Edward Don & Co., restaurant supplies, 2213 South La Salle street. The same thieves attempted to break into an apartment on the eleventh floor, Town Hall police discovered.

The loot taken from the Don home consisted of two rings, valued at $1,000 and the other $800; a 132-piece silver set, which cost $900; a bar pin worth $1,200, a real estate bond amounting to $1,000, and some clothing estimated at $200 in value.

Once Suspected in Torch Deaths; Slashes Throat

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 19.—(AP)—A few hours before he was to have been questioned concerning human blood found on a club in his possession, Paul Keene, 43, once suspected of last week's torch slayings of two young couples, tonight slashed his throat in his cell. His condition is serious. He and his younger brother, Lawrence, were arrested near the spot where the bodies of the four were found. Suspicion against them was strengthened when stains found on a club in their shanty proved to be human blood. They gave no satisfactory explanation for the blood, confessions of the three slayers interrupting that investigation. The brothers since have been held on a prohibition charge.

SIX HURT WHEN BIG PLANE MISSES FIELD IN FORCED LANDING

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 19.—(AP)—A New York bound plane of Transcontinental and Western Air overshot its landing as weather forced it to earth at Bettis field here tonight, slid off a hill at the end of the field, wabbled in the air for a moment, and then smacked to the ground, injuring its six occupants.

Four persons—two passengers, the pilot, and the co-pilot—were taken to a hospital, but the condition of only one was considered at all serious. Mrs. T. J. Russell of Newark, N. J., was reported suffering from shock, her condition aggravated by recent illness in a Columbus, O., hospital.

The big ship left Chicago at 12:35 eastern standard time today. The undercarriage of the $60,000 ship was wrecked.

Because of the weather, flights through here were canceled for the night, both east and west.

Pilot, Passenger Killed.

Buffalo, N. Y., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Unable to pull his plane out of a nose dive, a pilot and a passenger were killed today when the plane crashed on a farm on the outskirts of the city. The victims were identified as George Hayes, Buffalo, pilot, an instructor at Kenny flying field, and a student flyer named Kinsella.

KARL BORDERS, lecturer of University of Chicago.

JAMES MULLENBACH, former school trustee.

DR. NORMAN B. BARR of Olivet institute.

Their program includes a moratorium on taxes, mortgages and liens on essential furniture, no evictions of families before social agencies are notified, sufficient food and balanced diet for health, no turning off of gas, water or electricity without first notifying social agencies, work on forest preserves, parks, highways and other public works, enactment of laws for unemployment insurance and 40 hour a week in industry without decrease in wages.

Mayor Cermak told the delegation he favors a special session of the legislature and that the governor's relief commission is the logical agency to handle any appeal for a special session of congress.

HOOVER NAMES GIFFORD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—Walter S. Gifford, president of the American Telegraph and Telephone company, was named by President Hoover today to head a national organization which will be charged with the task of mobilizing national, state, and local relief agencies of every kind in meeting the unemployment crisis during the coming winter.

FRED C. CROXTON.

In a letter asking the New York executive to assume the task of setting up an organization to coördinate federal and state efforts as well as to coöperate with the public authorities, President Hoover asserted that the "whole force of the administration" would be placed at the disposal of Mr. Gifford. The President also asserted that he was certain the task of handling any unemployment crisis that may arise this winter would be met.

Advisory Committee Named.

A nation-wide advisory committee, the names of whose members were not announced, will be appointed by the President to assist Mr. Gifford. Fred C. Croxton, head of the President's emergency employment committee, will function under the Gifford organization. Thus both national relief and national efforts to obtain employment for the jobless army will be combined under one head.

The appointment of Mr. Gifford marked the first step taken by the President to set up the comprehensive unemployment machinery which he announced some days ago would be worked up to handle unemployment relief. It was regarded as further proof that the President plans to get his organization functioning before congress meets in the hope that "dole" or other socialistic relief legislation can be forestalled.

No Special Session.

That the President plans to operate his relief organization as independently as possible of congress was seen in a new White House statement today to the effect that no special session of the senate and house would be called. The reiteration of previous announcements to this effect was occasioned by the receipt of a letter from Gov. Pinchot of Pennsylvania which urged the calling of a special session to afford direct relief to the unemployed in states where communities were unable to take care of their own people.

"I have appointed Walter S. Gifford," the President said, "to set up and direct such organization as may be desirable, with headquarters in Washington, to coöperate with the public authorities and to mobilize national, state and local agencies of every kind which will have charge of the activities arising out of unemployment in various parts of the nation this winter. A survey of need and probable extent of the load during the next winter by various federal agencies is now in progress.

"The task of proper assistance to the deserving is one which will again appeal to the generosity and humanity of our whole people. It is a task which our nation will perform, for in no people is there developed a higher sense of local responsibility and of responsibility of every man to his neighbor."

In his letter to Mr. Gifford the President emphasized that the task of unemployment relief would be a real one.

"It is clear," he wrote, "that, irrespective of the improvement in employment, many localities in the United States will be faced during the coming winter with a heavy relief load due to unemployment."

RED CROSS GIVES $100,000 TO AID FLOODED CHINA

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—(AP)—The American Red Cross today allotted $100,000 to aid in the relief of China's thousands of flood sufferers, as President Hoover dispatched a message of sympathy to President Chiang Kai-shek of the Chinese nationalist government. The money, which will be made available immediately at Hankow, will be transmitted through the state department to Walter A. Adams, consul general.

Hundreds More Drown.

HANKOW, China, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Countless hundreds and perhaps thousands drowned today as the flood waters of the Yangtse river slowly leveled dykes, undermined cities and destroyed the farms upon which the country has depended for its food.

The nationalist government at Nanking, already harassed by rebellion in the south, indifference in the far western interior, and pressing financial problems, sought to perfect an organization to meet the emergency.

HOBO VILLAGE TURNS MEN TO DOMESTIC ARTS

100 Jobless Live in Huts Built of Scraps.

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

A hundred or more men are "hacking" it, cooking their meals over open fireplaces and keeping house in small shacks made from old tin, boxes, cartons, bricks, and other materials, in a vacant lot at Des Plaines and Harrison streets.

Once a dumping ground, the lot is now transformed into a curious village, heaps of coke and clumps of weeds alternating with the motley shacks, some of them not high enough for a man to sit upright inside, nor much longer than a Pullman berth.

They are proud of their creations, these jobless men who have so much time on their hands and so little money in their pockets. "Old Harry," whose last name is Greenbush, says that he's satisfied with his house, but it's small, so he's building an addition.

Harry has a cupboard made of odds and ends in which he keep old onions and potatoes and carrots which he "bums" from grocers, he said. He displayed a tin can full of pieces of fat meat. It would make a fine stew, he said.

Mike Hovahtk has made a water tight house with an auto top roof. His pal, Mike Krzik, has an auto top roof, too.

One of the most decorative dwellings is that of Adam Rimchaw, who says he gets occasional work as laborer on a railroad, but has to help support two motherless daughters. Atop his house is a tiny windmill, which a visitor carved for Adam one night in return for a mess of slumgullion.

Many of the residents of this hobos' village have taken up sewing. Mike Boek exhibited the neat patches on his coat and trousers as evidence.

Fred, a tall, sunburned young man, who in common with many of the villagers was not a bum before last winter's unemployment, used to be a camp cook in Montana. He doesn't have a shack, but he goes to the village at night, and in return for cooking and washing dishes for some of the men is given a dish of stew or a sandwich. The housekeeping of some of them gets on his nerves, he confided, but he soon puts thing right.

Yesterday was another mild day for hay fever sufferers, at least in the loop. According to a pollen count taken daily by O. C. Durham, botanist, on top of the federal building by means of a slide exposed to the air, there were only 11 pollen granules in a cubic yard of atmosphere. Although the hay fever season started last Saturday, only one day, Monday, has shown a high enough pollen count to be really annoying to ordinary hay fever cases. Monday's count was 15 on the federal building. Only severe cases are experiencing more than an introduction to their annual sneezing and weeping, experts agree.

RADIO TO STEER OLD BATTLESHIP UNDER GUNFIRE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—(AP)—The ghost hand of the radio will steer the old battleship Utah in the near future as she dodges in and out in an effort to escape a baptism of fire.

Selected as a target ship, the craft is now having equipment for remote radio control installed at the Norfolk navy yard. Controlling apparatus will be placed on a destroyer.

Provision will be made for steaming the battleship at varying rates of speed, for smoke screens; in fact, for all the maneuvers a ship might make to escape gun fire.

The time for the Utah to be used as a target has not been definitely fixed.

"They're out—so they can't be in!"

The finest tobacco quality plus throat protection.

Every LUCKY STRIKE is made of the finest tobacco leaves the world can offer—the finest from Turkey—the finest from Kentucky, Tennessee, Virginia, Georgia and the Carolinas—the Cream of many Crops throughout the world. But all tobacco leaves, regardless of price and kind, as nature produces them, contain harsh irritants. LUCKY STRIKE'S exclusive "TOASTING" Process—a process that mellows, that purifies, that includes the use of the modern Ultra Violet Ray—expels certain harsh irritants naturally present in every tobacco leaf. We sell these expelled irritants to manufacturers of chemical compounds, who use them as a base in making sheep-dip*, as well as a powerful spraying solution for trees, flowers and shrubs—enough to permit the daily dipping of over 50,000 sheep or the daily spraying of many thousands of trees. Thus, you are sure these irritants, naturally present in all tobacco leaves, are not in your LUCKY STRIKE. "They're out—so they can't be in!" No wonder LUCKIES are always kind to your throat.

JAS. A. FARRELL WILL NOT TALK ON DIVIDEND CUT

U. S. Steel Is Linked with Banking Interests.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 19.—[Special.]—The United States Steel corporation recognizes that the recent reduction of its dividend rate from $7 to $4 has brought widespread complaint and that many people are charging that the cut was made to hold money, that would have gained distribution, in banks controlled by the steel corporation—but its president, James A. Farrell, had nothing to say about it today.

JAMES A. FARRELL. [Acme Photo.]

"I am not going to give you an interview," said the elderly, rosy faced gentleman who has been at the head of the billion dollar corporation since 1911, "for there are matters that only the entire board can discuss. No, I know there has been criticism—there is criticism about everything."

Tries to Get Interview.

"But about general matters, Mr. Farrell, after all you are the president," began the reporter.

"Yes, yes, I know," said Mr. Farrell, "but I have nothing to say at this time—and remember you have not interviewed me."

Even such a brief audience with the head of the steel corporation was not won in a day, nor two days. Three flights at 71 Broadway, a dingy black building facing Wall street, were made and a letter written before the reporter got as far as the waiting room, a curious old fashioned place furnished with stiff, formidable chairs and an oak table littered with trade journals.

Note Sent to Farrell.

On the first call a secretary suggested that Mr. Farrell be advised in writing as to what the interview would concern. The following note was dispatched to President Farrell:

"I have been assigned by THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE to seek an interview with you regarding the recent dividend reduction by the United States Steel corporation. Many people are charging that the reduction was made in order to hold the money that would have been distributed in banks controlled by the directors of United States Steel. Your secretary advised me to call at your office Wednesday morning."

The morning THE TRIBUNE caller was told to return in the afternoon. He returned and gained access to the waiting room. Eventually he was ushered into an adjoining room where Mr. Farrell was waiting. Nothing was said about having a seat.

Question Unanswered.

The interviewer wanted to know whether Mr. Farrell still held his former opinion that wage cuts were harmful to industry and served to retard the return to normal conditions; whether United States Steel was contemplating a reduction in its wage scale in particular; the amount of money saved by the 10 to 15 per cent salary cut for executives and white collar workers which went into effect Aug. 1; the number of employés this year as compared with last; why it was necessary to slash the dividend rate in half; where United States Steel banks its money, and a lot of other things, but Mr. Farrell did not give him the opportunity to interrogate him.

The interview failed, but research and questioning elsewhere threw an interesting light on the connection between the steel board and the banking world.

U. S. Steel is closely linked with the Morgan interests. J. P. Morgan and Junius S. Morgan Jr. are Steel directors; Thomas M. Lamont of the Morgan company also is on the Steel directorate. This identifies Steel with the powerful First National and Guaranty Trust of New York. The late George F. Baker, chairman of the board of the First National, was a director and his son, George F. Baker Jr., vice president of the First National, sits at the Steel meetings. Myron C. Taylor, a member of the Steel board and leading light in the First National, binds U. S. Steel and the Morgan bank still closer, and Walter S. Gifford, president of American Telephone and Telegraph, is a director in both Steel and First National.

United States Steel is identified with middle western banks through its directors. Eugene J. Buffington of Chicago, a Steel director, also is a director in the Continental Bank and Trust company, the South Chicago Savings bank, and the Gary State bank. Thomas Morrison of Pittsburgh, Samuel Mather of Cleveland, a director of Bankers Trust of New York and Union Trust of Cleveland; and Percival Roberts Jr. of Narberth, Pa., all Steel directors, link the corporation with middle western financial houses.

Cuts Follow Deficit Report.

The dividend reduction and cut in salaries of white collar workers was decided late last month coincident with the issuance of the corporation's quarterly earnings report, which showed a deficit, after special income of $7,160,966 from sale of property, of $7,617,856 for the three months ending June 30.

The reduction of salaries of officers and office employés, it was learned, is on the following basis:

Salaries from $1,800 to $5,000, 10 per cent; from $5,000 to $10,000, 12½ per cent; more than $10,000, 15 per cent.

The corporation's wage earners have not been affected so far and no announcement has been forthcoming regarding their ultimate fate.

PROTESTS START AGAINST CURB ON OIL PRODUCTION

Small Refiners Complain of Discrimination.

Tyler, Tex., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Protests against the shutdown of oil wells in east Texas and Oklahoma under martial law were voiced tonight as refiners felt the pinch of diminishing supplies of crude and at Austin, Tex., a state legislator challenged the authority of Gov. Ross S. Sterling to maintain the enforced suspension in east Texas, hinting of possible impeachment proceedings.

The opposition became vocal after oil leaders and public officials generally had expressed their approbation of the shutdown. As cheap oil became scarcer today, the market for crude was strengthened materially.

Representative Bailey Hardy of Breckenridge, Tex., an opponent of Gov. Sterling's oil conservation program, announced he would introduce a resolution in the Texas house demanding that the executive cite his authority and explain his reasons for closing the east Texas area.

Governor Not Interested.

Gov. Sterling, who was at Houston, expressed little interest in the Hardy resolution. He said if Hardy would read his martial law proclamation "I think he will get the information he seeks and my reasons and authority for issuing the proclamation."

A group of representatives of small refining companies meeting at Dallas declared a score or more of plants would be forced to close within a week unless production is resumed in east Texas.

They asserted the suspension was discriminatory, claiming that the major companies were getting oil by increasing imports from foreign countries and thus offsetting the reduction of about 1,000,000 barrels of crude daily effected in Texas and Oklahoma.

This phase of the situation was taken up today with the "big four" oil importing companies by Thurman Hill, member of the Kansas public service commission. He telegraphed an invitation to officials of the Standard Oil Company of Indiana, the Shell Petroleum corporation, the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, and the Gulf Oil corporation to attend a conference in Oklahoma City Sept. 11 at which officials of Texas, Oklahoma, and Kansas will discuss adoption of a uniform policy regarding conservation.

Fears Result of Shutdown.

Homer F. Wilcox, president of the H. F. Wilcox Oil and Gas company, declared at Tulsa that the state and the petroleum industry would be heavy losers if Oklahoma wells remain shut do "very long." He said Gov. W. H. Murray should make a "clear cut statement, telling us what he wants and what he will do."

Murray has stated the wells will remain shut down until the price reaches $1 a barrel.

Oil men here were reticent in discussing prices but reports from the East Texas field were that storage supplies were being held at prices ranging from 60 to 65 cents per barrel. Large quantities previously had been sold at from 7½ to 10 cents per barrel.

Not a drop of oil issued today from 1,600 East Texas wells that a week ago produced a daily average in excess of 750,000 barrels.

Murray Has $1 Offers.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Asserting four of five oil company representatives who called on him this afternoon had agreed to pay $1 a barrel for oil, Gov. Murray said late today he believed a plan could be worked out within a few days "under which the companies can run day and night if they want to."

Kentucky Crude Up.

Owensboro, Ky., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Western Kentucky oil producers today were receiving 15 cents per barrel more for their product. The Ohio Oil company and the Producers' Pipeline company posted a 65 cent price as compared to 50 cents paid previously.

SEE END OF LONG STRIFE BETWEEN ITALY AND POPE

Agreement Believed Near on Main Points.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Aug. 19.—The strife which developed between the Italian government and the Vatican early last spring and approached an open break two months ago when Premier Mussolini dissolved all clubs depending upon the Catholic Action society was believed to be on the eve of settlement tonight, following a long conversation between Pope Pius and Padre Tacchi Venturi of the Jesuit order.

While it is probable the settlement will not be formally announced for some time, it is understood that the basis for conciliation has been practically agreed upon. Although foreign office authorities today said that it was premature to say that settlement had been reached, they did not deny that negotiations were being pursued satisfactorily.

Vatican Reveals Conversations.

In Vatican circles it was made known that the pontiff's conversation with Padre Venturi dealt with relations between Fascism and the holy see.

Padre Venturi for years has been a trusted adviser of Premier Mussolini, and is generally credited with having arranged the conciliation pact which was signed by il duce and the Vatican representatives two years ago.

For several days it has been reported in Rome that a formula has been found which satisfies the pope's demands, and Padre Venturi has had several secret interviews with the pontiff recently. After today's long talk the Jesuit father had a long conversation with Cardinal Pacelli, Vatican secretary of state, on relations between Fascism and the church.

Envoys May Retire.

It is expected that the agreement between the church and state, if effected, will be followed by the retirement of Count de Vecchi, ambassador to the holy see, and of Borgoncini Duca, Vatican nuncio to Italy. According to some reports, Count de Vecchi's place will be taken by the present minister of justice, Alfredo Rocco.

Two controversial points which have been involved in the conversations were the pope's demands that the government relinquish its claim to the exclusive education of youth and the government's demands that Catholic Action keep out of politics.

SHE SAYS FEAR OF LONG JURY DUTY INFLUENCED VOTE

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 19.—(AP)—One of two women charged with contempt of court in connection with service on a jury testified at a hearing today that her vote in a civil suit was influenced by fear of being locked up in the jury room for 36 hours.

The two women, Mrs. Gladys Garrett, Cherry Valley, and Mrs. Margaret Culbertson, Rockford, served on a jury which last March awarded $500 to Mrs. Lucy Avey in a damage suit against Walker Medaris. Mrs. Garrett testified she was prompted to compromise because of fear of remaining for a long period in the jury room. She said that she voted "against her own best judgment" and on condition that damages awarded the plaintiff would be small.

Mrs. Garrett also admitted charges that she discussed the case during a court recess, and that she was prejudiced against the plaintiff.

BABY DESERTED; FOSTER MOTHER TAKES HIM HOME

Yesterday noon a well dressed man of portly build appeared at the Lewis Memorial Maternity hospital, 3001 South Michigan avenue, carrying a baby boy about three weeks old. He said that he had parked his automobile in Jackson park earlier. When he returned he found the infant in his car, he declared.

The man prevailed on the hospital to accept the baby and left, giving his name as H. M. Carr and his address as Moline. Later Mrs. William Kennedy of 7156 South Carpenter street saw the baby while on a visit to the hospital and asked permission to take the child home.

Lieut. Stevenson of the Cottage Grove avenue station was notified. He took the abandoned baby to St. Vincent's orphanage, as is required by police regulations. There the baby was given to Mrs. Kennedy on her promise to adopt it.

THERE are more sales per day per square yard on State Street than in any other retail center in the world. One of the big factors in producing this business is the Chicago Tribune.

The Advertising Record Company, an independent statistical organization, measures the advertising which appears in the Chicago newspapers. Each month this company publishes a separate report of the lineage run by nine State Street stores—the Boston Store, Carson Pirie Scott & Co., The Fair, Davis Co., Henry C. Lytton & Sons, Mandel Brothers, Marshall Field & Co., Maurice L. Rothschild, and Chas. A. Stevens & Bros. These nine are the largest from the standpoint of floor space, number of customers, and volume of business. They are the backbone of State Street.

During the first seven months of this year these Chicago retailers placed more lineage in the Tribune than in any other Chicago newspaper. Six individually placed more lineage in the Tribune than in any other paper.

Retail advertisers have first hand information on which to judge the relative merits of newspapers as advertising media. They look daily for immediate returns from their advertising. The Tribune received the major portion of the lineage placed by this key group of Chicago merchants because of the results it produces.

FARM BOARD TO MAKE A SECRET LOAN ON COTTON

Refuses to Tell Amount to Be Advanced.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—The federal farm board today agreed to make supplemental loans to the American cotton coöperative association in order to finance this year's crop, but true to its policy of secrecy in such matters refused to make public just how many millions of dollars had been committed for this purpose.

The board announced that it stood ready to supplement commercial loans or loans from intermediate credit banks to an amount which would permit the coöperatives, on the basis of present prices, to make advances to growers in an amount equal to one cent per pound less than the market price at the point of delivery.

Guess is 15 Millions.

Assuming that the expectations of the board are carried out and the coöperatives handle 3 million bales this year and since it has been customary for the coöperatives to get 65 per cent of the value of the cotton handled from the banks, the farm board furnishings the remaining amount of the loan, this would mean that the farm board stands ready to loan something more than 15 millions to the coöperatives on the basis of 6 cents at point of delivery. What the actual amount will be will depend, of course, on the prices and the number of pounds marketed through the coöperatives.

Up to last July the farm board had $117,000,000 tied up on loans on cotton. A portion of this represented its share of loans made to the Cotton Stabilization corporation for the purchase of 1,300,000 bales, the remainder constituted loans to the coöperatives.

Evades Chinese Inquiry.

The board took no action today on the inquiry of the Chinese government, transmitted through the American consul at Nanking, as to the board's willingness to sell some of its stabilization wheat on credit. Nor did the board have any official comment to make concerning the suggestion by its former member, Sam R. McKelvie, that its wheat be purchased for use in domestic relief.

Fair Proportion of Indiana Farms Show Profit in Survey

BY PAUL POTTER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lafayette, Ind., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—Money is being made on farms this year even if those who do it are decidedly in the minority, a survey of typical northern and central Indiana farms discloses.

From first hand reports of farmers keeping some sort of records on their incomes and expenses have come the conclusion that at least a dozen to fifty farmers in every county through the diversified farming sections expect to weather hard times without going into the red. A somewhat larger number indicate they will at least break even.

Here on the soil are to be found the real leaders of modern agriculture, unheralded yet setting the pace for the changed type of farm business that a new set of conditions has made necessary. Repeatedly in the last few days they have volunteered the opinion they were asking no outside help save for betterment of world economic conditions and without exception have been unable to name where they as individual farmers have been aided by governmental attempts at farm relief.

Take Case of John R.

Take as typical of this better class of farmers, John R. of De Kalb county, who finds he has continued to make money in recent years. He says he "has been lucky," but his neighbors are beginning to realize the cause for his independence of mortgage and loan worries has deeper foundation.

He sells cream from 17 Guernsey cows on his 176 acres, feeding all the wheat and oats he raises to the herd, his work horses, and the hogs. Were he not soaking and feeding the "mortgage lifters" whole wheat he would have been hit by the higher price of corn. His cream checks in recent weeks have shown material improvement and by fall he will again be churning butter on his farm for a ready sweet cream butter trade in the nearby town.

Careful of Quality.

His 170 chickens of a quality strain yield a premium for eggs in hatcheries and a local trade that knows he sends his eggs into market clean and fresh. He culls out nonlayers each season. John R. is adding both stock manure and commercial fertilizer to his soil and getting a few more bushels of grain to the acre than those in his neighborhood.

He raises colts and has always found a good market for them when well broken in. Too many farmers want their horse power handed to them, he believes. He always has a flock of ewesheep and in most years the lambs and wool have paid above what cleaning up the flock did about the farm.

His surplus cows, hogs, horses and sheep are sold to other farmers for breeding stock at a premium over butchering prices. He raises his own potatoes and garden and fruit for the family as well as meat in winter.

Another Illustration.

Then take a look at the Otto Gerber farm of eighty acres in a nearby county. In each of the six years since this rundown place was bought the Gerbers have shown a little better margin of profit over the year before. They keep two daughters in college even after having to charge off a dollar a day for taxes and interest. Pure bred calves, Hampshire pigs bring this place premium prices, paying for cheap feed with a regular cream check, while the poultry flock still supplies ready cash for the few needs of the family. Gradually the buildings, fences and soil are being built up again.

Admits Overinvestment.

"I tell you the matter with most farmers is they are burdened with overimprovement and capital invested when the land was selling at high prices," declared F. Webster, another profit showing farmer in Delaware county, who owns the 320 acres he operates.

Keeping a balance between grain and live stock so that labor and income are well distributed over the year is the reason he gives for keeping his head above water in these low farm price times.

Purchases have in most cases been limited to real necessities by most farmers interviewed. They are avoiding the purchase of expensive equipment, but are building up steel fences and doing some repair work on buildings.

$500,000 WASTE IS DISCOVERED IN WATER METERS

Find Excessive Costs in Wolfe Regime.

Evidence that the former city administration wasted nearly $500,000 in the installation of water meters was found yesterday in the city hall. The waste, the records show, was nearly one-half of the total sum paid out for meter installations during the former regime.

The excess cost was paid out during the four years that Richard W. Wolfe was commissioner of public works. The waste was found by investigators through applying the recent agreement of the plumbers to install five meters a day as compared with the two-a-day program followed under Wolfe.

Could Install 16 a Day, Claim.

Some engineers, however, contend that the plumbers can install as many as sixteen meters a day under favorable conditions. If that schedule had been followed by Wolfe the city would have saved $499,659, the investigation revealed. If Wolfe had only obtained such an agreement as is now in effect—the installation of five meters a day—he would have saved the city $342,625.

Wolfe's opportunity to cut installation costs was much greater, city officials state, than it is at the present time. The meterization program had hardly started when he took office. The installations were made during his four year term in buildings where the obstacles to fast work by the plumbers were few.

Table of Labor Costs.

In the following table is shown the number of meters installed under Wolfe, the total labor cost at the installation rate of two a day, and the total labor cost, figured on the basis of sixteen installations a day by each plumber.

Year.	No. of meter installations.	Labor cost at 2 a day.	Labor cost at 16 a day.
1927.. ...	4,915	$ 94,290	$110,537
1928.....	3,917	134,562	16,320
1929.....	12,308	189,521	23,690
1930.....	4,915	162,659	20,332
Totals..	25,155	$571,038	$71,379

"The labor cost at two a day in 1927 and 1928 was estimated by applying the ratio between the 1929 labor cost and the 1929 total cost to the total costs of 1927 and 1928. Wolfe's annual reports showed only the labor cost as a separate item in the years 1929 and 1930.

The difference between the amount paid out by Wolfe and the amount the city would have been charged had the installations been made at the rate of sixteen a day, the figures show, is $499,659.

The total installation cost under Wolfe, including $506,267 paid for materials, was $1,077,305. If Wolfe had adopted the program for faster meter installations the total cost, according to the figures, would have been only $577,646.

Labor Cost Is Doubled.

Wide variations in the average labor cost per meter during the years 1929 and 1930 were found by the investigators. Wolfe's annual report for 1929 shows that 12,308 meters were installed at a labor cost of $189,521, or an average per meter of $15.39. His report for 1930 shows 4,915 meters installed at a labor cost of $162,659, or an average per meter of $33.09. In 1930 the labor cost, apparently, had doubled over that of 1929.

In obtaining an agreement from the plumbers to install five meters a day per plumber it is estimated that the labor cost has been cut 40 per cent. If such an agreement had been put into effect by Wolfe the total cost of installing meters would have been only $848,892 instead of $1,077,304, or a difference of $342,625.

Sixteen meters per plumber could be installed each day, city officials admit, providing that the working conditions were ideal. It could be accomplished, they say, if the plumbers went from house to house and found the water pipes accessible. But, in practice, they contend, hindrances are found which delay placing many of the meters.

HARDING RETURNS FROM FLYING TRIP AFTER OLD ARMOR

GEO. F. HARDING.

New York, Aug. 19.—[Special.]—Just because George F. Harding is from Chicago and has been abroad buying up medieval armor a lot of wise cracks probably were forthcoming today from New York acquaintances when he returned aboard the steamship Bremen. Mr. Harding is well known in Illinois political circles.

But it didn't mean a thing except that the Harding collection of armor is said to be the largest private one in the world, and that he has been looking around with the idea of adding to it during his six-week visit to Europe. In order to save time and go to two or three times as many places as he otherwise would, Mr. Harding took his big Fleetster monoplane and William S. Brock, trans-Atlantic flyer, who is now Harding's personal pilot, with him, visiting more than 50 cities in four weeks' flying.

Others in the Harding party include Mrs. Brock, Miss Jessie Katz, secretary of the George F. Harding collection, and Miss Katherine Lennon. R. F. Coe, mechanic and co-pilot, is returning with the plane aboard the steamship New York.

Father and Son Struck by Train on River Bridge

Joseph Sortino, 43 years old, 935 Lathrop avenue, Forest Park, and his son, Marvin, 9 years old, were injured, the former critically, when they were struck by an east bound Chicago, Aurora and Elgin electric train yesterday while they were walking on the railroad's trestle over the Des Plaines river west of Forest Park. Members of the train crew and E. L. Munson of Berkley, a passenger, saved the two from the river.

Midwife Held to Grand Jury in Death of Ci

A coroner's jury yesterday held Mrs. Celia Stejkal, 52 years old, 725 W. North avenue, a midwife, to the grand jury on a charge of murder by abortion in connection with the death of Miss Josephine Vaverka, 20 years old, 2030 Coulter street, on Aug. 6. The jury also recommended that the midwife's husband, Anton, 59 years old, be held on a charge of accessory after the fact.

Morton Grove Holds Its Annual Outdoor Fete

In addition to a program of athletics and dancing, the Morton Grove and Glenview fire departments staged a water fight.

NEW COMMANDER OF FT. SHERIDAN TO ARRIVE TODAY

Brig. Gen. Frank C. Bolles, a native of Illinois with a notable career of 35 years in the United States army, will arrive in Chicago today to take command of Fort Sheridan, it was announced yesterday by Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, commanding the sixth corps area. Gen. Bolles will succeed Brig. Gen. Manus McCloskey, who has been transferred to Fort Bragg, N. C.

Gen. Bolles was born at Elgin in 1872. He was graduated at West Point in 1896 and saw his first active duty as a second lieutenant of infantry at the capture of Manila during the Spanish-American war. He took part in numerous engagements during the Philippine insurrection and was wounded in 1899 and again in 1900. In 1899 he was decorated for gallantry in action.

At the outbreak of the world war he was a colonel and was assigned to command the 39th infantry. He took his regiment to France in 1918 and participated in the Aisne-Marne, St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensives. He was gassed in action and wounded on two occasions. He was awarded the Croix de Guerre and made a Chevalier of the Legion of Honor. Since the war Gen. Bolles has been chief of staff of the 94th division. He was made a brigadier general in 1928.

Dawes, president, and attended the luncheon.

SENATOR YATES FAILS TO TELL WHO SHOT HIM

..., Doesn't Know, His Explanation.

...Tork, Aug. 19.—[Special.]—...Dunbar Roy T. Yates of New Jersey today for the first time gave authorities his version of his relations with Ruth Jayne Cranmer, in whose apartment he was found wounded Thursday night.

Of the shooting he remembers nothing.

"I remember going out for a pack of cigarets," he said, according to Assistant District Attorney Alexander H. Kaminsky, who questioned him. "I ...remember coming back, but after ...I don't remember anything until ...up in the hospital."

"You quarreled, didn't you?" Mr. ...Kaminsky asked. "What did you ...about that?"

"That do two drunken people ever ...about?" Yates countered.

EVERY ONE SAYS 'HA HA' AT HARD LUCK CHARLEY

But Charley's Home Now; "Ha Ha's" Himself.

Five years ago Charley Slezas married a widow who had inherited a soft drink parlor at 1239 West 69th street from her previous husband. Charley was installed as bartender, but the experiment was hardly a success.

In the first place when the cop on the beat used to drop in with a thirsty look it was Charley's habit to move away from the beer taps and pass out nothing except dirty looks. On those occasions Mrs. Slezas, a hard headed business woman, was wont to move forward, muttering imprecations at her husband and apologies to the law.

Dips Deeply Into Stock.

Furthermore, Charley used to dip deeply into the stock in trade, on which occasions he got Neanderthal ideas about family discipline. Five times, said Lieut. William Gainor, acting commander of the Englewood district, Charley was arrested for beating his wife.

Sunday night Mrs. Slezas decided to clean house. She told Charley to go away and installed a son-in-law in his place as bartender.

"That Frank, her son-in-law, has a gun," Charley charged. "I am afraid he will kill me. I called the police. When I said, 'This is Charley Slezas,' the desk sergeant says, 'Ha, ha, ha,' and hangs up. Five times I call. Every time he hangs up on me.

Gets Another "Ha, Ha."

"Monday I go to the Stockyards court, but the judge says, 'Go away.' Tuesday I go to Comissioner Alcock's office to tell him how his police treat me, but the man there says 'Ha, ha, too. I go to the state's attorney's office and they tell me it is none of their business. I go to see Mayor Cermak and they tell me to come back next month.

"I have no money. I sleep under Wacker drive. Today I am going to write a letter to President Hoover and tell him how I am run out of my own home and the police won't help me."

Instead, however, he went to see Lieut. Gainor. The lieutenant called up Mrs. Slezas yesterday.

"Charley can come home now," she agreed, "but no more bartending, and no more drinking, or out he goes."

SLAYING VICTIM KNEW KILLER, INQUEST TOLD

Hunt Motive in Beer or Personal Feud.

John Furlong, 35 years old, 537 North Drake avenue, who was shot to death Tuesday night in the Garfield Square Social club, 427 North Central Park avenue, knew his slayer. This was indicated yesterday by the testimony of witnesses at the inquest in the county morgue.

A definite motive for the slaying was not established, however, and Deputy Coroner Jacob Schewell continued the hearing to Sept. 2 at the request of Capt. Martin Mullen of the Austin police station and Chief of Detectives John Norton to enable the police to investigate further.

Hunt Motive in Feud.

"The only possible motives that I can think of," Capt. Mullen said after the inquest, "are a personal feud, or a beer or handbook feud. From the testimony of witnesses and from my own investigation Furlong has a good reputation. That he knew one of the two men who shot him is indicated by their conversation just before the murder. I am certain there was no political motive."

The mystery of a $1,000 check found on the body, signed by "F. A. Hiter," was solved when John B. Brandt, 2519 North Rockwell street, a member of the club and purchasing agent for the Alemite corporation, 2633 North Crawford avenue, testified that he had received the check from Frank A. Hiter, Kenilworth, sales manager of the Alemite company, and had given it to Furlong to place a bet.

Frank B. Sears, 3816 Maypole avenue, president of the club, testified that the club was organized April 1, 1925, for Republican workers, and that its functions were purely social and fraternal.

Must Have Known Assailant.

Thomas J. Hannon, 3533 Walnut street, a member, said that he was in the basement at the time of the shooting. He testified that only members were allowed to enter and that Furlong must have known his assailant to admit him.

"The way they talked Furlong must have known him," Hannon testified. "Furlong said to him, 'I don't think much of you,' and the man replied, 'I never thought much of you either.' The men asked me if I was the boss and then, after lining us all against the wall, one of them asked Furlong for the manager. Furlong told him he was out of town and said that he was acting steward. The gunman then said, 'So you're the heavy guy,' and started to swing at Furlong. Furlong warded off the blow and the gunman fired, killing him."

Miss Mary Furlong, sister of the slain man and with whom he lived, testified that he had no enemies and was employed as an engineer by the west park board.

WOMAN DIES OF SLEEP POTION.

Mrs. Clara Dvorak, 30 years old, 5036 South Marshfield avenue, died yesterday at her home supposedly from an overdose of sleeping tablets taken on July 28.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THERE ISN'T ANY MORE.

County Judge Jarecki told the members of the governor's revenue commission that in his hearing of tax complaint cases he realized how little a speedy disposition of them would help. "No more taxes can come in," he said. "There isn't any more for thousands of persons. They haven't it."

This is true of property owners. They have been bled and nothing more can be taken out of them. The costs of government administered for years by spoilers have destroyed the sources of revenue. The taxpayer is flat. Corruption and incompetence in office robbed the public funds or wasted them and there was no miracle to defer forever the consequences of such conduct. Consequences couldn't be suppressed and they are ruinous. They took effect just when the property owner was suffering from the decline of values and earning power and the total effect has been overwhelming.

Taxation for spoils has its predestined end. Among the officials who heard Judge Jarecki's summing up of the revenue conditions was the governor himself, Mr. Emmerson. One of the most important factors in the possible relief of the general situation in Chicago is largely in the governor's power to control. He knows that the city has been bled white. There is an idle road fund of approximately $50,000,000 made up in large part of state taxes on gasoline used by Chicago motor vehicles. With Mr. Emmerson's consent $22,000,000 of this fund can be made available for the building of an elevated highway through the west side of Chicago favored by every Chicago institution. With the governor in opposition the opportunity for winter work and relief may be lost.

There is no other single project of relief which would be so beneficial within the authority of any official. To oppose it is to withhold the benefits of the money from the city which contributed it and to devote it to the purposes of rural land value increment as the gas taxes of the city have been used in the past.

Chicago has been prostrated by the draining of its revenue into public funds, downstate and for the benefit of California. Is it to be denied any return of the abstracted money?

CHEMICALS IN WAR.

An English lady of political prominence has lately told alarmed American audiences about a new chemical so potent that a spoonful will destroy a whole city. We suppose the way to avoid this terror is to abolish our fleet and join the league of nations. Meanwhile it may not be without interest to read what a student of the subject of chemical warfare has to say.

"Even with the crude means of protection available in the world war chemical agents caused only one-twelfth as many deaths in proportion to the number of casualties produced by them as was the case with other weapons. Also, it is unanimously reported by the doctors of all countries that there are practically no bad after effects in gas cases which recover. With the present improved protection this record would be bettered in a future war, so that there is absolutely no excuse for the wild statements sometimes published that cities could be wiped out by dropping on them a few bombs filled with chemicals. In the first place, much more damage would result from the dropping of high explosive bombs on cities, as these would destroy buildings, and a great deal of time would be required to repair the damage. If chemical agents were dropped on cities in bombs or sprayed from airplanes the effect would be greatly localized, only a few people in the immediate vicinity would be affected, as the buildings would furnish a great deal of protection and it would be a comparatively simple matter to neutralize the chemicals on the ground. In the second place, chemical agents would not be wasted in this manner, because they could be used with much greater effect on concentration of troops. But even in this use there would be no great loss of life, not so much as with high explosive bombs, on account of the protection available against chemicals. A large number of men might be temporarily disabled, but by far the greater number of them would recover, and recover completely."

This, of course, is the opinion of a "militarist," Maj. Gen. Gilchrist, and the fact that his general conclusions as to gas in war are similar to those of the most eminent civilian student of the subject in England, Prof. Haldane, will not offset that deplorable fact. But if we are not to have our defense policies completely controlled by emotionalism we will not give way to exaggerated alarms or favor such premature and ill informed efforts as our diplomatic proposal for "outlawing" chemical warfare by international convention. That effort failed because European governments sensibly recognized that it would be worse than futile. But it was inspired by a humanitarian desire to make warfare less cruel, an experiment of noble motive, to which facts attested by experts give a certain irony, since they show that chemicals are less painful and fatal than shells and other older agents of destruction.

WHEN JULIUS ROSENWALD TRIED SOME POLITICS.

Prof. C. H. Wooddy of the University of Chicago wrote a book called "The Case of Frank L. Smith." Mr. Smith is the citizen of Illinois once appointed and once elected to the United States senate and each time denied his seat because of public utility contributions to his campaign fund, he being at the time of the contributions chairman of the Illinois commerce commission regulating the utilities.

Prof. Wooddy's book contained a statement that Julius Rosenwald sought to persuade Mr. Smith to withdraw his candidacy for the election to the senate "on terms which would fully safeguard him from loss incurred by the effort and expense already invested in the campaign." Mr. Smith on reading the book wrote to Prof. Wooddy that he thought this paragraph worthy of amplification in subsequent editions and gave the material for a chapter. Mr. Rosenwald, Mr. Smith wrote, had offered him 10,000 shares of Sears, Roebuck & Co. to withdraw from the campaign, leaving Hugh Magill, independent Republican, and George Brennan, Democrat, in the race.

According to Mr. Smith, Mr. Rosenwald said that the idea of buying out Mr. Smith's candidacy formed in his mind when he considered that it was merely the equivalent of spending a half million in support of Magill. He was willing to do that for his state and his party and the public good as he perceived that good, and it seemed logical to him to accomplish the purpose by clearing the field of Mr. Smith. He thought it a good bargain for Mr. Smith because of the virtual certainty that if Smith was elected he would not be seated, owing to the disclosure of the Insull and other utility contributions to his campaign fund. Mr. Smith declined the offer, rebuked its maker, was elected and was not seated.

Mr. Rosenwald is ill at the present and the members of his family say he will not have the matter brought to his attention now, but there is no reason to doubt the accuracy of Mr. Smith's narrative of what took place when the effort was made to get him off the ticket. Prof. Wooddy evidently knew something if not all of the story and Mr. Smith not unreasonably concluded that the public was entitled to the whole of it.

Mr. Rosenwald in this episode appears as a naïve man of wealth led into a political indiscretion by good intentions. It is very likely, as has been suggested, that in offering Mr. Smith such a large sum to remove him from the political scene he was considering the investments which others had made in putting him on the scene. Mr. Smith would be able to return these contributions as he might feel required to do in the event he voluntarily defeated their purpose by resigning from the ticket after the money had been used to carry him successfully through the primary election.

Whatever may have been all of the considerations in Mr. Rosenwald's mind, he does not need the explanation that he was not seeking to elect a United States senator for personal advantage to himself. He thought it would be a public benefit to prevent the election of Smith and secure the election of Magill. He was willing to contribute over a half million dollars for that purpose. If he had exposed his idea to any criticism he must have dropped it, but practical politicians can complain only of the sweet simplicity of his method. Many a prelection complication is clarified by taking out candidates with offers of compensation elsewhere or of future rewards. Andrew Jackson died believing that John Quincy Adams had been elected President of the United States because Henry Clay was beguiled with the department of state.

Even more distinguished precedents are in Illinois political history. Abraham Lincoln's nomination was made possible by bargaining with rival candidates and opponents which took them out of the convention and put some of them in the strangely hostile cabinet with which Lincoln began his administration and went into the war. Politics is a story of bargaining in self-interest and for partisan purpose.

It would be the distinguished amateur in attempts at political reform who would offer a candidate a fortune for his withdrawal in favor of a better man. Mr. Smith at least had proof of the strength of Mr. Rosenwald's feeling in the matter.

COMING HOME TO ROOST.

The Wickersham commission report on prison conditions in the U. S. A. is receiving plenty of publicity abroad, where every shortcoming of ours is noted with obvious satisfaction. In China there is a special reason, for one of the chief objections to the surrender of extraterritoriality has been the lack of tolerable penal institutions. Now the Chinese are citing the commission's revelations of overcrowding, flogging, shackling, water cures, solitary confinement, etc., and asking why we are so critical of Chinese methods when we tolerate such wrongs at home.

The point is not without logic, but it is not conclusive. Conditions in our own household can be exposed and corrected, but our means of bettering conditions in China are not reliable. Furthermore, if the Chinese will follow developments in America they will observe that the process of betterment takes a rather faster pace than it is likely to take in China in existing circumstances.

Editorial of the Day

RETURN OF THE ILLINOIS PEACH.

[The Bloomington Pantagroph.]

Southern Illinois was one of the sections which was seriously damaged by the remarkable drought of the 1930 season. Not only grain crops failed, but its orchards were almost barren, and the expected revenues from that source were missing. Hence the necessity for some parts of southern Illinois to accept aid from the national Red Cross society to tide over their people to another season.

But the peach is coming back. The Illinois peach, which within the last 15 years has grown to be one of the main crops of Egypt. After a year's holiday in which the trees were peachless, the crop is coming back in all its glory this season. It is announced that 6,000 carloads of peaches will be shipped out of southern Illinois in August. That is, freight carloads, and thousands of truckloads. A freight car will hold 500 to 600 bushel baskets of peaches, and a conservative estimate of their value would be from $1.50 to $2 per bushel at the orchards.

Hence, a simple bit of arithmetic will show that some five to six million dollars will pour into southern Illinois this summer as revenue from the peach crop. That ought to offset some of the lean living that the half-worked coal mines of that region have afforded in recent years. Picking and packing the great peach crop will give employment to thousands during the rather short season, and thus afford still further relief in that section.

CONTROL MOSQUITOES AND AVOID MALARIA.

DIFFERENT methods of malaria control are in use, each having its advantages and its limitations. Perhaps the most economical is the screening of houses. This procedure is now well standardized. When local health departments organize to have screening done on an efficient and cheap basis the cost of protecting the chimney and all the windows and doors in a cabin should not exceed $7. A larger house can be made safe and comfortable for $10. The cost of maintenance of screens is about $1 a year. Two dollars a year per cabin, placed in a screen replacement fund, should more than pay the cost of renewals.

Screens that are improperly made, or improperly put in, may convert a house into a mosquito trap, and such a trap may contribute to infection of an entire family by one of its members.

Prevention of malaria by keeping a dairy and allowing mosquitoes free access to the stabled cows may be very well suited to certain localities. This has proved a most successful method in parts of Italy.

Minor drainage in the vicinity of homes and cabins is not expensive. This method has been known to convert a household of "chillers" into a healthy, working family.

Top minnows are valuable in controlling mosquito breeding where there is not much vegetation in the waters and where conditions are good for this kind of fish life.

Dusting with a mixture of one part paris green and 99 parts road dust or saw dust is a very efficient method in certain districts. If the mosquito breeding grounds of a county do not exceed one acre for each square mile, paris green can be adequately used in a medium sized county for about $3,000 for the season. In a county where conditions are very bad the expense to the county may run as high as $8,000. If his county will not help him, any farmer can do his own dusting at an expense much less than $100 a year. The money for doctors' bills and chill tonics on a large place will run far beyond that.

Killing mosquitoes within the house is a valuable method of control and one that costs next to nothing.

Oiling has its place. It is much more expensive than either "paris greening" or screening.

The treatment of all cases and carriers of malaria, until they are competently cured, is a most satisfactory method, but it costs money.

DEFICIENCY IN THYROID.

L. K. writes: With reference to deficiency in thyroid secretion, mentioned in reply to letter from M. E. H., will you please advise whether or not thyroid can be taken without a doctor's specific advice or prescription? I have more or less the same trouble M. E. H. writes of and, in addition, have a tendency lately to gain weight, regardless of how little food I eat. In fact, in this hot weather I have eaten only fruits and vegetables, and these only in small portions, and still I gain rather than lose.

2. Are there any foods which would supply this necessary element in one's system?

REPLY.

1. Any one can purchase thyroid and take it without limitation or question. However, it is not good judgment to do so without knowing that you need it, in the first place; nor how much of it you need, in the second.

2. I presume you mean—Are there any iodine-rich foods? There are. Seaweed, fish, and all other foods from the sea are rich in iodine. So are vegetables grown on certain soils. The same varieties of vegetables grown on other soils are not.

LANDLORD AND TENANT.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. When a tenant fails to pay his rent on time and makes no mention of it five or six days later after it is due, should the landlord give him a five day notice to move? 2. Is the landlord's notice in writing sufficient? 3. Or must it be a legal document of some kind? 4. Can said notice be used for failing to pay rent in succeeding months, or must a new notice be issued for each occasion? 5. If an attorney is to be employed, what should be the expense of such a procedure? E. K.

1. This is a common course.
2. Yes.
3. We would consider such notice a legal document. We would suggest that you use a printed form, which you can secure from a stationer.
4. Yes, if the landlord still has possession of it.
5. Depends on the wording and on facts that are not before us.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

CAN BECOME CITIZEN.

Chicago, July 28.—[Friend of the People.]—Can a native Mexican, not a Caucasian, become a naturalized American citizen? A. P.

Aliens may be naturalized if they are free white persons or persons of African nativity or descent. Evidently Mexicans are held to come within this definition. It is noted that during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1930, 176 Mexicans were admitted to citizenship in the United States.

FRED J. SCHLOTFELDT,
District Director, U. S. Department of Labor.

UNPAID RENT.

Chicago, Aug. 4.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In October, 1930, I signed a lease on a flat for eighteen months, agreeing to pay $65 per month. After signing the lease I lost my position, but kept on paying until three months ago. I offered the landlord $50 per month, which he accepted, and there has been no agreement about the balance. 1. Does the lease still hold even though the landlord agreed to accept $50 a month? 2. Can he start court proceedings for the balance? 3. Can he get a judgment on any belongings or wages without court proceedings? 4. Can he get a judgment on property belonging to my wife? H. O. K.

1. He would be entitled to insist upon your resuming the $65 payments.
2. Yes.
3. The lease probably contains a clause authorizing entering of judgment without service of summons, but it would have to be done in court.
4. The rent accruing while you occupy the premises would be a family expense and, as such, could be charged against your wife.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

HYMN.

You have no right to toss that scarlet ibi across your shoulder; you have less right to match it with your lips.
Your hair is blacker than the teakwood in your cool white hand, and your eyes are like the tortoise chain around your throat, dark and deep and wise; wise as the ages that lie within the old gold Buddha at your feet.
Your voice is more lovely than temple bells, being lower and more mellow.

At this moment as I watch you, you are not my friend. You are an expression of the memory of a dynasty long dead, almost forgotten.

I am afraid, afraid that you have gone!
I stand here trembling that you have vanished into some dim orient, mingling with its dusty glamour, that you have gone forever into Nirvana with other ghosts of beauty."

But no! Your eyes smile and you have come back to me.

JEANNE DELAMARTER.

COL. LINDBERGH IS PAYING the penalty of publicity for which he is not primarily responsible, if sarcastic comments from numerous Wake-Line readers are a gauge. Tenor of these contributions is that the senders are heartily tired of reading of the colonel's vacation flight, that if they hear nothing more about it, it will be enough. Fancy that expressed feeling toward the young chap whose trans-Atlantic flight aroused such national acclaim; whose subsequent good-will tour to Latin American countries had sponsorship of the department of state; whose every recognition of the homage paid him was marked by the ultimate of modesty and tact.

Then comes this vacation flight, just as some others of us might take a motor trip. It is unofficial, not particularly hazardous compared with other of his exploits, and, so far as we know, he courted no publicity. Because Col. Lindbergh is a national figure, perhaps the foremost figure in public interest except President Hoover, newspapers published progress and details. When the plane containing Col. Lindbergh and his wife had not reported one night, it was a subject of grave concern. Yet the public "tires" of its hero, unless our mail is misleading—and we doubt whether it is because we have heard the same expressions in general conversation.

Wasn't there an old Greek named Aristides, to whose name was added the handle, "The Just," because of good deeds, and didn't the Greek populace ostracize him because it tired of hearing of "Aristides the Just"? Human nature has not changed much in twenty-five centuries.

SOLVING COTTON OVERPRODUCTION.

Wake-Line: Instead of plowing up every third row of cotton to stop overproduction, plant a row of absorbent cotton, then a row of ordinary cotton, followed by another row of absorbent cotton. The two rows of absorbent cotton will absorb the middle row, which will save plowing it up and also will cut down overproduction. It's simple.

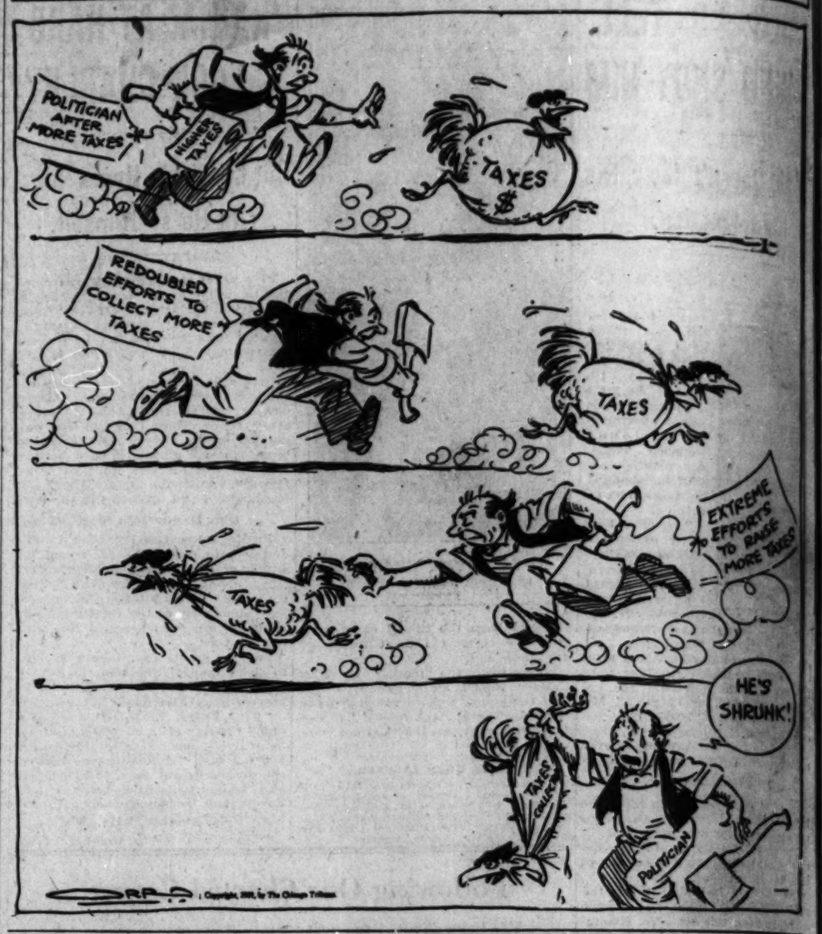
CHASING THE FAT OFF



FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 20, 1915.

LONDON.—The big White Star line steamer Arabic, which was on its way to New York, was torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine about 40 miles south of the spot where the Lusitania lies, which is 65 miles southeast of Fastnet Rock and 55 miles south of Old Head of Kinsale. A statement of a White Star line official says that the steamer was attacked without warning and went down in ten minutes. Of the 423 persons on board —181 passengers and 242 members of the crew—20 are missing and are believed to have perished. Two of the missing are Americans. Only six of the passengers are missing. The survivors left the steamer in ship's boats and were picked up later by passing vessels and taken to Queenstown.

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson is awaiting further advices concerning the sinking of the Arabic before he makes up his mind whether the attack on that vessel was an act "deliberately unfriendly" to the United States. In official quarters it is admitted that the attack without warning, as it is claimed in London, comes within the scope of President Wilson's last declaration to Germany respecting the sinking of the Lusitania. If all Americans on the Arabic are saved it is believed that there will not be a public demand for a severance of diplomatic relations with Germany, but if even a single American life was lost the administration realizes that it is facing a crisis in its dealings with Germany.

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 20, 1901.

CHICAGO.—While Samuel Morris, leading comedian at Hopkins' theater, was compelled by the exigencies of his position to go on with his lines as Rake, Bertie's valet, in "Under Two Flags," his wife lay dead at the Saratoga hotel. She had drunk a pint of wood alcohol. Although notified earlier that she was dying, there was no one to take the actor's part and he furnished forced amusement for the audience until the curtain fell. The actor and his wife had been estranged for a year and had been just recently reconciled.

PADUCAH, Ky.—The steamboat City of Golconda was struck by a squall at Crowell's Landing, overturned and sunk in ten feet of water. Twenty persons were drowned, ten of them women. The ship plied between Paducah and Elizabethtown, Ill.

HAVANA.—Another of the subjects in the yellow fever experiments conducted by Dr. Caldas, the Brazilian scientist, who is the inventor of a serum, died from the disease. He, like the first victim, had been bitten by a mosquito which had previously bitten a patient suffering from yellow fever.

50 YEARS AGO TODAY

AUGUST 20, 1881.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The condition of President Garfield was considered much better than at any time since his relapse of last Monday. He slept more and partook of 22 ounces of liquid refreshment through the mouth. There were no symptoms of gastric disturbances or of nausea. The bullet wound continues to secrete healthy pus, though in diminishing quantities. Dr. D. W. Bliss denied a report that the wound had been probed within a day or two to a depth of eleven inches.

CHICAGO.—George Taylor, former city controller, died at his home, 357 Dearborn avenue, after a lingering illness, at the age of 41.

MARSEILLES. — It now appears that the disaster attending the bull fight here last Sunday, when several tiers of seats collapsed, resulted in the death of 27 persons and the injury of 306.

CHICAGO.—A fair illustration of the independence of young America was seen at the Sherman house last evening. A boy of five years walked up to the counter, dropped his valise, registered as Arthur V. Hathorne of Auburn, N. Y., and calmly demanded a good room. Having tipped the bell boy and had supper, he asked whether there were "any good shows in town," and went out for the evening. He will resume his journey alone to Berlin, Wis., today.

MORTUARY ART.

Chicago, Aug. 6.—In your paper of Aug. 6 there appeared a news item commenting on the domestic hostilities and economic adversities of a gentleman whose occupation is given as a "tombstone cutter." As a member of that profession I hasten to say: Some years ago, in convention assembled, we expunged "tombstone" from our vocabulary, substituting therefor the more euphonious word "memorial." There was some objection to the proposed change from the standpatters, who believed what was good enough for their fathers was good enough for them, but when it was pointed out that old-time undertakers were blossoming forth as morticians; midwives, obstetricians; barbers, tonsorial artists; plumbers, sanitary engineers; Fourth of July orators, 100% Americans; real estate peddlers were realtors; second mortgages, junior bonds; and Joe's Place, soft drink parlor, the reactionaries were silenced.

In the future, near or distant, should any of my associates be defendants at the bar for incompatibility, Hoover prosperity or the Jones 5 and 10 law, will you please refer to them as "memorial sculptors" and not "tombstone cutters"? THOMAS DAVEY, Former President, Chicago Branch Granite Cutters' International Association.

WHEN THERE WAS BEER IN TEXAS.

Chicago, Aug. 17.—The editorial "Hail Columbia, Happy Land," while recalling that old song and its next rhymed line, "Hail the heroes' Heaven born band," also brings to mind Brownsville, Tex., of 1916. Saloons were open all day but closed at 9 p. m. The town was the headquarters of a provisional division commanded by Brig. Gen. James Parker, U. S. A. There were no orders barring soldiers from saloons. They were treated as adults, consumed tons of food and ice cream and hogsheads of beer.

The city was patrolled by military police. The streets were orderly. The soldiers tested the native Mexican drinks, but found them alien to the palate. The daytime temperatures danced merrily over the hundred line, and a bottle of (name your favorite brew, and you could then) was better than anything ever tasted in a climate less hot.

The hot weather taught each soldier how much or how little alcohol was good for his system, and he took his in moderation or he was likely to get rolled over by the sun the next day. If there had been beer in Matamoros and none in Brownsville, there probably would have been a war with Mexico. J. C. C.

BON VOYAGE.

Chicago, July 27.—If we had known about the $25,000 prison inspection tour we might have had a group of the school teachers, county nurses, and idle people on the city pay roll at the dock to wish them bon voyage.

J. H. WEEKS.

A BOOT FROM TEXAS.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—The editorial "Hail Columbia, Happy Land," appearing in THE TRIBUNE on Aug. 17, was probably written by some ear muffed, bean ranging sot that never saw the border towns of Texas, past or present. If not an odor of amateurism not looked for from one so powerful as "the World's Greatest Newspaper."

The closing of the Rio Grande bridges at a respectable hour was desired by those citizens of Texas residing in the cities affected, and it was only accomplished after much work on the part of those interested. States' rights are a requisite to be desired in Texas as well as any part of our nation, and we intend to enjoy them.

Editorial comment emitted from the Gothic tower at the headwaters of the drainage canal has a long way to travel before it can mold public opinion in Texas. JOHN T. MURRAY.

EAT THE WHEAT.

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 12.—An ounce of wheat is required to make a slice of white bread and half an ounce for the same amount of whole wheat or coarse breads. It has been proven that white bread is more nutritious than any other. If all persons, each day, will eat two more slices of white bread than has been their habit we will consume our oversupply of wheat right here at home. It has long since been apparent that we cannot hope for help from any other source.

It is possible for our women folks to enforce this appeal. Our men's efforts to date have not brought any relief. Serve only white bread; persuade your friends, acquaintances, your hotel and restaurant people, to adopt this plan. During the war we gladly changed from white to coarse breads, thereby conserving wheat to help foreigners in their distress. We should be anxious and willing now to do even more for our own people. Wheat is our basic product, and with that on a firm foundation we are bound to return to normal conditions when the fear of salary reduction and dismissal will disappear. Our women have always done their share, and it is to be hoped that they will induce their men to circulate this information each and every day.

EVENING SCHOOL FEES.

Chicago, July 27.—In order that no misunderstanding arise regarding tuition in the evening schools, allow me to state that no tuition is charged in evening schools. The registration fee of five dollars in the accredited evening high schools, and a registration fee of two dollars in the opportunity evening high schools is requested of all students. This amount is refunded to the student when he has attended three-fourths of the session. No registration fee is required of students attending the elementary evening schools.

The registration fee is a guarantee of good faith on the part of the student, and increases the regularity of his attendance. Since evening school attendance is voluntary on the part of the student, one can readily understand that unless some check is made on the attendance, class instruction would suffer immeasurably if students attended only now and then. Assistant Superintendent of Schools.

Aldous Huxley's Poems, Dramas Printed in U. S.

Critic Calls Him Best as Novelist.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The Cicadas and Other Poems" and "The World of Light," both by Aldous Huxley, and published today by the Doubleday Doran company.

TWO volumes from the pen of England's most highly praised writer of the younger school are published today. Neither one of them is in the field in which their author has made his greatest reputation thus far. Aldous Huxley is known primarily as a novelist. To many critics his "Point Counterpoint" is the greatest novel of his generation.

ALDOUS HUXLEY.

It was as a poet, however, that Mr. Huxley began his literary life, as so many young writers do. He contributed to Oxford Poetry in 1916 [he was one of the editors of it] and "Wheels" an anthology of what he calls "Queer, recent poetry." His first published book was "The Burning Wheel." Four other collections have been published—"The Defeat of Youth" [1918], "Leda" [1920], his best known volume of verse; "Jonah" [1922], a privately printed, unbound volume of poems in French and English, and "Arabia Infelix," which was published in a limited edition of 1929. "The Cicadas" contains his poetical works since that date.

It is a small volume which neither adds to nor detracts from the already high critical position which Mr. Huxley holds as a poet. In it he is a little more concerned with geographical beauty and with classic allusions than he has been previously [so far as mine is concerned] and he also is a little more seasoned with the years in the choice of rhythm and pattern in his poetry.

There are many pages which are marked in my copy and which I should like to quote. There is this of direct music in the first long poem, "Theater of Varieties":

> Now, the resolutions and marvelous lie, > Hidden in the minds of all a suave and > purring
> Legion of heaven, where the saxophone
> Sobs enchanting loves, the drums deny > Hell, and where great Tenorio, when he > sings,
> Makes Pearly bloom only with perfumed > tears,
> And wove a rotting corpse in all its earth.

Which does that so obviously to better audiences!

And in "The Cicadas" he gives you to very throb of silence:

> Lay back the leafy sky; never a breeze
> Stir, nor a foot in all this sleeping > ground;
> And there is silence underneath the trees—
> The living silence of continuous sound.

There are many lines to quote, but of them all there are none more beautiful than:

SEPTEMBER.

> Spring is past and over these many days,
> Spring and summer. The leaves of Sep> tember droop,
> Yellowing and all but dead on the patient > trees.
> For is there any hope in me. I walk > Sadly homewards. Night is as empty and > dark
> Behind my eyes as it is dark without
> And empty round about the end over me.
> Spring is past and over these many days,
> So, looking up, suddenly I see > Gone in the unbroven light of a street lamp > dancing,
> Cool and luminous, young and so trans> parent,
> Long wave but the colored foam of air,
> Gone fire,
> No more than the scarce-embodied thoughts > of leaves.
> And it is spring within the circle of light.
> O magical brightness! The old leaves are > only rain,
> In the wind, low, warm colored accident
> Of lonely evenings and mingles all young > things.
> A chance light shines and suddenly it is > spring.

"The World of Light," a play, is, I believe, a new field for Mr. Huxley, although "Point Counterpoint" was dramatized and had a London season in 1930, under the title, "This Way to Paradise." The dramatization was done by Campbell Dixon, but Mr. Huxley assisted in it. "The World of Light" was written by Mr. Huxley alone. It was produced in the spring of this year in London with half-hearted success, as I remember. It is a play about spiritualism and its most startling moment on the stage was during a seance in which unusual physical phenomena took place.

It created a great deal of discussion because in the play three people are completely convinced about the reality of the messages which they receive from the other world, a medium who gives the messages, a girl to whom they are addressed from her fiancé, and the father of the young man who is supposedly sending the messages. Their belief is whole-souled and absolutely sincere. So sincere in fact is the father's belief that he has written a tremendously successful book about his communication with his dead son [as a famous English author did before him]. When the young man returns in the flesh not only is faith shattered, but the very delicate question of proclaiming his mistake faces the father.

The play is a good enough play without being in any sense a memorable one. The poems are beautiful, but not soul-shattering or stirring. So far as I am concerned, Mr. Huxley is still primarily a great novelist.

STUDENT'S CURIOSITY GETS ATOMS' SECRETS, WINS COVETED PRIZE

Pasadena, Cal., Aug. 19.—(AP)—The curiosity of a 19 year old Oregon college student about the nature of the chemical bond—the force which holds atoms together in substances—inspired the experiments which won for Prof. Linus Pauling, the former student, now 30 years old, the $1,000 Langmuir prize of the American Chemical society.

The California Institute of Technology chemistry professor describes his work as on the border line between physics and chemistry. He has applied physical methods and theories to chemical problems.

His task has been to find with X-rays how atoms are arranged in crystals and to determine the reason why a certain arrangement is assumed in one crystal and a different one in another. Recently he applied the new quantum mechanics theory to the 1 -vis electron pair bond and discovered several new properties of the bond as well as a method of determining the type of bond in a substance from its magnetic properties.

Prof. Pauling attended Oregon State college at Corvallis until 1922. In 1920 he became interested in the chemical bond. He studied the theory offered in 1916 by Prof. G. N. Lewis, chemistry college dean, University of California, that atoms are held together by pairs of electrons held jointly by two nuclei. Susbsequent studies along this line brought him to Pasadena and he later pursued them abroad.

Prof. Pauling is married and has two children, Mrs. Pauling will accompany him to Buffalo, N. Y., to receive the prize at the Chemical Society meeting Sept. 2.

Mayor of Mobile Urges Return of 1893 Pilgrims

"Homecoming Day" for those who attended the World's Fair in Chicago in 1893 was suggested to Mayor Cermak yesterday by Mayor Leon Schwartz of Mobile, Ala., as a feature of the Century of Progress. "Although I was just a boy at the time," Mayor Schwartz said, "I would be only too glad to be here on the day set aside for those who attended the 1893 fair. And I am sure the idea would appeal to thousands of others who carried away pleasant recollections from that early exposition."

Oyster Keeps Style of Shell; Changes Sexes

So Yearly Bivalve Crop Varies Greatly.

Sayville, L. I., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—The family life of an oyster, with its strange entanglements, was discussed learnedly here today.

Dr. John Eyre, bacteriologist of Guy's hospital, London, and an officer in the Ancient and Worshipful Fishmongers company of London, and Dr. H. D. Pease, director of the Pease laboratory, New York, were the lecturers. They appeared before the annual convention of the National Shell Fisheries association and Oyster Growers and Dealers of North America, Inc.

The text of the discussion was "reversal of sexes in oysters and their possible effects upon modern oyster culture methods."

The British do not have as much trouble regulating the sex problem among their oysters as the American growers. The British oyster is known as ostrea edulis and is both the weaker and the stronger of the sex, while the American oyster, ostrea virginica, can, when it grows tired of being a lady change over and become a gentleman oyster. This is annoying to the growers because when it is a year that more lady oysters are bred than mannish ones, without the knowledge of the bay men digging them, and the lady population is depleted, well, there are fewer baby oysters the following year.

Now what these scientific members of the Oyster Growers' association want to know is how they are going to regulate this sex problem and when and how the diggers are to know whether it is a female or a male oyster year in American oyster beds.

This lack of knowledge, according to Dr. Pease, has caused the depletion of many southern oyster beds. His advice was for the growers to always leave a sufficient number of oysters in their beds so that if there is a preponderance of females those willing to do so many change over to equalize things by turning themselves into the opposite sex.

This is the first time that foreign oyster interests have been invited to attend the United States gathering. The Ancient and Worshipful Fishmongers association, which Dr. Eyre represents, received its charted from the crown in 1600 and since has regulated the sale and distribution of fish in the City of London.

Educator Defends College Grads as Good Reasoners

Cleveland, O., Aug. 19.—The college senior, whose intellectual attainments recently were belittled by the Carnegie Foundation, has found an ally, Dean W. G. Leutner of Western Reserve university.

Dean Leutner did not know what questions the foundation put to the students. But he did hold that seniors, and graduates, were not stupid.

"The knowledge of individual facts is less valuable than the ability to reason from facts," he declared.

"Many people have an exaggerated notion of the factual knowledge possessed by a college senior. I must admit that the factual knowledge possessed by college men and women is sometimes disappointingly small."

OLD CLIPPER SHIP SUNK BY SUBMARINES FOR SAKE OF MOVIES

San Diego, Cal., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Davey Jones' locker closed today upon the hulk of the famous old clipper ship, Bohemia, pride of the American merchant fleet half a century ago.

The Bohemia had a glorious end. Into battle against great odds—against three submarines—it carried the American flag, going down as movie cameras clicked out film to be used in a picture.

The Bohemia and the Indiana, among the last of the Yankee clipper ships, spent yesterday fighting the submarines 20 miles west of Coronado islands. They sailed proudly about the ocean from which steamships crowded them into disuse a decade ago.

Twilight was approaching before the order was given the submarines to fire directly at the Bohemia.

They opened fire, and the old Bohemia, a smoldering wreck from stem to stern, sank stern foremost in 500 fathoms of water.

MARGARET GREER, 15, WINS PRIZE WITH $5.53 DRESS FOR PARTY

Margaret Greer, 15 years old, of Harristown, Ill., yesterday was awarded first prize in the girls' style show of the Central States fair.

Twenty prizes were awarded in all. Prizes were based on how becoming the dress and the economy of cost. The girls were required to wear outfits they had made themselves. The frock with which Margaret won first place was a party dress of pink lace cloth, the materials for which cost $5.53.

Second prize was won by Ingram Kerchner of Wilmington, and third by Elizabeth Harkley of Winnebago.

Winners paraded across the stage after receiving rewards. Not one of them had any makeup, circumstances that caused considerable comment from the crowd.

Small Colleges' Day Numbered, Declares Teacher to Jesuits

Prediction was made yesterday by the Rev. Albert C. Fox, S. J., dean of John Carroll university, Cleveland, that at least one-third and perhaps as many as one-half of the independent colleges of the country would be closed within a generation. He spoke at the Jesuit Educational convention in session at Loyola university.

Father Fox declared the question of the continuance of the small colleges has been repeatedly raised during the last few years due to the development of publicly supported universities and junior colleges. The latter, he said, together with the newly developed teachers' colleges in connection with local public schools have presented a new competition for the independent college which is perhaps more direct than that of the great state universities.

About a year ago an organization of liberal arts college leaders was formed to protect such colleges as well as to sponsor nation-wide advertising to make people of the country "liberal arts conscious." The program of the organization calls for the raising of several hundred million dollars for endowments and promotion.

K. of C. Council Re-elects Carmody, Other Officials

French Lick, Ind., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Martin H. Carmody, an attorney of Grand Rapids, Mich., today was elected for his third consecutive term as supreme knight of the Knights of Columbus. He had no opposition. All other officers of the order also were re-elected. They were: John F. Martin, Green Bay, Wis., deputy supreme knight; William J. McGinley, New Haven, Conn., supreme secretary; D. J. Callahan, Washington, supreme treasurer; Luke E. Hart, St. Louis, supreme advocate.

Beauty Trades Will Do Share at World's Fair

Now $2,000,000,000 Business, It's Said.

A resolution was adopted yesterday calling on all members of the American Cosmeticians' association, about 40,000, to support the Century of Progress exposition.

That action taken at the closing session followed an invitation given by A. C. Martin of the world's fair staff and accepted by Mrs. M. B. McGavra, president of the association.

"In recent years the beauty industry has been growing by leaps and bounds until now it does an annual business of more than two billion dollars," Mrs. McGavra said. "We are honored by the invitation and in behalf of all our members in every state in the union, I assure you the beauty industry will be largely represented in the Century of Progress.

"We believe that a new day is dawning for American women and that this industry composed largely of women, should take a prominent part in the exposition. We plan to organize delegations by states to attend the fair in groups and we believe the cosmetics section in the exhibits buildings will constitute a real temple of beauty."

Mrs. McGavran of Kansas City, was reelected president. Vice presidents include Otto De Donato and Elizabeth Thielen of St. Louis, Mrs. Louise Herschel of Houston, Tex., and Mrs. E. A. Voegele of Greensburg, Pa.

Other officers include Mrs. Ruth D. Maurer, New York, chairman of the executive committee; Frances Martell, Chicago, executive-secretary and treasurer; Dr. G. Alexander Ward, Chicago, medical adviser; B. F. Spellman, New York, counsel, and E. M. Nolen, Chicago, publicity chairman.

Miss Martell announced that the total registration had been 5,239, a new record for the association, and that exhibitors had reported that business transacted at this year's convention exceeded by 15 per cent the 1930 convention.

Even Weather Does Share for Picnic of the Aged and Orphans

Even the weather coöperated yesterday in making the 27th annual picnic for the orphans and the old folks one of the most successful in the history of orphan and old folks' picnics.

It was nice and cloudy and cool most of the day, so, of course, the rides to and from Lincoln park in automobiles loaned by a thousand motorists were pleasant.

One might not think there would be much for 5,000 orphans and old folks to do in a park, but the Orphans' Automobile association anticipated that. So there was entertainment in a specially constructed stand from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m., cigars for the old men, candy for the old women, toys for all the children, and lunch for everybody. And of all the guests none enjoyed the day more than 400 crippled children.

Origin of the Order

The founding of the Order of The Garter is obscured by controversy. It is conceded, however, that it was sometime in the 14th century during the reign of Edward III., and during the lifetime of his famous son, The Black Prince, so named because of his black armor.

One story has it that on an occasion of gayety, Edward III. picked up the garter of a lady. The garter had dropped to the floor. Turning to the assembled courtiers, the king was said to have remarked "honi soit qui mal y pense," thus giving the order its famous motto, meanwhile placing the garter around one of his own calves. The names of two noble ladies are mentioned for the honor of having dropped the garter. Discussion about that would not go far when the garter was on the person of a warlike king.

Other versions link it to battle. One is that it commemorates the leather thongs that Richard the Lion Hearted caused certain knights to wear during the Crusades, as a reminder that he expected special valor of them. Another story is that before the battle of Crécy, Edward III. arranged that the giving of his garter to a courier would be a signal for the battle. Still another version starts the order at a joust at which the king and the Black Prince led groups of knights. Both "The George" and "The Little George" represent St. George of England overcoming a dragon. Records indicate the order was founded as early as the year 1348.

5 French Medical Experts Here to View Hospitals

A party of five French physicians and surgeons, including a woman, Dr. Martine Lindegger of Paris, arrived in Chicago yesterday for a five day stay which they will spend visiting Chicago hospitals.

Chicago is their first stop in the United States on an American tour of hospitals which has taken them to Montreal and Toronto and will take them to Washington, Philadelphia, and New York before their return to France.

Others in the party are Dr. Emil Heim of Strasbourg; Dr. Emil Winstel, Nancy, father of Dr. Andreas Winstel, chief surgeon in the American hospital in Paris; Dr. Jean Mainguy, Paris, and Dr. Jean Huet, Paris.

MOVIE GOSSIP

Hollywood, Cal., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Red haired Jerry Tucker of Chicago, not quite 4 years old, was taken suddenly from the extra ranks yesterday and placed under a long term starring contract by Paramount studios after less than a year in the film colony.

Jerry recently attracted attention by breaking into a perfect recitation of Kipling's "Gunga Din" during an idle period in work on a production in which he was playing an extremely minor part. Questioning developed he knew more than 100 poems by memory.

Lion of Britain Retrieves Garter Alfonso Lost

So Ex-King Dines at Ease with George V.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Aug. 19.—The troubles of an ex-king traveling light while revolutionists at home hold his baggage gave Alfonso XIII. of Bourbon, late king of all the Spaniards, his most embarrassing moment at Buckingham palace recently.

The story has just come exclusively to THE TRIBUNE. Incidentally the incident also gave King George V.

GEORGE V.

some anxious moments.

It happened that Alfonso came to London via Marseilles and Paris with hardly a clean shirt in his bag. He was invited to dine at Buckingham palace. He went wearing the regulation knee breeches with full evening dress. The king noticed, however, that his guest wor decorations showing the orders to which he belongs, whereas etiquette prescribed that he should be wearing the insignia of the Order of the Garter, the insignia of the king's most select group of knights, whose motto, "Honi soit qui mal y pense," often is translated "Evil to him who thinks evil."

The insignia includes a collar and an actual garter.

Alfonso knew all about the omission, but swallowed his dinner in silence. Then he drew his English cousin aside and explained, with trepidation, that the precious insignia of the garter was in the hands of the revolutionary of Spain.

Now, King George does not like having the insignia of the garter lying around republics. It is more than enough that the star and ribbon worn by the late Czar have never been returned to him, as dictated by precedent, but are now proudly exhibited by the bolshies among other imperial relics.

The following morning an undersecretary of the foreign office had an interview with a high official of the court. The British embassy in Madrid was instructed to demand the return of the star and ribbon. The republican government, full of new found importance, regretted that all Alfonso's possessions had been sequestered pending further inquiries.

The British ambassador then politely but firmly reminded the Spanish authorities that the order had been bestowed on the king of Spain. In law, the king of Spain no longer existed—for all legal intents and purposes that personage was dead. When any holder of the proudest order in the world dies the insignia immediately is returned by the next of kin to the British sovereign, to whom it belongs. The next of kin in law to King Alfonso was the new republic.

That worked. Within a few hours the regalia of the order had reached the hands of British officials. Some days later Alfonso again dined at Buckingham palace. On that occasion he wore the cherished insignia of the Order of the Garter.

Colonial Boston Gets Operatic Place on Ravinia Stage

BY HAZEL MOORE.

That famous old Verdian operatic war horse, "The Masked Ball," arrived at a belated and single performance last night at Ravinia. Here is an opera that Ravinia is able to cast superbly, with singers both able and willing to project and enjoy the grand old tunes and the over obvious theatricality of Verdi's rather naive idea of political life and intrigue in colonial Boston.

Be that as it may, the applause of the audience last night left no doubt as to its enjoyment in the splendid singing of Rethberg, Martinelli, Danise, Claussen, Macbeth, and those two arch conspirators, Lazzari and D'Angelo. With Papi at the orchestral helm, the performance had both pace and class. Elisabeth Rethberg's beautiful voice sounded entirely free of the restraint that has veiled it at times this summer. She was particularly free during the third act scene that is my especial operatic joy, with the bravura scales denoting ecstasy, fear, and woe, and the thoroughly delightful bass laughter of the conspirators, Lazzari and D'Angelo.

Elsewhere, Martinelli had showed himself in the best voice of the season, Danise had delivered himself nobly of Renato's baritone duties, Claussen was as always a superb artist as the fortune telling "Ulrica," and Florence Macbeth, one of the most used and useful members of the company, had proved herself a charming page.

Not a little of the enjoyment of the evening was due to the rousing chorus singing, and the excellent orchestra under the flexible baton of Gennaro Papi.

Little Common Sense on Part of Parents Would Avert Scenes

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

You know how tiresome it is to wait in a doctor's office. The magazines never seem quite as interesting as they do at home, even though nowadays doctors' and dentists' offices are supplied with copies more recent than 1890! Time hangs heavy on your hands. You get impatient, that's all.

Naturally a little girl would—and did. There was one of about two and a half years waiting in a doctor's office recently with her father and mother—and a doll. She was very contented, considering that there was nothing for her to do. Finally when things palled too much she accidentally or on purpose dropped the little cloth doll over the window sill. And then she wanted the doll. She didn't cry. She just stayed at the window and asked for the doll. She wanted it.

Her father took her away from the window. Her mother tried to divert her with "pretty pictures." Then she cried for her doll. Her father said, "Behave yourself," and tried to draw her into his lap. She pulled away. So he leaned over to pick her up and then she "went limp"—you know how little children do when they don't want to be taken up. He finally got her in his arms and walked up and down with her as she cried. Both the mother and father were evidently much chagrined.

Just when their impatience and chagrin were at their height a young man who was also waiting ran out suddenly—and in a jiffy the little girl was smiling and holding out delighted arms. "O, thanks—you've saved our lives," said the mother.

Now why didn't the father run down the front steps of the doctor's house, pick up the doll and bring it in to his small daughter? There was no principle involved. She was little and she wanted her doll. She was acting in a perfectly reasonable and childlike way. Why not get the doll and give it to her? That was what ordinary common sense dictated.

One couldn't help wondering whether this was a sample of the whole system under which this child was being brought up. Her parents were kind, well educated, and apparently intelligent people—yet lacking in the simplest common sense.

Suggestions for the inexperienced mother and father are contained in our short reading list on child management, which will be sent on receipt of stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Barbara King, John I. Shaw to Wed Today

BY THALIA

Advance description of the details for the wedding in Santa Barbara this afternoon of Miss Barbara King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garfield King, to John Shaw, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wilkinson Shaw of Winnetka, is the only consolation to be offered the Chicagoans who are disappointed that the marriage isn't taking place here. What the bride wore isn't usually divulged until after a wedding, but as she is thousands of miles away, it may be told beforehand.] The service is to be read at 4 o'clock—that's 7 o'clock by our time—by the Rev. George F. Weld in the Church of All Saints by the Sea in Montecito, and afterwards there will be a wedding reception on the terrace of the King residence, La Fonda, on Gold Spring road, Montecito. The wedding reception doesn't bother California, so we may rest assured that the reception WILL be on the terrace, which is very lovely.

The tent is covered by a bright awning, and it is hedged with a boxwood hedge and Shasta daisies. The several hundred guests will be seated at little round tables under gay umbrellas. The King house is of the Spanish type, whitewashed brick with red shutters. It should all make a lovely picture in the afternoon sunlight.

The Bride and Her Attendants Will Wear.

Miss King's wedding dress is of white satin with a rosepoint tunic which has been in the family for a long time and was worn also by the previous brides, Mrs. William H. Mitchell and Mrs. Clarence B. Mitchell. She will wear a tulle veil with a modified cap of rosepoint, and she'll carry, instead of flowers, the ivory bound prayer book that was her mother's, which her sisters carried at their weddings. Mrs. Clarence Mitchell, matron of honor, is to wear a white net crêpe dress and a pale gray mallow hat, and her bouquet will be of white flowers, delicate orchids of bravaria, sweet peas and gardenias. The little flower girls—Barbara King Mitchell and Ginevra Page Mitchell—are to wear pale gray Kate Greenaway frocks and pale green poke bonnets, and carry arm baskets of white posies. The green and white motif of the wedding will be carried out in the floral decorations of the chancel.

Page G. Shaw is to be his brother's best man, and Loring C. Merwin of Pasadena, and Garfield King will be groomsmen. The ushers, who will act as the bridal procession to the altar, will be William H. and Clarence B. Mitchell, Stanton Griggs of Pasadena, John Dorn II., and Howard Gillette Jr. Mrs. King is going to wear a gray and colored crêpe gown trimmed with bands of sable, and a matching gray hat of the prevailing mode with a curling ostrich feather.

Mr. Howard Gillette who is visiting in Arthur Meekers, and Miss Bertha Lane who is the guest of Mrs. Phillip Chandler, mother of her fiancé, Miss Theresa Lewis, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Phillips of Winnetka, are among the Chicagoans besides the south Santa Barbara colony who will be among the wedding guests.

Mr. Shaw and his bride will motor to British Columbia on their wedding trip. They are to reside in Winnetka. They'll arrive back here about Oct. 1. Although they have several houses in Winnetka, they haven't made any definite decision concerning their future domicile.

Kenilworth Boat Party Now Going for Knollwood.

Kenilworth, which is being particularly gay and popular this summer, is going to have a "Main Street Party" this Saturday evening. The announcements originally sent out included the affair for this week, but notices were dispatched to acquaint the membership with the postponement, due possibly to the conflict with the Honolulu Waikiki party. Just what will be "suitable to the occasion" I've no idea, but it's to be a costume affair. There will be dinner, music, dancing, and special entertainment. There is to be a swimming meet at 3 o'clock this Saturday afternoon in the pool.

The young Calvin S. Smiths of Lake Forest and their youngsters will go to California all this winter. They plan to depart about the middle of next month, and are going to have a house, high up in the hills at Altadena, about 10 miles out from Pasadena. Mr. Smith hasn't been well, I understand, and the change in climate is indicated as a necessary measure.

Dress Extravagance Is Completely Lost on the Average Man

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Dressing up for the boy friend does become one of the expense problems to which our young women are subjected. And upon this subject much more might be said and written, especially about unnecessary dress extravagance. It's pretty well agreed among the authorities that too much money goes into dress and not enough into the savings account during the period at which girls are engrossed in attracting the male.

On half the money, the romantic lure could be attained and sustained. But young women keep on overexaggerating the importance of dress. The plain truth is that the average young man knows little more than that his girl looks up to date and good to him. Dress extravagance is completely lost on him. Many changes of frocks are just so much wasted money so far as his affections are concerned. And, indeed, so far as his power of observation is concerned.

So, when Claire resents the "absolutely impersonal attitude" of her current suitor toward her style of dress, there isn't much ground for her injured feelings. "Do you think he ever takes notice of my appearance," she writes. "Before I met him I saved regularly, but now I spend almost my whole salary dressing up for him because he takes me to his club and to nice restaurants and to all the best places."

That, as the Investor's Guide would tell you, is putting too much of your ready funds in one stock.

Not that a young lady must undervalue her appearance, either. It's mighty important that she be chic and clever in her dress. The objection is staking more than one can rightfully afford on clothes. They're important, but not nearly so important as some reckless young women believe. If you look over a group of young couples, any group, any place, you must be convinced that the fashion plate hasn't any corner on affections. On the contrary, the girl who is less dress conscious is likely to be the more popular.

HAVE A COOL SWEET DRINK WHEN TIRED AND HOT

A fine way to keep cool and comfortable in summer is to drink cool drinks at the soda fountain or at home, sweetened to taste with sugar.

There is nothing like sugar to sweeten home-made drinks such as lemonade, iced tea, coffee, chocolate and fruit punches. And there is no better sugar than refined cane sugar—it is acknowledged everywhere as the standard. Refresh yourself with a sweetened drink. The Sugar Institute.

Some Secretly Give to Help Funds for Poor

Further encouragement came to the Camp Algonquin and free ice fund yesterday as their friends continued to respond to Monday's appeal for more funds to continue the work the rest of the summer.

The gifts came anonymously, with initials, names, street address only, or a phrase expressing a wish for the funds. Each one in his own way, contributors gave. And the results when added together made possible nearly four more two weeks' vacations at camp, and ice in eight more homes.

If TRIBUNE readers continue their support, it is almost certain that the funds will see their task accomplished by the time fall comes. And that will mean much to the poor and the unemployed of Chicago. A little will help, a dollar here, a dollar there. And of course a nice hundred dollar check wouldn't come amiss.

A group of children sent $3.90 to the ice fund. They were members of the Better Citizens' club of Kozminski school, and the check came from Lynnette Shlaes, treasurer.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—Mrs. E. E. Gann has been obliged to postpone her second vacation trip within a fortnight. She was to have gone to Pennsylvania this morning by motor with a little party of Republican women to be guests of Mrs. Adam Wyant and Mrs. Louis T. McFadden for a few days, each, but last night received word of the sudden and serious illness of Mrs. Wyant. So the house parties were canceled. Mrs. Gann's first cancellation was a visit to Mrs. J. L. Loose at Gloucester, Mass., where she and Mr. Gann were to have gone with the Vice President, who canceled the trip at the last moment.

The Belgian ambassador, Paul May, who is spending this month near Annapolis, returned to the embassy tonight to entertain a little party of visiting Belgians touring this country.

Sally Picks Winners Today, Tells Names in Sunday's Tribune

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Mobet's Puppets, which have their headquarters at 5459 Everett avenue, have been recommended by educators and experts in the training of children as an ideal form of entertainment. The children themselves who have seen performances at the clubs and hotels throughout the city never have failed, it's said, to ask for a return engagement of these fascinating little figures. All of which convinces me that the hundred boys and girls who will win invitations to our party to see "Rumpelstiltskin" on next Thursday may be assured of a most enjoyable time.

Since I may take only one hundred of you there will be some disappointments, of course. To those whom I cannot invite I offer the hope that you'll have the opportunity of seeing Mobet's Puppets again some time. And that isn't an entirely hopeless thought, for they are available for entertainments and parties and may cross your path again.

In the meantime, I trust that all your letters have been written and mailed by this time, for this morning I shall read them and select the winners. Those who are to be invited will find their names listed in next SUNDAY'S TRIBUNE, with news of another party.

Are all my young Sox fans prepared for an exciting game this afternoon? You know, this is the day on which one hundred of us will see the Chicago White Sox battle the Philadelphians.

STARTING SATURDAY RKO STATE-LAKE

Playing With Fire

By WILLIAM MAC LEOD RAINE

SYNOPSIS.

Mrs. Doris Silver, a dude ranch guest, is rescued from a runaway horse by a handsome stranger, much to the annoyance of her companion, Ranse Brennan. The stranger meets Lee Reynolds, owner of the dude ranch, and fixes a flat tire on her car. She hires him to help on the Lazy R ranch. She notifies Brennan, who is her foreman, of the new hand.

INSTALLMENT IV.

BRENNAN GETS HIS TIME.

Lee did not like Brennan's manner. Since he was an employé and not a partner he had no right to put her on the witness stand. But she did not care just now to raise that issue and obscure a more important one.

"I met him down the road. He fixed my tire."

"What do you know about him?"

"Nothing. If he can't do the work satisfactorily we'll let him go. By the way, he says he met you today."

"Where?"

"He didn't say."

As he looked down at her there leaped into his mind a suspicion. "What kind of fellow? A brown impudent guy in shiny old leathers and gray shirt?"

"That does for a rough description," she admitted.

"I won't have it," he burst out. "That tramp can't work for me."

Lee felt a touch of angry color in her cheeks. "He's not going to work for you but for me, Ranse."

"He's a bad hombre. I knew it soon as I saw him. A trouble maker. I don't want him here."

This time she ignored that first person singular pronoun of his. "If he makes trouble he can go down the road. What do you know against him?"

"He annoyed Mrs. Silver—dragged her from the saddle when Nugget pitched a little—then got sassy."

"He won't need to drag her from Nugget's back again," she said pointedly.

"One of these fellows that don't know their place." He yielded to a sudden irritation. "What's eatin' you, Lee? You've got mighty cranky lately. Ain't I running the ranch right? Have you got any kick coming?"

"Yes, I have a kick," she told him flatly, her gaze steadily meeting his. "We'll come to that presently. You asked another question. I'm not running cows for my health, Ranse. My ledger tells me that ever since I came home the Lazy R has been in the red. I've been carrying the cattle deficit out of the profits of the guest business."

"I'm not God Almighty," he flung back at her. "I don't make the drought. It's not my fault we've had three short feed years on end and the range is baked like an oven."

"No," she assented. "You're not to blame for the activities of rustlers either, but you're responsible for seeing they don't get my stock. Over a hundred head have been driven across the line this year. I don't find it profitable to raise cows for Mexicans."

"Don't talk that way to me, girl."

"Can I help it? What can I do more than I've done? They raid our range in the dark of the moon? I can't close-herd all the Lazy R cattle."

"If you can't help it you are unlucky," she said deliberately.

"What do you mean by that?" Brennan demanded roughly.

"Perhaps if you gave more of your time to the cattle and less to the guests it might be better. You forget I'm not employing you to run the guest ranch. That's my particular job. You have nothing to do with it."

Again a deep flush suffused the foreman's face. His mouth set to an ugly line.

"You've got uppity since you went off to school and got in with your rich friends," he told her. "I can remember when you weren't too good for me."

It was the girl's turn to flush. There had been a month, during the first summer vacation home from school, when her eager eyes had seen him through a glamour. He had seemed to typify that west to which her nostalgic mind had turned all year. Shrewdly he had capitalized her sentiment to his own advantage. Secretly and doubtfully she had let herself become half engaged to him. There had been a hurried kiss or two, virginal and reluctant on her part. Then she had come to her senses.

"I was fifteen and you were thirty-five," she said. "Nice of you to remind me what a fool I made of myself. You don't need to be afraid I'll do it again, Ranse."

"You act like I'm poison," he growled. "It's you that's changed, not me."

She turned her back on that subject. "You asked me if I have a kick. I have. One sure way to wreck a guest ranch is to play favorites among those who come to it. I won't have flirtations between the help and the guests. You may tell me some of the women who come to the Lazy R want the excitement of foolish little affairs. They are bored and like to get interested in outdoor men. I'm not concerned about that except so far as it gives the Lazy R a bad name among the nice people who come here. I want my boys to be friendly and courteous to all the guests, not to single out individuals for their attentions. Do you understand?"

Brennan was furious. "Are you trying to tell me what I can and can't do?"

"As long as you're my employé—yes."

"Meaning Mrs. Silver?"

"It's not necessary to name anybody in particular."

"She can look out for herself. I won't do her any harm."

Lee smiled, not without malice. She understood Doris Silver a good deal better than Brennan did. They had been roommates at school, and Lee had been the confidant of a never ending series of episodes with various youths. If one point stood out of them it was that Doris would not be the one hurt in case there was a casualty.

"I know all about that. It's my business I don't want harmed."

The foreman slammed a big fist down on the desk. "Don't talk that way to me, girl. I won't have it. No woman alive—and no man either—can lay down the law to Ranse Brennan. It's not being done, never has been and never will be. You've got another guess coming if you think you can tell me who my friends are to be. Might as well get that straight now. I'm free, white, and twenty-one—and I'm a he-man. Understand?"

With a scornful little lift of the hand she brushed aside what he had said. "I care nothing about your friends. What I'm getting at——"

"You did once," he reminded her with a sneer. "I'm not so sure you don't now. Listen, Lee. When the time comes I'll have something to say to you. It's going to be with us the same as it was once. You can't turn me down the way you do these knotheads that fall for you. I'm not that kind of a bird. What I want I get."

Her eyes blazed with cold anger, but she did not raise her voice. "Are you telling me that you will look with favor on me again—after you're through with the other woman you find more interesting?"

"Don't get jealous. What I say is——"

"You've said too much already. I never saw such insolence. Nor such conceit. Will it be convenient for you to leave the ranch today?"

"What do you mean leave the ranch?"

"You've talked yourself out of a job. You're fired."

She rose, a slender young creature, brown and hard as most of the wild life of the desert. "I'll add two weeks pay to the check," she said quietly.

A savage anger mounted in him. This was a totally unexpected finale and one that did not suit his plans. "Forget it. You can't get funny with me. I'll not stand for it. I'm dangerous. Understand? Do me dirt, and I'll ruin you."

"Yes? How will you do that?"

She tossed the question at him with careless contempt. Why not? She was youth in the saddle. The only defeat she had ever known was that disastrous one when death had snatched her father. Then her strong arrogant will had been powerless. Brennan was only a bully making futile threats.

Enraged, he was not a sight pleasant to look upon. His empurpled face was a picture of ugly passion. As he moved around the table toward Lee she did not back away. Steadily she faced him, with eyes unafraid.

"I'll show you how. Before I'm through you'll beg for mercy."

"Shall I?"

Her cool scorn fell on him like the lash of a whip. That she was so indifferently sure of being beyond the reach of his revenge fanned the flame of his fury. He caught her by the shoulders and shook her.

"Take your hands away! Don't you dare touch me!" she warned.

He was beside himself, beyond caution. "I'll show you."

An arm encircled her waist and dragged the slim body to his. Roughly he tilted up her chin so that his eyes could meet and challenge hers.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Patient Needs Clothing.

"I have been confined to the hospital with tuberculosis and have not been able to work for about three years. I am going west soon, and will need some decent clothes. Do you think you could get me a suit of clothes, size 42, some underwear, and a pair of shoes, size 9? H. D."

With prospects of regained health in store for this unfortunate fellow I hope we can send him away with suitable clothing. Anything in his size will be greatly appreciated.

Bright Sayings of the Children

Margaret had learned in school that trees were to be planted in 1932 because it was the anniversary of Washington's birth. When she reached home, she asked her mother: "Is it because he wasted one?" L. H.

"What's that?" asked little Jane as we were driving past one of those roadside barbecues. We explained to her that it was a barbecue. "O, I know," she said. "That's where you get your hair cut!" C. J. B.

Hats That Tilt Down Over Eye Demand a Neat, Trim Coiffure

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Now, we really have something to go on about hair length. The question of length has worked itself out into practically two choices—bobbed hair that doesn't look too bobbed, and hair two inches long. Women are dashing off now to the hairdressers to have the hair clipped to little more than a two inch length, which, in nine cases out of ten, turns up in a tiny, smooth, close roll at the nape of the neck.

To keep that roll tiny, smooth, and close, repeated runs to the hairdressers may be necessary for thinning and snipping work. As I've hinted before, the business the hairdressers have lost with the demise of boy haircuts must be more than made up with the thinning and snipping work necessary nowadays for a well groomed head. The new hat, instead of giving us a respite, financially and physically, from the clipping and thinning requires even more of it. For those hats that tilt down over one eye, exposing one side of the head or a goodly area of it, demand above everything else a trim, neat coiffure.

The trick curls that have hung thick and heavy over the ears are due for a fadeout, or more properly speaking, a shove back. All in the interest of profile glamour! The shape of the head still stands out when you are unhatted.

Naturally, to keep that back roll neat and tidy, there'll have to be some permanent waving done, unless you are among the blessed who do not have to undergo the hot torment. One nice development of the permanent is the way you can have localized areas treated without having to submit to all-over curling. Those back ends are done with dispatch and the top of the head may be left unwaved if you wish.

Parisiennes Dine in Chic Black and White

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Worrying about what to wear in the public eye is left out of the Paris style troubles of the season. There's one sure answer: Put on a simple dress of black and white and you're all set with the best of them. Half of smart Paris does it.

The dress for restaurant dining must be simple in effect and crisp rather than sloppy. For this reason the elegante chooses some kind of crêpe silk with a body to it, and avoids chiffon or satin. The former is too spineless and the latter is too conspicuous.

The black and white evening frock, in nine cases out of ten, has a white upper and a black lower, or skirt part. The Germaine Lecomte dinner dress in our picture shows how the color is arranged in most cases. The blouse of this frock is white crêpe romaine, shirred down under a jeweled pin at the front. It has a V-shaped décolleté in the back, and below this the bodice is vertically shirred. The skirt of black crêpe romaine is high at the top, in the front, and droops down to the normal waistline in the back.

At the actual waistline, and below the skirt-top is a black sash that has white loops and floor-length ends in back. This sash is one of the distinctive details of the dress. There is a wedge shaped piece at the front of the skirt, extending to the hipline from which a gathered panel hangs, this panel being set into the skirt front to give it fullness which its slight circular cut would not supply.

The skirt is just to the top of the toes in front and touches the floor in back.

The most fascinating of all women

BUT...

MEN of every nationality seek the American girl for their bride. For she combines the lure of the Oriental, the chic of the French, the grace of the Spanish, the culture of the Italian.

But one charm she has missed—the celebrated English complexion. For 142 years English women have used Pears' Soap! Get a cake and see how its full, fresh lather brings the rose-leaf color up in your face. At all drug and department stores — wherever toilet goods are sold, Pears' Soap, unscented 15¢. Scented, a trifle more.

Use Mercolized Wax For Complexion Ills

Refined, refreshed and young is the skin that is daily patted with pure Mercolized Wax. It peels off the aged or discolored outer layer of surface skin. And blemishes such as freckles, tan, moth patches, etc., quickly disappear. The under skin then revealed is clear, smooth and beautiful. Just try Mercolized Wax tonight before retiring. Mercolized Wax brings out the hidden beauty. To quickly reduce wrinkles and restore the youthful smoothness of your contour, bathe the face daily in a lotion made of 1 ounce Powdered Saxolite and 1 half pint witch hazel. At all drug stores.

Food Talk.

The state of Illinois is now officially celebrating the Peach festival, and will continue to do so until the thirty-first of the present month. Peaches are at their height and it is a wise and thrifty housewife who takes advantage of their present low price. There are innumerable ways to serve this delicious fresh fruit so that your family won't tire of it and, as you know, your children will thrive on it.

Peaces in a rich egg omelet, rice and peach mould, baked peach pudding, peach brownies, peach pie, peach conserve, peach fluff, peach cocktail, peach cake, peach sherbert, peach-stuffed cantaloupe, Dutch peach cake, stuffed peach salad, peaches au gratin, peach dumplings, baked peaches, peach tapioca pudding . . . what more can you ask?

Don't buy too many baskets of this grand fruit at one time for peaches deteriorate rapidly. They should be eaten or preserved as soon as possible after being purchased.

From time immemorial peaches have been grown in China. The peach with which we are familiar today is a descendant of the Pean-to, or "flat-peach," a special Chinese form of the fruit. The Pean-to traveled to America by way of Australia and finally ended its wanderings in Georgia. It is not as handsome as the peach we like and use. Shaped like a tomato, displaying a green skin with pink cheeks, its pale yellow flesh is slightly reminiscent of bitter almond. Since the Pean-to arrived on our shores, however, it has been crossed and re-crossed to develop the peach as we know it now.

Peaches may be classified as "white-fleshed" and "yellow-fleshed." The former shows a creamy white undercolor, while the latter can range in shade from golden yellow to deep orange. We make the distinction in both of these types, also of freestone and clingstone when the flesh of the peach either pulls away from the stone or clings to it. The texture of the clingstone is firmer than that of the freestone, and for this reason the clingstone is generally used in canning.

BAKED TROUT.

Soak the trout one hour in cold water. Drain, dry and rub well with salt, pepper and butter. Dredge with flour. Put pieces of saltpork in a dripping pan and lay the fish on the pork. Place this in a hot oven. After it has baked for 15 minutes add a little water. Bake a 2 pound fish one hour. Brown one-quarter of a pound of butter in a pan, add the chopped parsley, and pour hot over the fish. Garnish with parsley and sliced lemon.

DEVIL'S FOOD CAKE.

1½ cups sugar.
½ cup butter.
2 eggs.
½ cup sour milk.
2 cups flour [small].
Pinch salt.
2 squares bitter chocolate.
1 teaspoon soda.
½ cup boiling water.
1 teaspoon vanilla.

Cream the butter well; add the sugar gradually, and cream together. Add the sour milk, stirring constantly. Melt the chocolate over hot water. Add the soda and boiling water to the chocolate, and stir all well before adding to the first mixture. Sift the flour once and measure. Sift the salt and flour into the cake and beat the cake for two minutes. Beat the whites of the eggs stiff, add the yolks to the whites, and beat together. Fold into the cake. Add the flavoring. Bake in a moderate oven from 45 to 60 minutes.

DELAY AWARDING OF POSTOFFICE CONTRACT AGAIN

Officials Hold Up Action on Chicago Project.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—The awarding of the contract for the new Chicago postoffice was postponed again today, following an extended conference between representatives of the government and private architects with spokesmen for the contracting firms who submitted low bids.

George Griffiths of the Chicago firm of John W. Griffiths Son company, which submitted the low bid for construction of the main building, reached Washington at 1:30 p.m. and immediately went to the treasury, where he conferred with officials in the architects' office.

Reveals Cause of Delay.

Mr. Perry K. Heath, assistant secretary in charge of public building operations, left Washington early this afternoon, but will telephone to Chicago early tomorrow. Prior to his departure he expressed the hope that an agreement would be reached with bids tomorrow, which would make it possible to award the contract this week. He said certain details remained to be settled when the architects and contractors went into session today.

The amount fund which the treasury has set aside for financing the building and installation of certain fixtures not included in the contract specifications for the building added to the low bids submitted by the contractors, brings the cost of construction of the postoffice within the legal limit of cost.

May Be Let Today.

An attempt was being made today to cut down the contractors' figures. It is probable that both the contract fund and the contractors' figures will be altered somewhat before a agreement is reached. Officials in the architects' office continued confident today that an agreement was only a matter of time. Maj. Heath refused to make a prediction, but appeared optimistic the contract would be let tomorrow.

"It takes considerable time to go over all the specifications of a building as large as the Chicago postoffice," Grant Graham, senior member of Graham, Anderson, Probst & White, supervising architects of the building, said today in explaining the delay.

"The contractors are now going over the specifications item by item, to make certain that the treasury and the contractors are in agreement in interpreting the specifications."

ORGANIST AND PAL SENTENCED FOR ROBBERIES

Carl Parker, 25 years old, 4434 South Dakota avenue, a motion picture theater organist, and Stanley Wilson, 19 years old, his roommate, both confessed robbers, were sentenced to terms of one year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Charles A. Williams in the Criminal court yesterday. After their arrest on April 21 the pair admitted having held up 10 drug stores in Chicago.

Parker's attorney asked for leniency on the contention that his client had been influenced by gangland pictures he had watched while working in various theaters.

Bandits Terrorize Girl and Take $2,300 in Gems

Miss Ethel Elkin, 22 years old, 4722 Berry avenue, answered a knock at the door of her home yesterday, expecting to see a friend. Instead she looked into the muzzles of two revolvers held by shabbily dressed bandits. The men forced her back into the apartment, admitted a third bandit, and while the latter stood guard rifled several drawers. They escaped with $6 and jewelry valued at $200. The girl's father, a tailor at 218 Belmont avenue, and mother were away on a vacation.

Karolyi Gets Support of United Party.

COUNT STEFAN BETHLEN. [Acme Photo.]

Count Karolyi declared he would continue to hold the portfolio of foreign minister, which he accepted last December, so that Hungary's foreign policies would not be altered during the present international crisis.

Expect Party Support.

The united party, backer of the Count Bethlen government, which showed its overwhelming strength in the last elections, will support the new government under Count Karolyi.

One change expected in the new cabinet is the replacement of Finance Minister Alexander Wekerle by Johann Telesky. However, as tomorrow is St. Stephan's day, the picking of the cabinet will not be completed until Friday.

Premier Is War Veteran.

Count Karolyi, who is 61 years of age, has figured largely in Hungarian public life for many years. He volunteered at the start of the war and fought on the Russian front. He joined the cabinet in December.

Count Bethlen, who has been ill for some time, said he believed that the Hungarian national crisis is over and that his influence in the government is no longer needed.

EMBEZZLER SAYS HE TOOK $30,000 FOR WIFE'S SAKE

Edward Jordan Andell, former assistant to the vice president of Montgomery Ward & Co., threw himself upon the mercy of the court yesterday when he appeared before Judge Joseph Sabath in the Criminal court to be sentenced on his plea of guilty to a charge of embezzling $30,000 of the company's funds.

Andell, who is 41 years old, told the judge he had taken the company funds in order to accumulate enough money to provide for his wife, Mildred, 21 years old, when he was too old to work. He fled to St. Louis, where he was captured.

Andell, before coming to the United States several years ago, was a professor of languages in a university in Germany. Judge Sabath continued the case until Saturday for a decision.

ORIGINAL PONZI FREE IN OCTOBER, BUT HE WILL BE DEPORTED

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—When Charles Ponzi, once king of get-rich-quick promoter, steps from the Massachusetts state penitentiary next October he will be met with a deportation warrant and will be shipped back to Italy, it was announced today at the department of labor's bureau of immigration.

Ponzi is eligible for parole two months from now. The warrant is of long standing, having been taken out some time ago to await the day when he should step from prison. Ponzi is deportable, the immigration bureau declared not only because of his conviction of a felony in this country but because he committed forgery before his entry and was therefore ineligible at the time of his coming to the United States.

The deportation warrant states: "That he has been sentenced, subsequent to May, 1917, to imprisonment more than once for a term of one year or more for the commission subsequent to this entry of a crime involving moral turpitude, to wit: Unlawfully using the mails in schemes to defraud and a common and notorious thief; and that he has been convicted of or admits the commission of a felony or other crime or misdemeanor involving moral turpitude, to wit: Forgery, prior to entry into the United States."

The MOST tire for the LEAST money in automobile history

Like most people you probably recognize Goodyear as the leading tire of the world.

But this you may not know: in a few brief years, on sheer merit, the Pathfinder tire has won a real share in that leadership.

When it was offered first in the market the Pathfinder was unknown and unheralded.

Today it is one of the world's most popular tires and it earned its right to bear the name Goodyear on its record alone.

Now, for a moment, forget quality. Judge, if you like, on price alone. Run your eye down this Pathfinder price list. Can you beat it?

You certainly cannot! Never in the history of the automobile have tire prices been so low.

Is it worth while to hobble along on your old tires when good trustworthy new tires are so cheap?

Think of the worry, the danger, the delay. Then think of the comfort, the safety, the satisfaction of driving your car equipped with a set of husky, handsome, dependable Goodyear Pathfinders.

Look again at these Pathfinder prices; they tell the whole story in ten words—the most tire for the least money in automobile history!

SOX-CUBS GAME AWARDED TO COMISKEY PARK

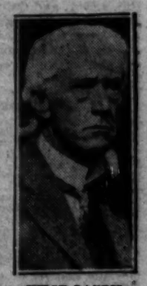
GROVE SCORES 25TH VICTORY; A'S DEFEAT SOX, 4-2

SITE OF CHARITY CONTEST PICKED BY TOSS OF COIN

Take Ticket Orders Now for Sept. 9.

BY ARCH WARD.

Chicago's 100 per cent charity baseball game between the Cubs and Sox will be played at Comiskey park Sept. 9. The site of the contest was decided yesterday morning by the toss of a coin in the office of Commissioner Landis, under whose supervision the game will be played.



JUDGE LANDIS.

World series rules will prevail, with the exception of the ball. Championship competition provides that the American league ball will be used in the American league park and the National league ball on the National grounds. In this instance the American league ball will be used for the first four and a half innings and the National league ball for the last half of the game.

Entire proceeds of the game will be donated to Gov. Emmerson's fund for relief and unemployment, and will be disbursed by that commission. In the opinion of the city's sport leaders this will be the first time that 100 per cent of the receipts of a promotional enterprise has been turned over to charity.

Accept Ticket Orders Now.

Ticket applications may be forwarded to Comiskey park immediately. Regular prices will prevail. Many fans already have volunteered to pay in excess of the customary admission for box seats. Persons generously inclined may inclose a check for any amount they desire. They will be given choice locations. The boxes at Comiskey park accommodate six, eight, or ten persons. Fans who want to aid the charity fund by paying more than the regular price of $1.50 a chair should keep in mind that their check must exceed the cost of the total number of seats in the box. Individual seats will not be sold on the plus basis.

Orders also will be accepted for grandstand seats. These sell for $1 and are not reserved. Only a limited number will be disposed of in advance of the game.

There are nearly 51,000 seats in Comiskey park. Standing room brings the capacity to almost 60,000, according to Secretary Harry Grabiner.

Provide Second Date.

In the event of rain on Sept. 9 the game will be played on Sept. 24. This is an open date for the Cubs. The Sox are scheduled to play in St. Louis, but President William Harridge of the American league yesterday obtained consent of the Browns' management to postpone the opening of the St. Louis series one day. The Sox return from the east on Sept. 23.

Proceeds from ticket sales will not be refunded in case the clubs are rained out on both dates. It was the opinion yesterday of William Veeck, president of the Cubs, Mr. Grabiner, Commissioner Landis, and Mr. Harridge that the baseball fans of Chicago gladly would donate the price of their tickets in view of the charity which is to benefit from the game.

Contributions from radio listeners also will be solicited. Managers of the six stations who broadcast Chicago games will meet with Commissioner Landis today to discuss ways of arousing interest among the thousands of fans who get their baseball over the air. Suggestion has been made that each listener send 50 cents to his favorite station.

The pass gate will be closed for this game. Everybody will pay to get in.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Lefty Grove won his twenty-sixth game of the season yesterday for the Philadelphia Athletics' opener against the White Sox. Furthermore, the all-headed artist tied the American league record for consecutive victories, the day's 4 to 2 triumph being his sixteenth in a row.

There are nice statistics for Robert Moses Grove, but the figures of Lefty Grove were more than the usual stuff for Old Red Faber. Red pitched eight innings and during that time failed to make a run in his own behalf. This brought the string of scoreless innings back of Red to a total of 31, which probably is another record, although misfortune of this sort is not listed in the tabulations of baseball's squirrel food. When Red left at the end of the game the Sox hammered across two runs, but Jim S. Moore was the pitcher of record at the time.

Has Birthday Party.

Red's forty-third birthday is on Sunday, Sept. 6, and a movement is being started to have Red pitch that day and perhaps win the tail end Tigers for the honor to make a run for the old boy, just as a sort of memorial.

Red didn't have much to howl about yesterday, insofar as losing the game was concerned, for it is not probable that Grove had any idea of letting the White Sox break his string. Red's ring shortcomings were responsible for the first two Philadelphia runs and the third marker was put on by Red when he hit Foxx with a pitched ball. A second error by Faber was a factor in the production of the A's final run in the eighth.

Grove took it easy until called upon to do some bearing down in the ninth. He then confined himself to five blows, and those by such batting aces as Faber and Cissell, who fanned in the ninth, and Jeffries, who is no batting behemoth, either. Grove won in one.

A's Score Two in Second.

The A's made their first two runs in the second inning. Miller opened first on a hit off Kerr's glove, and, swinging lustily, dribbled one down third and Faber couldn't hob it over to the base line fast enough to retire it. Williams also dribbled down third and Red threw the ball into Williams' legs, causing it to roll into right field. Miller and

Cubs Beat Robins, 4-1; Then Lose to Vance in Second, 5-3

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 19.—The terrible Mr. Vance interceded today in behalf of the Robins, thus shattering plans made by the Cubs to again reveal their skill in double headers. The Chicagoans won the opening half easily enough, 4 to 1, behind the masterly southpawing of Jakie May. Then it became a matter of winning again or drifting back into third place and Vance brought about the latter alternative by defeating Guy Bush and associated Cubs, 5 to 3.

KIKI CUYLER.

One bit of honor the Chicagoans won without a struggle had to do with strikeouts. In the first game they looked at the speed balling of W. Austin Moore, who hadn't started a game for three years. That the rest did him some good was evidenced by the fact that he fanned nine while allowing only five hits, two of which were homers by Cuyler and Barton. Having seen Moore wield the strikeout ball effectively, Vance set out to surpass Moore's mark but he merely tied it.

Cub Rally Fails.

Bush, with whom it was a question of a thirteenth victory or a fifth defeat, threw in dazzling fashion in all except one inning. He was encouraged first by a one run lead and then by a two run lead, but as soon as he acquired the latter he folded up. Luck conspired against him in the sixth inning and three hits with two bases on balls gave the Robins four runs, which the Cubs never were able to retrieve. They were still trying in the ninth, assisted by Woody English's fourth safe hit off Vance, but were forced into failure with two runners still on base.

The Robins will have to look at another southpaw tomorrow. Les Sweetland is due to start. It was Hornsby's intention to use him today if May was a success, as he was, but Bush was named at the last minute so as to give him time to rest for the opening game in New York, where he hopes to start twice in four days. Uncle Robby's choice probably will be the first pitcher he sees tomorrow noon. Hollis Thurston, the former White Sox, wants the assignment.

FIRST GAME

The Cubs' first run in the first game was in the nature of a gift by Southern, the former Philly recently resurrected from the minors by Uncle Robby. The young man made a two base muff of Barton's high fly to start the second inning. Wilson walked and was forced by Grimm, putting Barton on third. Vin hustled home on Hartnett's fly to deep center. Then Bell singled to right but Grimm overran second base and the rally expired.

There were no complications involved in the scoring of the two Cub runs in the third. After May and Blair had succumbed to Moore's skill, English bounced a grounder to short. Wright picked it up and when about to throw let the ball fall over his shoulder. A moment later Cuyler took the heart out of Uncle Robby's 12,000 grandstand managers by hitting his home run into the lower deck of the new seats in left field.

Most of May's difficulties were con-

HELEN MOODY IS 6-3, 6-0 VICTOR IN NATIONAL PLAY

Forest Hills, L. I., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Some of the best work of the national championship tennis singles was provided this afternoon when Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, leading American contender, and Miss Joan Ridley of England clashed in the fight for the crown that now figuratively adorns the blonde head of Betty Nuthall.

Mrs. Moody disposed of the claims of her British rival in easy fashion, winning, 6-3, 6-0, but the contest furnished the gallery with an exhibition of skill it is not likely to forget soon. Miss Ridley, with her reputation as a slugger, was not able to outdrive Mrs. Moody, just as no other woman has in the last five years.

Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Cal., one of the leading candidates for finalist honors, slipped into the quarter-final round between showers. With rain falling every now and then, Miss Jacobs whipped Virginia Hillesary of Philadelphia, 6-3, 6-3.

Marjorie Morrill of Dedham, Mass., second ranking player of the country, who was compelled to default to Alice Francis of Orange, N. J., after each had won a set in the singles yesterday, withdrew from the doubles today because her sprained back had failed to respond to treatment.

Mr. Johnston, Himself, to See Garden's Little Fight Tonight

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 19.—The soulless Garden corporation, which has become a minor fight club, developing talent for James J. Johnston, the Chicago stadium, and other promoters, is conducting its first outdoor bout of the season tomorrow night, a ten round reunion of Jimmy McLarnin and Billy Petrolle.

JIMMY McLARNIN.

Mr. Johnston will be present at the Yankee stadium to scout the show and if one of the boys happens to show him anything, he will make him an offer to fight in the big time.

"It is in little clubs like the Garden that you will find the most promising fighters and drawing cards," Mr. Johnston states, "and I often go slumming, as it were, at the Garden shows. I sincerely hope the six hundred millionaires make a little money out of this production because the little clubs are the backbone of the business.

About Ready to Graduate.

"I have been hearing about McLarnin and Petrolle for some time now and it looks as though one or the other of these boys must be just about ready to graduate from the Garden to my club at Ebbets field. At any rate, you may say that I shall be present, because in my constant quest for the best talent I do not overlook any clubs, however obscure they may be."

Luis Angel Firpo experienced great embarrassment due to a similar conflict of thought one time when he went to Indianapolis to strike some buffets and bashes at an elderly brakeman in a tour which served as an example for Primo Carnera's profitable wanderings. Arriving in Indianapolis, Luis Angel was warned that the law there permitted boxing exhibitions but forbade brutality and a police official called on him in his hotel to say that he would be housed up for 30 days if the fight became brutal.

Luis Angel asked the visitor to define brutality and he said: "If you knock him down that will be brutal and I shall deem it my duty to take drastic steps."

Luis Angel therefore promised that the contest would be free of brutality, and all seemed serene when the same representative called on him in his dressing room just before the boxing exhibition.

"I forgot to warn you about something else," the officer said. "Under our boxing law here it is a very serious offense for a pugilist not to put forth his best efforts. I think you ought to know this."

Leaves Him on the Spot.

This confused Firpo, and even Prof. Will McCarney, who was managing his tour and exhuming defunct heavyweights for him along the line of march was unable to reconcile the gallant officer's two warnings.

Moreover, when Luis Angel got into the ring the elderly brakeman seemed determined to embarrass him. The first time Luis Angel made a pass at him he deliberately tried to fall down without being hit. With an apprehensive glance at the police official who was already up on the margin of the ring with his handcuffs glinting and his gallant corps of officers at his heels, Luis Angel grasped the brakeman and held him up, and then spent a couple of rounds avoiding the brakeman entirely, and again the police officer and his fearless followers mounted the step in Luis Angel's corner.

"Remember what I said about not putting forth your best efforts!" he hissed into Prof. McCarney's blanched ear. "I trust you will not make it necessary for me to take stern measures."

"Well," said the professor, "I can see that you are a practical man. I do not happen to hold anything in my clothes, but why don't you and your gallant officers go raid a place and I will guarantee that this brakeman will faint from overexcitement. If a man faints that is not brutal, is it? And I will see you at the hotel afterwards."

Prof. McCarney states that the official and his officers received a sudden call to arrest a desperado for parking near a hydrant during the next round. Luis Angel, perceiving that the brakeman was about to faint, attempted to fan him with his right and accidentally grazed his chin, whereupon the brakeman passed out quietly and without brutality.

The professor adds that owing to a confusion of plans, a friend of his brought his bags down to the railroad station, so he forgot to return to the hotel and meet that practical man, the officer of police.

Dempsey Wins Comeback Bout by K. O. in 2d

BURNING BLAZE ROMPS IN AGAIN, 6 LENGTHS AHEAD

BY FRENCH LANE.

It looks more and more as if the champion 2 year old of the year is Burning Blaze, which races for Dick and Pat Nash of Chicago.

Carrying 123 pounds, racing wide all the way, and coming home as his jockey, Willie Fronk, pleased, six lengths in front, he won the Lincoln purse for 2 year olds at Hawthorne yesterday. It was a warmup for the $10,000 Hawthorne Juvenile handicap to be run on Saturday afternoon.

Cold Check, one of the fleetest from old Kentucky, was second. Frederick, one of the most fashionable and most powerful juveniles in Johnny Schorr's barn, was third.

Hygro's Time Better.

Burning Blaze ran his six furlongs in 1:12 4-5. It is the same distance as the Hawthorne Juvenile stakes. Hygro, a son of Epinard and considered by many to be the most dangerous rival Burning Blaze will face in the $10,000 stake, ran the same route in 1:11 4-5 on Tuesday as he won a race at Hawthorne.

This is, indeed, a difficult problem for the handicappers to solve. Does time mean so much? Will Hygro beat Burning Blaze a full second when they meet on Saturday? Well, we shall see.

It was the first start Burning Blaze has made since he beat all the leading 3 year olds in the country in the Post and Paddock stakes at Arlington Park.

Frederick Starts Slowly.

Frederick, which had considerable backing despite the big reputation of Burning Blaze, which had a pull in the weights of 13 pounds, had an alibi for the beating he took. He was away slowly and lost some ground right at the beginning, but he didn't lose any more ground than Burning Blaze did when he raced on the outside all the way.

Judge Primrose jumped into the lead at the start, but halfway down the backstretch Frederick had recovered from his slow start and had raced to the lead. Cold Check was third and Burning Blaze was fourth and going so wide it looked as if he didn't have a chance.

But Burning Blaze must have been playing with those ahead of him. He started to run on the turn and he didn't stop until his nose was showing in front soon after he had straightened out for the run home.

He went by like a high powered motor and pulled on away from his rivals from there home. In the mutuels Burning Blaze paid $3.90 to win, $3.10 to place, and $2.20 to show.

SOX-CUBS GAME AWARDED TO COMISKEY PARK

GROVE SCORES 25TH VICTORY; A'S DEFEAT SOX, 4-2

SITE OF CHARITY CONTEST PICKED BY TOSS OF COIN

Take Ticket Orders Now for Sept. 9.

BY ARCH WARD.

Chicago's 100 per cent charity baseball game between the Cubs and Sox will be played at Comiskey park Sept. 9. The site of the contest was decided yesterday morning by the toss of a coin in the office of Commissioner Landis, under whose supervision the game will be played.

JUDGE LANDIS.

World series rules will prevail, with the exception of the ball. Championship competition provides that the American league ball will be used in the American league park and the National league ball on the National grounds. In this instance the American league ball will be used for the first four and a half innings and the National league ball for the last half of the game.

Entire proceeds of the game will be donated to Gov. Emmerson's fund for relief and unemployment, and will be disbursed by that commission. In the opinion of the city's sport leaders this will be the first time that 100 per cent of the receipts of a promotional enterprise has been turned over to charity.

Accept Ticket Orders Now.

Ticket applications may be forwarded to Comiskey park immediately. Regular prices will prevail. Many fans already have volunteered to pay in excess of the customary admission for box seats. Persons generously inclined may inclose a check for any amount they desire. They will be given choice locations. The boxes at Comiskey park accommodate six, eight, or ten persons. Fans who want to aid the charity fund by paying more than the regular price of $1.50 a chair should keep in mind that their check must exceed the cost of the total number of seats in the box. Individual seats will not be sold on the plus basis.

Orders also will be accepted for grandstand seats. These sell for $1 and are not reserved. Only a limited number will be disposed of in advance of the game.

There are nearly 51,000 seats in Comiskey park. Standing room brings the capacity to almost 60,000, according to Secretary Harry Grabiner.

Provide Second Date.

In the event of rain on Sept. 9 the game will be played on Sept. 24. This is an open date for the Cubs. The Sox are scheduled to play in St. Louis, but President William Harridge of the American league yesterday obtained consent of the Browns' management to postpone the opening of the St. Louis series one day. The Sox return from the east on Sept. 23.

Proceeds from ticket sales will not be refunded in case the clubs are rained out on both dates. It was the opinion yesterday of William Veeck, president of the Cubs, Mr. Grabiner, Commissioner Landis, and Mr. Harridge that the baseball fans of Chicago gladly would donate the price of their tickets in view of the charity which is to benefit from the game.

Contributions from radio listeners also will be solicited. Managers of the six stations who broadcast Chicago games will meet with Commissioner Landis today to discuss ways of arousing interest among the thousands of fans who get their baseball over the air. Suggestion has been made that each listener send 50 cents to his favorite station.

The pass gate will be closed for this game. Everybody will pay to get in.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

Lefty Grove won his twenty-sixth game of the season yesterday for the Philadelphia Athletics' opener against the White Sox. Furthermore, the all-headed artist tied the American league record for consecutive victories, the day's 4 to 2 triumph being his sixteenth in a row.

There are nice statistics for Robert Moses Grove, but the figures of the game were more than the usual meat for Old Red Faber. Red pitched eight innings and during that time the Sox failed to make a run in his behalf. This brought the string of scoreless innings back of Red to a total of 11, which probably is another item, although misfortune of this sort is not listed in the tabulations of which squirrel food. When Red was out of the game the Sox hammered across two runs, but Jim S. Moore was the pitcher of record at the time.

Has Birthday Party.

Red's forty-third birthday is on Sunday, Sept. 6, and a movement is being started to have Red pitch that day and perhaps with the tail end Tigers for the fun to make a run for the old boy, just as a sort of memorial.

Red didn't have much to howl about yesterday, insofar as losing the game concerned, for it is not probable that Foxx had any idea of letting the White Sox break his string. Red's own shortcomings were responsible for the first two Philadelphia runs and the third marker was put on by Red when he hit Foxx with a pitched ball. A second error by Faber was a factor in the production of the A's final run in the eighth.

Grove took it easy until called upon to do some hearing down in the ninth. He then confined himself to five hits, and those by such batting stars as Faber and Cissell, who fanned twice each, and Jeffries, who is no batting behemoth, either. Grove had it in one.

It's Score Two in Second.

The A's made their first two runs in the second inning. Miller singled first on a hit off Kerr's glove. Bishop, swinging lustily, dribbled one down third and Faber couldn't hob it. He ran to the base line fast enough to capture it. Williams also dribbled down toward third and Red threw the ball into Williams' legs, causing it to bound into right field, Miller and

Cubs Beat Robins, 4-1; Then Lose to Vance in Second, 5-3

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 19.—The terrible Mr. Vance interceded today in behalf of the Robins, thus shattering plans made by the Cubs to again reveal their skill in double headers. The Chicagoans won the opening half easily enough, 4 to 1, behind the masterly southpawing of Jakie May. Then it became a matter of winning again or drifting back into third place and Vance brought about the latter alternative by defeating Guy Bush and associated Cubs, 5 to 3.

KIKI CUYLER.

One bit of honor the Chicagoans won without a struggle had to do with strikeouts. In the first game they looked at the speed balling of W. Austin Moore, who hadn't started a game for three years. That the rest did him some good was evidenced by the fact that he fanned nine while allowing only five hits, two of which were homers by Cuyler and Barton. Having seen Moore wield the strikeout ball effectively, Vance set out to surpass Moore's mark but he merely tied it.

Cub Rally Fails.

Bush, with whom it was a question of a thirteenth victory or a fifth defeat, threw in dazzling fashion in all except one inning. He was encouraged first by a one run lead and then by a two run lead, but as soon as he acquired the latter he folded up. Luck conspired against him in the sixth inning and three hits with two bases on balls gave the Robins four runs, which the Cubs never were able to retrieve. They were still trying in the ninth, assisted by Woody English's fourth safe hit off Vance, but were forced into failure with two runners still on base.

The Robins will have to look at another southpaw tomorrow. Les Sweetland is due to start. It was Hornsby's intention to use him today if May was a success, as he was, but Bush was named at the last minute so as to give him time to rest for the opening game in New York, where he hopes to start twice in four days. Uncle Robby's choice probably will be the first pitcher he sees tomorrow noon. Hollis Thurston, the former White Sox, wants the assignment.

FIRST GAME

The Cubs' first run in the first game was in the nature of a gift by Southern, the former Philly recently resurrected from the minors by Uncle Robby. The young man made a two base muff of Barton's high fly to start the second inning. Wilson walked and was forced by Grimm, putting Barton on third. Vin hustled home on Hartnett's fly to deep center. Then Bell singled to right but Grimm overran second base and the rally expired.

There were no complications involved in the scoring of the two Cub runs in the third. After May and Blair had succumbed to Moore's skill, English bounced a grounder to short. Wright picked it up and when about to throw let the ball fall over his shoulder. A moment later Cuyler took the heart out of Uncle Robby's 12,000 grandstand managers by hitting his home run into the lower deck of the new seats in left field.

Most of May's difficulties were con-

HELEN MOODY IS 6-3, 6-0 VICTOR IN NATIONAL PLAY

Forest Hills, L. I., Aug. 20.—[Special.]—Some of the best work of the national championship tennis singles was provided this afternoon when Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, leading American contender, and Miss Joan Ridley of England clashed in the fight for the crown that now figuratively adorns the blonde head of Betty Nuthall.

Mrs. Moody disposed of the claims of her British rival in easy fashion, winning, 6-3, 6-0, but the contest furnished the gallery with an exhibition of skill it is not likely to forget soon. Miss Ridley, with her reputation as a slugger, was not able to outdrive Mrs. Moody, just as no other woman has in the last five years.

Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Cal., one of the leading candidates for finalist honors, slipped into the quarter-final round between showers. With rain falling every now and then, Miss Jacobs whipped Virginia Hilleary of Philadelphia, 6-3, 6-3.

Marjorie Morrill of Dedham, Mass., second ranking player of the country, who was compelled to default to Alice Francis of Orange, N. J., after each had won a set in the singles yesterday, withdrew from the doubles today because her sprained back had failed to respond to treatment.

Mr. Johnston, Himself, to See Garden's Little Fight Tonight

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 19.—The soulless Garden corporation, which has become a minor fight club, developing talent for James J. Johnston, the Chicago stadium, and other promoters, is conducting its first outdoor bout of the season tomorrow night, a ten round reunion of Jimmy McLarnin and Billy Petrolle.

JIMMY McLARNIN.

Mr. Johnston will be present at the Yankee stadium to scout the show and if one of the boys happens to show him anything, he will make him an offer to fight in the big time.

"It is in little clubs like the Garden that you will find the most promising fighters and drawing cards," Mr. Johnston states, "and I often go slumming, as it were, at the Garden shows. I sincerely hope the six hundred millionaires make a little money out of this production because the little clubs are the backbone of the business.

About Ready to Graduate.

"I have been hearing about McLarnin and Petrolle for some time now and it looks as though one or the other of these boys must be just about ready to graduate from the Garden to my club at Ebbets field. At any rate, you may say that I shall be present, because in my constant quest for the best talent I do not overlook any clubs, however obscure they may be."

Luis Angel Firpo experienced great embarrassment due to a similar conflict of thought one time when he went to Indianapolis to strike some buffets and bashes at an elderly brakeman in a tour which served as an example for Primo Carnera's profitable wanderings. Arriving in Indianapolis, Luis Angel was warned that the law there permitted boxing exhibitions but forbade brutality and a police official called on him in his hotel to say that he would be housed up for 30 days if the fight became brutal.

Luis Angel asked the visitor to define brutality and he said: "If you knock him down that will be brutal and I shall deem it my duty to take drastic steps."

Luis Angel therefore promised that the contest would be free of brutality, and all seemed serene when the same representative called on him in his dressing room just before the boxing exhibition.

"I forgot to warn you about something else," the officer said. "Under our boxing law here it is a very serious offense for a pugilist not to put forth his best efforts. I think you ought to know this."

Leaves Him on the Spot.

This confused Firpo, and even Prof. Will McCarney, who was managing his tour and exhuming defunct heavyweights for him along the line of march was unable to reconcile the gallant officer's two warnings.

Moreover, when Luis Angel got into the ring the elderly brakeman seemed determined to embarrass him. The first time Luis Angel made a pass at him he deliberately tried to fall down without being hit. With an apprehensive glance at the police official who was already up on the margin of the ring with his handcuffs glinting and his gallant corps of officers at his heels, Luis Angel grasped the brakeman and held him up, and then spent a couple of rounds avoiding the brakeman entirely, and again the police officer and his fearless followers mounted the step in Luis Angel's corner.

"Remember what I said about not putting forth your best efforts!" he hissed into Prof. McCarney's blanched ear. "I trust you will not make it necessary for me to take stern measures."

"Well," said the professor, "I can see that you are a practical man. I do not happen to hold anything in my clothes, but why don't you and your gallant officers go raid a place and I will guarantee that this brakeman will faint from overexcitement. If a man faints that is not brutal, is it? And I will see you at the hotel afterwards."

Prof. McCarney states that the official and his officers received a sudden call to arrest a desperado for parking near a hydrant during the next round. Luis Angel, perceiving that the brakeman was about to faint, attempted to fan him with his right and accidentally grazed his chin, whereupon the brakeman passed out quietly and without brutality.

The professor adds that owing to a confusion of plans, a friend of his brought his bags down to the railroad station, so he forgot to return to the hotel and meet that practical man, the officer of police.

Dempsey Wins Comeback Bout by K. O. in 2d

BURNING BLAZE ROMPS IN AGAIN, 6 LENGTHS AHEAD

BY FRENCH LANE.

It looks more and more as if the champion 2 year old of the year is Burning Blaze, which races for Dick and Pat Nash of Chicago.

Carrying 123 pounds, racing wide all the way, and coming home as his jockey, Willie Fronk, pleased, six lengths in front, he won the Lincoln purse for 2 year olds at Hawthorne yesterday. It was a warmup for the $10,000 Hawthorne Juvenile handicap to be run on Saturday afternoon.

Cold Check, one of the fleetest from old Kentucky, was second. Frederick, one of the most fashionable and most powerful juveniles in Johnny Schorr's barn, was third.

Hygro's Time Better.

Burning Blaze ran his six furlongs in 1:12 4-5. It is the same distance as the Hawthorne Juvenile stakes. Hygro, a son of Epinard and considered by many to be the most dangerous rival Burning Blaze will face in the $10,000 stake, ran the same route in 1:11 4-5 on Tuesday as he won a race at Hawthorne.

This is, indeed, a difficult problem for the handicappers to solve. Does time mean so much? Will Hygro beat Burning Blaze a full second when they meet on Saturday? Well, we shall see.

It was the first start Burning Blaze has made since he beat all the leading 3 year olds in the country in the Post and Paddock stakes at Arlington Park.

Frederick Starts Slowly.

Frederick, which had considerable backing despite the big reputation of Burning Blaze, which had a pull in the weights of 13 pounds, had an alibi for the beating he took. He was away slowly and lost some ground right at the beginning, but he didn't lose any more ground than Burning Blaze did when he raced on the outside all the way.

Judge Primrose jumped into the lead at the start, but halfway down the backstretch Frederick had recovered from his slow start and had raced to the lead. Cold Check was third and Burning Blaze was fourth and going so wide it looked as if he didn't have a chance.

But Burning Blaze must have been playing with those ahead of him. He started to run on the turn and he didn't stop until his nose was showing in front soon after he had straightened out for the run home.

He went by like a high powered motor and pulled on away from his rivals from there home. In the mutuels Burning Blaze paid $3.90 to win, $3.10 to place, and $2.20 to show.

RECORDING YESTERDAY'S SPORTS FOR THE BUSY READER

The finish of an unfinished speed event. Protector, driven by Tom Berry, trots across the line first in the first heat the $1,000 three year old trot at Aurora, before rain put a halt to the day's racing. Second to Protector is C[illegible] Hanover, which set the pace most of the way, with Stellate running third. The remaining two heats will be run today. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

SHOWERS STOP GRAND CIRCUIT RACE PROGRAM

Protector Wins First Heat of Aurora Feature.

Rain stopped the Grand Circuit races at Exposition Park, Aurora, yesterday after a heat had been run in each of the first three races. The remainder of the program was put off until today.

Calumet Butler, winner of the $50,000 Hambletonian stake at Goshen, N. Y., last week, and favorite in the Hotel Baker purse, the feature of yesterday's card, did not start.

Charlotte Hanover, which was expected to challenge his claim to the juvenile championship, was unable to beat the brown colt Protector, though she set the pace most of the way. Protector went the heat in 2:07½.

In the classified trot for 3 year olds Senator Madden took the first heat in 2:06¼ from the filly Petulance without a great deal of trouble. Calumet Cheater took the only heat in the 2 year old pace from Flo Hearly after the filly had led almost to the wire.

The fastest race of the meeting will be run today when the three great pacers, Kinney Direct, 1:59¾, Winnepeg, 1:57¾, and Calumet Adam, 1:59¾, meet in the 2:06 pace. Calumet Adam has won four races this year, but has had the advantage of 40 to 80 feet penalties over Winnepeg and Kenny Direct.

Curacao Wins $3,150 Stake at Saratoga

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., Aug. 19.—(Special.)—The Greentree stable of Mrs. Payne Whitney accounted for another stake when her Curacao, a son of Dominant from Maracaibo, came from behind to win the 18th running of the Grab Bag handicap, at 6 furlongs, today.

It was one of the best fields that has come out for the Grab Bag in recent years and saw the Oak Ridge stable's Larranaga get second, a length and a half back of the winner and two lengths before the Rancocas stable's Despoli.

The Order of Finish.

While the Rancocas stable horses are barred from overnight events, they are not prevented from starting in stakes. After the placed horses the order of finish was Makalu, Prince Hotspur, Irene's Bob, Pompeus, Try Some, Sunmelius and Capacity.

Curacao was piloted by L. [Pony] McAtee and earned $3,150. He finished the route in 1:13.

Curacao ran and won under 114 pounds and was as good as 16 to 5 in the betting. The favorite at 13 to 5, albeit a receding one, was Larranaga, which got in with the light impost of 112 pounds.

Remember Defeat of Mexico.

The colt was highly fancied because of his victory over Mexico. Shifts in weight have been stopping many of the 2 year olds this year and as a consequence this angle is being closely watched. Irene's Bob, a double stake winner and winner of the Flash here on the opening day, was in this afternoon with top weight of 126 pounds and it stopped him at the 16th pole after he had looked like a winner.

ANNAN set the pace under slight restraint, but could no more than equal the speed of the winner. STOP GAP, well left and was racing strongly when he met with interference in the stretch. BATTLESHIP moved up strongly approaching the stretch turn and headed MY DANDY when ridden out in the stretch, but tired in the final furlong and lost his advantage. MY DANDY set the early pace and, holding on well after being passed, raced gamely to the end. KINCSEN was running well when she met with interference on the far turn, but responded when ridden out in the stretch. KARL EITEL was used up closing strides. BURNING UP seems to be off form and was never dangerous.

WRIGLEY FIELD crossed over to the rail to take a good lead soon after the start and, drawing into a good lead after racing OUTCRY into submission, won by a wide margin. PLUTARCH, outran for half the distance, moved up strongly on the outside approaching the stretch turn and, finally tiring, was easily headed. OUTCRY displayed fine early speed and held on fairly well. MUSKODAY, loomed up dangerous at the stretch turn, but hung in the final drive. ENGLEWOOD was outrun all the way.

MAECENAS had early speed and held on fairly well. GRAYDALE was on the outside on the final turn. SANTA SOPHIA, weakly ridden, was in trouble continually and had no chance. LILLIAN T. could not keep up, met with interference, and can do much better. PETER quit.

Joe Leiter's Stable to Be Here Monday

Saratoga evidently is the only track in New York at which Joe Leiter cares to race his horses. He notified C. Bruce Head, general manager at Lincoln Fields yesterday, that his band of 20 racers would arrive at Lincoln Fields on Monday for the season. Fred Burton of Chicago is also shipping his Everglade stable horses from Saratoga to Lincoln Fields.

Jockey Frank Chiavetta suffered a badly wrenched arm when he was thrown from a 2 year old which he was galloping in a training drill at Lincoln Fields yesterday morning.

Our Fancy and Grand Champion, owned by the veteran Kentucky turfman, Rome Respass, were unloaded at Hawthorne yesterday morning. They were shipped here for the Hawthorne Juvenile handicap, to be run Saturday.

The $5,000 added Great Lakes handicap, which is also to be run on Saturday, will attract a high class field, including Plucky Play, Spanish Play, Battleship, Chief John, My Dandy, Paul Bunyan, The Nut, Minotaur, and five or six others. The race is at a mile and a sixteenth.

Jack Howard performs many turf miracles, but could not make the mare, Kinscen, win for him a few hours after he bought her from Eddie Haughton yesterday. She wound up third, beaten by Battleship and My Dandy, after all of Howard's followers had wagered on her.

TRIOLO, PROTEGE OF MANDELL, TO SEEK A. A. U. TITLE

A protégé of Sammy Mandell, former lightweight boxing champion, is expected to be a contender for the middleweight title in the annual Central A. A. U. outdoor boxing championships at Northwest stadium, Irving Park boulevard and Milwaukee avenue, starting next Tuesday night and ending Thursday.

He is Mike Triolo, an Italian boy representing Brown's gymnasium. Mike is a good boxer and puncher and Mandell believes he will go far if he decides to enter the professional ranks.

MORGAN, DAVIS GAIN IN BIG SIX BAT MARATHON

Dick Morgan of Cleveland and Virgil Davis, Phillies catcher, swung the big bats of baseball's honored group yesterday. Morgan got three hits to add one point to his batting average, while Davis got four in two games to send his average bounding four points. Babe Ruth failed to get a hit off Wally Stewart at St. Louis, while Chuck Klein also went hitless in the Phillies' doubleheader with the Cards.

Chicago Casters Compete Today in National Tourney

BY BOB BECKER.

Chicagoland sends several champions and a number of other outstanding fly and bait casters into the national casting tournament, which opens this morning in Washington park.

The tournament lasts four days, with the concluding event, the dry fly, unknown distance, scheduled for next Sunday afternoon. The public is invited to the contests, which will be held both mornings and afternoons.

One has only to glance at the records and names involved in the recent seventh annual state tournament of the Chicago casting clubs to get an idea of the skill of many local casters who will be tossing lures at the targets this week in an effort to keep some of the championships in this city.

In the state event Howard Chatt of Chicago broke two records and won the all around championship. Chatt has entered the national championships, and eastern and western casters will have to be at their best to beat this local expert, one of the greatest that the game has ever produced, if they expect to get in the money.

In the ⅝ of an ounce distance event during the state championship Chatt averaged 305 feet in his casts and shot a long cast of 328 feet.

E. L. Sutter, Edward Davis, and F. R. Steel may be mentioned among the other local casters who, during the last few years, have been making the fly casters hustle. All in all, Chicago entries are bound to make real contests of any events in which they are entered.

Judging from the increased interest which Chicagoans are taking in the sport of tournament casting and the number of young men who are taking it up, the several casting clubs in the city are proving to be splendid training grounds for the development of outstanding casters.

All of the clubs in Washington, Lincoln and Garfield parks are open to the public and free instructions are gladly given to visitors who wish to use a rod and reel more expertly.

NORTHWESTERN REPORTS HEAVY GRID SEAT SALE

Northwestern university's football ticket sale, which opened Saturday, Aug. 15, has met with the expected rushing mail order business. The sale for the first two days exceeded that of last year and Max Hayford, ticket manager, expects the total sale to jump considerably ahead of the 1930 season. Season tickets have been on sale since June. The demand for these tickets is more than keeping pace with the 1930 sale. Purchasers of season tickets also have the privilege of including the Notre Dame game to be played at Soldiers' field.

FREEMAN WINS DENTAL SOCIETY GOLF TOURNEY

C. B. Freeman scored a 90 to win low gross in the annual golf tournament of the Fox River Dental association yesterday at St. Andrews Country club. A. L. Roberts was second with 93.

Talking it Over

The appended letter is from Dr. David J. Jones, president of the Chicago Cardinals:

RED GRANGE.

Dear Mr. Ward:

I notice in your column of Aug. 17 Mr. Dick Hanley, coach of Northwestern university, and Mr. Robert Zuppke, coach of Illinois university, agreed that professional football is the "hooey."

Quoting from the paper, Mr. Zuppke said, "My Illinois football team of last year [which was by no means his best] could play the Bears or Cardinals to a standstill." Now if Mr. Zuppke is of the opinion that his team this fall can do the same, I will gladly post $10,000 with you, the sports editor of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, the amount to be donated to charity if his team, Dick Hanley's, or any other college football team designated by Mr. Hanley or Mr. Zuppke will play and beat the Cardinals.

Why not arrange a charity game between the Chicago Cardinals and the best college football team next fall with every cent of the proceeds to go to charity. I know Mr. Zuppke will hide behind the cloak of the rules of the Big Ten conference and say "We are not allowed to play."

Mr. Zuppke mentioned that Earl Britton had certain things he could do well in college football. He was a fine kicker, good passer and skillful in receiving passes. He was not a plunger or blocker. That's one reason why Mr. Zuppke's backfield men are not making good in professional football. They are not trained thoroughly in every fundamental of the game, such as blocking, passing, punting, plunging and receiving.

Professional football has been operating for the last fourteen years, and in all this time Illinois has had only a few men that made good and these all played with the Chicago Bears with the exception of Chuck Kassel, now playing end for the Chicago Cardinals.

Is Mr. Zuppke aware that no other professional teams in the league have employed a man from the University of Illinois? That will contradict the statement he made when he said he has more players in the professional ranks than any other coach.

And of all the players from Illinois that have been given a trial with the Chicago Bears just five have made good. Red Grange, half back, and not until such time that he had three years' coaching in how to block and tackle. Coach Yost of Michigan in 1925 said that Grange, during his years at Illinois, never made a tackle or blocked. He has learned this art of the game from the professional coaches. Jim McMillen, guard, made good after two years in pro football. Joe Sternaman, while he only played one varsity game while at the University of Illinois, learned his football in the pro ranks. Wally Walquist was by no means a finished ball player when he left Illinois, as he is today. George Halas, the owner and operator of the Bears, concedes that he learned his football after leaving the University of Illinois.

Dick Hanley tried to teach certain plays to his men at Northwestern and eventually came to Ernie Nevers, last year's coach of the Cardinals, and asked Nevers to show how certain plays that were clicking for the Cardinals could be used at Northwestern.

Have Mr. Zuppke and Mr. Hanley lost sight of the fact that Notre Dame's all-star football team that played the New York Giants were beaten 35 to 0 was composed of the best football players graduated from that school for the last ten years, and in that game the all-stars made but one first down? The New York Giants were not the best team in the National league last fall. They were beaten by four other teams in the league. The 45,000 people that left the Polo grounds that afternoon were convinced that professional football is as much superior to college football as professional baseball is to college baseball.

Please believe me when I say this letter is not written because I believe that professional football needs defending, because we have doubled our attendance in the last two years, and if we had the opportunity to play Mr. Zuppke's team next fall I am sure we would triple the attendance.

Yours truly,
DR. DAVID J. JONES,
President, Chicago Cardinals.

Tilden Defeats Sellers and Burke Beats Pare

Crawford, Notch, N. H., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Bill Tilden defeated Bobby Sellers, 1929 Pacific coast singles and doubles champion, 6-0, 6-1, here today. Albert Burke, second ranking tennis professional in Europe, defeated Emmet Pare, 6-0, 2-6, 6-2.

Miss Roesslein 4 and 2 Victor in Public Golf

The golfing secretary, Margery Roesslein of Cary, Ill., won the feature match of the Illinois women's golf tournament at Lincoln park yesterday, defeating Mrs. L. C. Darr of Lincoln park, 4 and 2. Miss Roesslein had a formidable opponent in Mrs. Darr, who had the score even at the turn.

Mrs. Tillie Langer, holder of the Lincoln park women's championship, defeated Ann Conroy of Hickory Hills, 5 and 4. This match also was even at the turn, but Miss Conroy, repeatedly missing iron shots, weakened under the consistent playing of Mrs. Langer and went to pieces on the last nine. Miss Conroy tried to recover from her dubbed iron shots on the greens and while she staged some spectacular putting, it did not balance Mrs. Langer's faultless approaching and fairway shots.

Mrs. Long Beats Mrs. Kurry.

Mrs. Rose Long, woman champion of Jackson park, defeated her parkmate, Mrs. T. Kurry, 3 and 1. This match seesawed back and forth, with first Mrs. Long and then Mrs. Kurry in the lead. Mrs. Long made several difficult short iron shots during the final nine, which gave her the winning advantage.

Mrs. V. S. Cooper of Lincoln park, an annual contender in this tourney, met with little opposition from Mrs. C. N. Wheeler, also of Lincoln, whom she defeated 5 and 4. Mrs. Cooper's short game was almost perfect. Mrs. Wheeler's was just the opposite. Mrs. Wheeler could not manage her putter and lost the match on the greens.

High School Junior Wins.

Miss Janet Humphries, a shy little junior from Hyde Park High school, whose appearance in this tourney is her second in competition, beat Catherine Connor of Lincoln park at the nineteenth hole when Miss Connor missed a two foot putt. Miss Humphries was obviously bothered by the gallery, but despite this handicap she laid her tee shots straight down the lane.

Results of yesterday's championship flight:

Margery Roesslein, Cary, defeated Mrs. L. C. Darr, Lincoln, 4 and 2.
Mrs. Rose Long, Jackson, defeated Mrs. T. Kurry, Jackson, 3 and 1.
Mrs. V. S. Cooper, Lincoln, defeated Mrs. C. N. Wheeler, Lincoln, 5 and 4.
Mrs. M. Healy, Lincoln, defeated Mrs. B. Garland, Lincoln, 5 and 3.
Mrs. Tillie Langer, Lincoln, defeated Ann Conroy, Hickory Hills, 5 and 4.
Janet Humphries, Jackson, defeated Catherine Connor, Lincoln, 1 up, 19 holes.
Miss K. Frieder, Jackson, won by default.
Mrs. G. Connell, Lincoln, defeated Miss V. McQueen, Jackson, 1 up.

Championship pairings:
Margery Roesslein vs. Mrs. Rose Long.
Mrs. V. S. Cooper vs. Mrs. H. Healy.

LOCK UP JURY TRYING CASE OF CHICAGO GUNMAN

Unable to Agree After 4 Hours' Deliberation.

Watseka, Ill., Aug. 19.—[Special.]—Unable to reach a verdict in the case of Joseph Jazorak, Chicago gunman, charged with the murder of Deputy Sheriff Henry Ennen of Iroquois county, following the robbery of the Buckley State bank on July 17, Circuit Judge Frank L. Hooper ordered the jury locked up tonight after they had deliberated for four hours.

JOSEPH JAZORAK.

Judge Hooper issued the instructions that in the event a verdict was reached during the night it was to be sealed and delivered to him in open court tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

The jurors retired after the final plea for the death penalty made by State's Attorney A. F. Kendall. Barratt O'Hara had spent five hours in a plea for the defense, advancing the contention that Jazorak, a world war veteran, was suffering from shell shock.

Wife Weeping Spectator.

Jazorak sat unmoved throughout the trial, but his wife sobbed hysterically when State's Attorney Kendall demanded the death penalty.

Jazorak and two companions, Pierce F. Lanigan and Edward Felder, were pursued and captured by a posse of farmers and deputy sheriffs after the Buckley robbery. It was during the chase that Ennen was slain.

Ennen opened fire on the gang, wounding Jazorak. He continued firing at the two other robbers, who had commandeered a passing automobile and resumed their flight, until he emptied his gun.

Shot in Cold Blood.

Meanwhile Jazorak had crawled through a culvert and come up behind the deputy with a revolver in his hand. Ennen turned, and when he saw the bandit's weapon, dropped his own empty gun and raised his hands in token of surrender. Jazorak shot him through the heart.

Jazorak was found in hiding in a corn field later in the day. His companions, Felder and Lanigan, were also captured and on July 30 pleaded guilty to bank robbery and were sentenced to from a year to life in Joliet penitentiary.

Jazorak also offered to plead guilty if assured a life sentence for murder, but State's Attorney Kendall refused his plea.

SCAN ROTHSTEIN PAPERS IN QUEST OF POLICE GRAFT

Seabury Committee Is After New Evidence.

New York, Aug. 19.—[Special.]—Seeking to learn if any police officials were on the pay roll of Arnold Rothstein, the slain gambler, two assistants of Samuel Seabury, counsel to the Hofstadter legislative committee, began today examining confidential papers of Rothstein which had been impounded in the office of District Attorney C. T. Crain.

This is the first time this particular set of papers—which includes also some of the records of the investigation into Rothstein's murder—have been examined by the Hofstadter committee staff, although Rothstein's "little black books" were examined some time ago.

The immediate purpose is to learn, too, if there was any connection between a police lieutenant, a brother of George A. McManus, who was indicted for the murder and acquitted, and Rothstein.

The "little black books" indicated simply that Rothstein's main interests had been gambling and narcotics. Whether in his career in those two fields he had to "fix" police officers may be disclosed by the private papers being examined today.

The documents were impounded after the grand jury inquiry which resulted in McManus' indictment.

Mrs. Trotter is to receive the residuary estate after three trust funds, with a principal of about $10,000 each, are established for three children. The $18,000 awarded to Mrs. Marie C. Briggs represents her distributive share of the estate. She was not mentioned in the will.

MORE WITNESSES DEFINITELY AGAINST RAIL RATE INCREASE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—All witnesses appearing before the interstate commerce commission today in the hearing on the railroads' application for a 15 per cent increase in rates were unqualifiedly against any increase.

Coal, hay, tile, and fruit and vegetable shippers protested that they could not bear increased transportation charges and predicted, as had many other witnesses, that if rail rates were advanced the railroads' competitors would get so much more business that the increased rates would do the railroads no good.

Frank E. Carey of Chicago, Ill., president of the F. E. Carey Coal company, and chairman of the bituminous trade relations committee of the National Retail Coal Merchants' association, declared that Chicago's domestic coal supply came largely from West Virginia and that at present coal prices, 47 cents out of every dollar of the consumers' coal bill went to the railroads.

If a 15 per cent increase in rates were granted, Mr. Carey asserted, 60 per cent of the value of the coal in the dealer's yard would represent "the retailer's cash outlay for freight charges."

With production of natural gas having increased 134 per cent in the period from 1910 to 1929, Mr. Carey said this had displaced approximately 50 million tons of coal and that that traffic was lost to the railroads, representing a loss of revenue of around 100 million dollars.

EDISON COMPANY BUYS TRACT ON DRAINAGE CANAL

Merges Leasehold Estate and Fee.

BY AL CHASE.

Purchase by the Commonwealth-Edison company of 13.58 acres on the east side of South Crawford avenue, between West 35th and West 37th streets, fronting on the drainage canal, from the sanitary district, for an indicated $64,210, was disclosed yesterday at the county recorder's office. The property has been under lease since 1916, at which time a ninety-nine year lease was negotiated. Thus the fee and leasehold have now been merged.

The original long term lease was dated April 1, 1916, ad expired March 3, 2015. It was made by the sanitary district, as lessor, to Frank F. Jacobs as lessee. Mr. Jacobs assigned the lease to Walter R. Kirk, who further assigned it to the Commonwealth Edison company, on May 6, 1916. The Commonwealth Edison company has one of its largest power plants at this location.

Buys Bennett Avenue Corner.

Henry C. Banks has purchased the southeast corner of 73d street and Bennett avenue, 57x126, improved with fifteen flats, from Anthony Vonesh for an undisclosed consideration, subject to incumbrances totaling $84,000. Mr. Vonesh and Frederick D. Sullivan transferred title to the property to Richard R. Walsh, who in turn transferred it to Mr. Banks.

The twenty-four apartment building at 1938-46 East 74th street, near Jeffery avenue, was given in exchange, subject to incumbrances amounting to $123,000. Edward Slade & Co were brokers. Charles F. Burke was attorney.

Oak Park Transaction.

Title to the two story business block at the northeast corner of Madison street and Ridgeland avenue, lot 50x123, has been transferred by the Chicago Title and Trust company, as trustee, to Jacob Spitzer and Samuel Spitzer of Oak Park. A trust deed for $50,000, due Aug. 20, 1936, at 6 per cent has been given to the Oak Park Trust and Savings bank. The building contains five stores, four apartments, and several offices.

William H. Yates, who is with the Hartman Furniture company, has purchased from Anton E. Sward and Frank D. Carpenter the building at 1511-27 East 67th street, lot 175x115, containing eleven stores, thirty apartments, and twenty garages. In exchange Mr. Yates gave the following property: Residence at 1547 Kenilworth drive, Calumet City; residence and four two flat buildings at Munster, Ill., and a two apartment building at Hammond, Ind.

FAILURE OF RICE CROPS IN ORIENT LIFTS PRICES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 19.—[Special.]—Sharp upturns in rice prices in oriental markets are reported, said to have been caused by crop failures over wide areas.

The decision of the Japanese government to refrain from further exports of rice because of the likelihood of a short crop, coupled with advices from Burma indicating serious flood damage to the rice crop, virtually eliminate the two largest producers and exporters of that commodity.

China is said to be the world's largest producer of rice, although the actual output is uncertain. However, this staple constitutes the country's principal food and China's imports averaged about 705,000,000 pounds between 1909-1913. In 1929 they had risen to 1,443,000,000 pounds.

The largest Japanese rice crop of the last 20 years in 1930, together with increased crops in Chosen, Taiwan and Burma were pressed on the market last year and the price of rice in the Chinese markets, where the domestic crop was also said to be plentiful, sagged nearly 50 per cent.

Nevertheless, the nation became more wheat-conscious and was a good buyer of wheat, particularly from Australia, during the past season. China normally imports about 50,000,000 bushels of wheat annually. With the low price of wheat and high rice prices offsetting each other as factors, many grain trade observers in this country believe that China might well use 100,000,000 bushels of wheat.

ITALY RAISES WHEAT TAX TO $1.07 A BUSHEL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Aug. 19.—Augmentation of the import tax on wheat from 86 cents a bushel to $1.07 was announced officially by the Italian government today. The measure is deemed necessary because the situation created by the failure of several important crops, due to persistent heat and drought.

Potatoes, corn, vegetables of various kinds, and the sugar beet crop have been partially lost. The increased duty is expected to compel millers to buy more national wheat, sustaining the price of the primary commodity. Ordinarily Italy imports between 30 and 40 per cent of the wheat she needs.

REVIEWS AGREE THAT STEEL RISE LOOMS AHEAD

Chicago Area Gains Are Reported.

BY O. A. MATHER.

While the mid-week reviews of the n and steel industry do not agree the status of current operations, ir units in predicting moderate sea-nal recovery in the next six weeks.
Particularly cheerful is the consenion that the automobile industry is oing somewhat better than had been xpected and improved demand for ontinental from this source is expected to e augmented by larger orders from e railroads and the construction inustry.

The Iron Age placed current opera-ons of the steel plants at an averge of 32 per cent of capacity, com-ared with 30 per cent a week ago.
And" gives an estimate of 33½ per ent, compared with 32 per cent last eek. However, considerable variation exists in different districts, with ants at Chicago and Cleveland con-nuing with losses at Pittsburgh,
Buffalo, and Birmingham.

Strengthens Hopes.

"A slight gain in steel demand, mainly as the result of specifications from the automobile industry, and prospective increases in line pipe tonnage, structural steel awards, and new projects have strengthened the view of iron and steel producers for a seasonal upturn in business," the Iron Age says. "While current orders from motor car builders are too small and too scattered to throw much light on September assembly schedules, they are interpreted as portending larger and more widely distributed volume.

"The outlook in line pipe is more clearly defined. Orders about to be placed, with smaller tonnages approaching the closing stage, are counted on to sustain the recently resumed operations of electric weld and seamless pipe mills until the end of the current quarter. Rail specifications are still irregular, but will be better next month. Releases for September rolling thus far received at Chicago point to a gain of 25 to 50 per cent in western rail mill operations.

"Structural steel awards at 13,000 tons are the smallest reported for any month since April. However, several large tonnages are on the verge of being placed and new projects totaling 30,000 tons have come up for figures.
All elements of both structural steel and reinforcing bars have been holding up well, with the likelihood that they will continue to make a good showing."

Notes Steadier Trend.

"A further rise in production, consumer brisk inquiry for building steel, and a fuller recession in automobile assembly than was anticipated and greater interest by the railroads in the equipment and track material markets encourage the steel industry for the second consecutive week," Steel says.
"There is nothing, yet, to indicate a steady virile recovery, and the improvement is spread rather thinly, but the two weeks now the steel markets have borne the earmarks of the usual fall upturn. Slightly higher operations at Chicago, Youngstown and Cleveland more than wash out a decline at Buffalo.

"In the five weeks of July steel mill operations curved downward, success-ively, from 34½ to 33½ to 33 to 32 per cent. In the first three weeks of August they have curved upward from 30 to 33½ per cent. If the fourth week of August also registers a gain, daily production totals will be approximated, with an outside chance of a small gain."

Failures Are Fewer.

Further decline in commercial failures in the last week was reported by Bradstreet's, which placed business failures at 489, a decrease of 17, or 3 per cent from the previous week.
This marks the fifth successive weekly decline. Moreover the current total marks a decline of 18, or 4.2 per cent, from the corresponding week in 1930, but an increase of 41½ per cent over the same week in 1929.

Defaults among retailers totaled 297, or 71.5 per cent the total number, as against 307 or 72.1 per cent in the preceding week. The manufacturing group came second this week with forty failures, or 9.2 per cent of the total, while the commercial service group, with thirty-five defaults, ranked next with 8.6 per cent of the total.
The wholesale and jobbing lines furnished twenty insolvencies, or 4.9 per cent of the total, while the banking group had seventeen suspensions or 4.1 per cent.

Discusses Recent Boost in Chicago's Switching Rates

BY SCRUTATOR.

The interstate commerce commission has authorized a substantial increase in switching rates within the Chicago district. These rates were already higher than in any other metropolitan area except New York, where lighterage and pier handling are involved and conditions are radically different.

The railways were able to convince the commission that switching rates in the Chicago district were unremunerative by means of a cost study which was severely criticized by shippers at the hearing.

Shippers still hesitate to accept the figures presented in the cost study as an accurate reflection of the existing situation. For example, the study failed to include the Chicago Junction railway, which is the switching carrier with the shortest hauls and the heaviest traffic density in the entire area.

Seen "Revenue Measure."

Apparently the decision is a "revenue measure." The road haul carriers say they need the money and here was a chance to give them additional revenues.

Combined net railway operating income of the four principal Chicago carriers engaged exclusively in switching was $8,731,171 last year, compared with $10,296,432 in 1929 and $10,010,325 in 1928.

Despite the business slump of 1930 the Belt railway of Chicago enjoyed the best year of its existence, reporting net railway operating income of $1,807,726, against $1,804,043 for 1929 and $1,750,958 for 1928. The decrease in net earnings of several of the other large switching carriers, including the Baltimore and Ohio Chicago terminal and the Chicago River and Indiana, was not alarming.

Must Add Approval.

As the matter now stands the interstate commerce commission has authorized switching rate advances on interstate commerce only, which amounts to roughly 40 per cent of the total. The Indiana and Illinois commissions must add their approval of the increases to make the advances effective on the remaining 60 per cent.

If either of these commissions refuses to sanction the advance it will precipitate a thirteenth section proceeding before the interstate commerce commission. That body has the power under section 13 to dictate the level of intrastate rates when such rates discriminate against interstate rates.

It is entirely possible, however, that if the two state commissions should withhold approval the interstate commerce commission might either retrace its steps or grant a new hearing because the major portion of the traffic is under control of the state commissions.

There is little doubt that a determined effort will be made to persuade the commission to reopen the case through a showing that conditions have changed since the record in this case was made. Several bodies are already preparing material for an appeal.

Pay for Branch Line Losses.

A former interstate commerce commissioner is authority for the statement that 30 per cent of the nation's railway mileage does but 2 per cent of the total business. There is a tendency to make the metropolitan centers pay for the money lost on branch lines whose continued operation is no longer economically justified because former customers now haul their goods on the highways.

Before accepting switching rate boosts as inevitable Chicago shippers seek to determine whether the increase is due solely to increased costs in handling their goods or whether it is being inaugurated by the railroads in order to cover deficits on jerkwater lines that should long since have given way to motor transportation.

Cancels Proposed Raise.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 19.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission today ordered the Kansas City Southern to cancel proposed switching charges at Kansas City, Mo., and Kansas City, Kas. The railroad had proposed switching rates varying from $9 to $10.51 a car. The commission suggested that rates ranging from $7.50 to $10 would be proper.

AMERICAN TELEPHONE DIRECTORS DECLARE USUAL $2.25 DIVIDEND

While directors of several large industrial corporations yesterday voted to readjust dividend rates of their companies in order to bring payments in closer line with current earnings, directors of the nation's largest corporation, American Telephone and Telegraph, voted to maintain the present $9 annual rate on the common by authorizing the regular quarterly distribution of $2.25 a share. The usual payment of $1.50 on the common stock of the Southern Pacific company was also voted by the directors of the railroad.

Stone & Webster, Inc., reported the declaration of a quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share on the capital stock, thereby placing the issue on a $2 annual basis as compared with $3 formerly paid. The company reported net consolidated operating income for the 12 months ended June 30 of $5,072,350, which was equivalent to $2.41 a share on the 2,104,500 shares outstanding at the close of the period.

Shell Union Oil company directors omitted the quarterly dividend of $1.37½ on the convertible preferred stock due at this time. A statement said that in reaching this decision directors have been guided by the fact that on "account of the demoralized conditions in the industry, the company's surplus has been eliminated and the payment of dividends could only be continued by drawing on the company's reserves."

William Filenes Sons company directors declared an initial dividend of 25 cents a share on the common stock, payable Sept. 30 to stockholders of record Sept. 21.

Raybestos-Manhattan, Inc., declared a quarterly dividend of 40 cents on the common stock, placing the stock on a $1.60 annual basis, against $2.60 previously. The company reported first half net income of $580,179, equal to 86 cents a share on the common stock, compared with $825,499, or $1.22 a share, in the first half of 1930.

Says Chevrolet Used His Ideas; Sues for $2,500,000

Kansas City, Mo., Aug. 19.—(AP)—A suit asking $2,500,000 damages was filed here today against the Chevrolet Motor company and the General Motors corporation by H. W. Luedecke, superintendent of schools at Advance, Mo., who alleges his ideas for improvement of the Chevrolet automobile were used without recompense. He asks that he be paid on the basis of 50 cents for every car manufactured since his ideas were submitted.

Agree on Billion Dollar Sinclair Oil Consolidation

New York, Aug. 19.—Terms under which five major petroleum companies are to be merged into a single unit of world wide scope with aggregate assets well in excess of $1,000,000,000 have, except for minor details, been finally agreed upon after two years of negotiations and will be formally announced soon.

The consolidation will set up a company under the domination of Harry F. Sinclair which will rival in size the largest of the Standard Oil organizations and rank as the largest independent petroleum enterprise in the country. It will be a complete unit, operating in all branches of the oil industry, including production, refining, marketing and transportation.

The companies to be united are the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation, the Tidewater Associated Oil company, the Prairie Oil and Gas company, the Prairie Pipe Line company, and the Rio Grande Oil company. Their assets will be transferred to a new holding company to be organized under the laws of Delaware and which probably will be known as the Associated Petroleum corporation. The new company's capital stock will consist of 25 million no par shares.

Give Terms of Merger.

The terms under which the consolidation is to be effected follow:

Common stock of Sinclair will be exchanged for stock in the new company on a share for share basis after the retirement of Sinclair preferred.

The common stock of Tidewater Associated will be exchanged for stock in the new company on the basis of eight new shares for every ten of Tidewater Associated. It is the intention also to make some provision for the retirement of the Tidewater Associated preferred, probably on an exchange basis, the details of which are yet to be adjusted.

Prairie Oil and Gas shares will go in on a share for share basis. There is no preferred of this company.

Prairie Pipe Line stock will be exchanged in the ratio of ten shares for fourteen of the new company.

The terms under which Rio Grande shares will be acquired are not definitely known, but the company will be brought into the amalgamation.

Seen Logical Move.

The merger of these five units is considered most logical, as the operations of each fit in exceptionally well with the other, and at only few points do they overlap. Despite the fact that negotiations were broken off last fall, due to the fact that an agreement as to terms could not be agreed upon, it has been the consensus in the industry that the merger of at least the Sinclair and two Prairie companies would finally be consummated.

The total assets of the Sinclair Consolidated Oil corporation, which is the largest unit to be included in the merger, as of Dec. 31 last, were $404,860,463. The company has 6,152,404 shades of common stock outstanding and 141,294 shares of preferred stock of $100 par value which it plans to retire before becoming a part of the new corporation. The preferred stock can be redeemed at any time at $110 a share plus accrued and unpaid dividends on 30 days' notice.

Second Largest Unit.

The assets of the Tidewater Associated Oil company, the second largest unit in the proposed merger, aggregated as of June 30, 1931, $239,802,174. This company represents a consolidation of the Associated Oil company, operating mainly on the Pacific coast, and the Tidewater Oil company on the Atlantic coast, and in a moderate way in the mid-continent area. The company has 732,845 shares of $100 par preferred stock and 5,739,258 common shares outstanding.

The balance sheet of the Prairie Pipe Line company as of Dec. 31 last shows total assets of $178,566,409. The capital stock of the company consists of 4,050,000 shares of $25 par outstanding.

The assets of the Prairie Oil and Gas company as of Dec. 31, 1930, totaled $195,962,791. And those of the Rio Grande Oil company, the smallest unit to be included in the proposed merger, as of Dec. 31 last, totaled $53,127,727.

ENGLAND PLANS TO CONCENTRATE COTTON PLANTS

MANCHESTER, England, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Drastic reduction of England's surplus cotton goods plants and "concentration of production" under special law, if needed, are the chief points of the scheme for reorganizing the industry proposed by the joint committee of cotton trade organizations. With the larger share of the far eastern markets gone, the machinery in Lancashire is estimated to have a potential capacity three or four times greater than required for home requirements.

The investigating committee, which made its recommendation after information had been received from nearly all sections of the industry, found that 16 per cent of all spindles have been shut down completely and that mills in operation are working at less than two-thirds their normal capacity. A subcommittee has been appointed to prepare schemes to fit each section of the industry and to ascertain whether and on what terms a loan based on statutory contributions could be raised.

REPORT 27,669 TON DECLINE IN SMELTER COPPER

New York, Aug. 19.—A drop of 27,669 tons in production of smelter copper throughout the world in July in comparison with the same month last year was reported today by the American bureau of metal statistics.

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Aug. 20.—Pool operations in some of the oil stocks, notably the three big Standard issues and Texas corporation, provided about the only dash of color discernible in today's generally drab and listless share market.

Fractional changes were the rule in the price swings and the turnover was the smallest in a week or more, barely topping the million share mark.

The oil pool managers appeared to be trying to make the most possible out of the shutdown in the Texas fields. They were helped also by the action of the Texas corporation yesterday in declaring the regular dividend in spite of the many obstacles that the industry has had to hurdle in the last year or so.

On the other side of the ledger, however, they had to contend with the omission of the preferred dividend by the Shell Union Oil, American unit of the Royal Dutch interest and with the knowledge that the Texas curtailment must necessarily be limited in its effect on the production for the country and Mexico at large.

Feature of Group.

Standard of California was the feature of the group today being boosted nearly two points on the heaviest turnover it has enjoyed in a long time. Standard of New Jersey was a close runner up with the New York issue trailing closely.

Texas corporation set the pace for the independents, moving ahead for an even point. Houston, Atlantic Refining and some of the other lower priced issues trailed in sprightly style.

Selling of General Motors was a feature of the early trading. According to published reports the market received a bid for 10,000 shares of this motor goup leader at 37 too late for execution in yesterday's dealings. A good deal more of the stock than that was to be had at less money in the first hour of trading this morning, but later some show of support was forthcoming and the final price registered a fractional gain for the day. Other automobile issues just about held their own.

Good News to Market.

About the best piece of news the market had was the declaration of the regular dividend of the American Telephone company, but the stock failed to register any of the popular optimism that the directors' action might have engendered.

The fact is that the public is staying severely out of the market now, a fact which is making it very diffi-

Price 98½ and interest, to yield over 4.57%

The Company supplies electric power and light service to eighty communities in southeastern Texas, including Houston and Galveston. The territory served has an estimated population of 405,000. Electric customers served at June 30, 1931, including customers served by properties acquired subsequent to that date, had increased more than 60% over the number reported at June 30, 1926, while electric output had increased more than 150% in the same period. Including operating revenues of properties recently acquired, Operating Revenues (including other income) for the 12 months ended June 30, 1931, were $9,422,818; Operating Expenses, including Maintenance and Taxes, were $4,730,854, and Net Revenues from Operations (including other income) $4,691,964. Annual interest on total bonded debt to be outstanding, after giving effect to present financing, requires $1,297,500.

The Purpose of this Issue is to provide funds for retirement of indebtedness incurred in connection with the acquisition of important electric properties in Galveston and several adjacent communities, and for other corporate purposes. Series E Bonds, in the opinion of counsel, are secured equally with other series outstanding under the Mortgage by a direct first mortgage on all physical property and franchises owned by the Company. The operations of the Company are supervised (under the direction and control of its Board of Directors) by the Electric Bond and Share Company.

The above information is summarized briefly from a circular fully descriptive of this issue which may be had upon request.

It is asked—in times like these:

How are Chicago families reacting to general conditions?... What is the effect on demand for loans? How do borrowers perform under stress?

OUR ANSWER: In boom times people look pretty much alike... but in times of stress good people and good character always stand out. In days like these, people are more thoughtful, more watchful, a little more in earnest... they are cutting the corners, and they watch the cost... If borrowing is in order, they try to make a smaller amount do. (We notice this in a slightly lower average loan.) And when it comes to paying back, Chicago families are quite as faithful in keeping their promises as when things were different... Is it any wonder we like our job?... to make loans to those within the helpful scope of credit, and to see the overwhelming degree of character on the part of so many people, who are making progress in spite of the times and everything.

CHICAGO STOCK PRICES DECLINE DUE TO NEGLECT

Perfect Circle Improves on Income Report.

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Trade news was of a slightly better character yesterday, but interest in stocks on the Chicago exchange waned and prices came down a little more. It was lack of interest rather than any important selling that reduced quotations here. Except in the case of a few shares the buyers got the concessions.

Declaration of the regular dividends by two leading corporations, the slight increase in demand noted by the steel reviews and reports on the oil situation featured the day's news. Apparently on the strength of the oil industry's better outlook the sponsors of Cities Service stock bid the price up to 10¾.

Basis for Movement.

Other issues quoted at better prices included Perfect Circle and Electric Household. Prospect of a fall increase in Electric Household's business was said to be the basis of the current movement of the stock. Perfect Circle again sold at its 1931 high on light trade as the company reported seven months' earnings substantially in excess of the corresponding period last year.

Volume of business placed on the books of the Great Lakes Dredge and Dock company in the first seven months of 1931 was somewhat larger than in the comparable periods in 1929 and 1930, stockholders were informed in a letter accompanying the quarterly dividend checks.

Results from New Policy.

"This situation results from the policy initiated early last year of increasing the volume of work by reducing the margins of profit on different classes with an aim toward maintaining earnings and by working the various craft and equipment as nearly full time as possible in order to absorb depreciation and maintenance charges on the heavy plant investment." It is hoped, the letter adds, that sufficient business is obtained during the remaining five months to give a substantial carryover of work into 1932.

Sale of a membership on the Chicago exchange for $9,500 was reported yesterday. This compares with previous sale price of $10,000.

BULLISH WHEAT REPORTS HOLD PRICES STEADY

Market Is Firm Despite Weakness in Corn.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Unmistakable signs of damage to the European wheat crops by continued wet weather with the forecast for more rain, and intimations that a much larger export business was passing than has been reported counted for little in the wheat market yesterday. Prices, however, held steady with a range of ⅛@¼c with scattered liquidation in the September.

As a matter of fact, the market was regarded as having made an excellent showing in view of the weakness in corn, final trades being ¼c lower to ⅜c higher, with September finishing at 48¾ to 48⅞c, December 55¾c, and May 57⅝c.

Speculative interest in the wheat market was limited, and the bullish influences had little lasting effect, the highest prices of the day being made at the opening and the lowest at the close. According to intimations received from Winnipeg, France has been a heavy buyer of Manitobas in the last few days, reflecting the damage to the crop in that country by the persistent wet weather.

There has also been improvement in the demand for hard winters at the gulf, while the farm board was reported as considering the Chinese government proposal to purchase Stabilization corporation grain on credit.

Better Demand for Wheat.

In the last few days there has been a rapid change in the character of the news from abroad on wheat. Broomhall, a leading European authority, in his first estimate on world's import requirements for the season, estimated Europe has need for 563,000,000 bu foreign wheat, and non-European countries 208,000,000 bu, an aggregate of 776,000,000 bu for the 1931-'32 season, and only 8,000,000 bu less than was actually taken last season. Previous advices had suggested a reduction of around 60,000,000 bu in the import needs.

Russia is expected to furnish 120,000,000 bu of the wheat required by importers this season, or 20,000,000 bu more than in 1930-'31, despite the recent reports suggesting the rationing system would be abandoned early in 1932, and the claims that the yield would be much smaller than in 1930.

Big flour sales were reported in England, and also a better cash demand which caused the Liverpool wheat market to close ¼@¾d higher for the day with October at 57c, or nearly 2c over the nominal basis for No. 1 hard winter at the gulf. Winnipeg was affected by the unfavorable crop comments from abroad and closed ¾@¼c higher with October at 55¾c. In the last few days the basis on Canadian No. 1 northern has advanced 1c relative to the future, and was quoted at ½c over October at the last.

Liquidation in Corn.

Liquidation continues in September corn with a drop of 2¼c yesterday to 42¾c, a new low for the season with stop loss orders uncovered on the way down, while short covering and buying against bids checked the break. The finish was at 42¾c to 42⅞c, showing a net loss of 2c for the day. Deferred deliveries, while showing considerable resistance to pressure also sold at a new low for the season, with December touching 38¼c and closed ⅜@⅝c lower, with December at 43⅝c and May at 43c.

Reports of improvement in the shipping demand for cash corn had little effect, although sales were given as 138,000 bu, and the basis in the sample market at unchanged.

Owing to the low price which is being bid for new No. 4 grades of corn for deferred shipment the trade is inclined to look for a small movement late in the fall. It was pointed out that husking charges based on the price being bid the country was equal to 20@25 per cent of the actual value of the grain to the farmer. On this account it is expected in some quarters that the average farmer will be inclined to do more of his own husking than usual, or else harvest as much of the crop as possible by turning live stock into the fields.

Oats at Bottom.

September oats sold at 20¼c yesterday, a new low since 1899, with scattered selling in evidence in all deliveries. Spreading operations furnished a good part of the day's business. Closing trades were ⅝c lower with September 20¼@20⅝c, December 23½c, and May 25c. The German rye market was reported as strong owing to the absence of stocks of old grain and the disappointing yield of the new. Rye futures here were rather dull and trade mainly in spreading between the various deliveries, with the close ¼@⅝c lower. September being 33¾c, December 37c, and May 41¾c.

WORLD'S GRAIN MARKET NEWS

Increased attention is being given to May wheat, which is absorbed on all weak spots, and investors are taking it as they will not have to change over for 9 months. The trade otherwise is limited. There is less hedging coming into the market as a result of a lighter movement from the country and the low prices. The cash and milling situation is attracting more attention and conditions abroad are said to be working more in favor of May wheat around present price levels.

A feature of the privilege trade in corn after the close was sales of bids on September corn by a house that has traded heavily for the leading holder of the cash grain. Also sales of bids on wheat and corn by a house connected with the Farmers National. The latter was reported as buying September wheat in Minneapolis and selling Chicago September.

One of the rumors afloat yesterday was that the farm board was to ship wheat to China and, should it be refused, the farm board would ship it back to America again. This is only a sample of the various rumors afloat these days regarding the farm board, as a result of the slowness in trading.
